CANADIAN POLITICAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

A SPECIAL ISSUE OF THE CJPS - SUMMER 1973

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE EDITORS OF THE CANADIAN JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE / REVUE CANADIENNE DE SCIENCE POLITIQUE

The editors of the Canadian Journal of Political Science invite their colleagues - particularly those in the Canadian field - who have articles nearing completion to make a special effort to send them their manuscripts in time for inclusion in a special number to be produced on the occasion of the IPSA meeting in Montreal in August. There will not be an issue additional to the regular four numbers; but we are hoping that either the June number or the September number (printed to appear for the meeting) will be overprinted in sufficient numbers for distribution to all visitors. Naturally, we would like the issue to reflect some of the best current writing by Canadian political scientists. A December 1st, 1972 deadline for submission to the Journal will be necessary for the June number and February 1st, 1973 deadline for an "early" September number. Obviously, because we cannot determine at the moment which option we will choose the best advice we can give is:

THE SOONER THE BETTER.

*All correspondence relating to the newsletter
should be directed to the editor:*

This is the third issue of the CPSA Newsletter but the first of a new academic year. It is also the first to be edited in Ottawa. This move brings the Newsletter closer to the CPSA office and therefore greatly facilitates the editing of the newsletter by permitting easy and direct contact between the Association and the Newsletter. However, there is always the danger of "Ottawa isolation", a phenomenon that should be well known to Canadian political scientists. The only way that this isolation can be overcome, and that the Newsletter can become an important and useful source of information is for the Newsletter to become a genuine forum for matters of interest to political scientists in Canada. This can only occur with active participation from the membership. What is happening in political science departments across the country? What are the concerns of political scientists? What is the "political science" position in regard to science policy in Canada, in regard to interdisciplinary studies, in regard to the Canadianization issue? Is there a "political science" position in regard to any of these questions and/or should there be one? The Newsletter can deal with all these questions but it can only do so if people let us know what is happening and let us know what subjects they would like to have information on. This issue reflects the rather low degree of participation at the moment; let's hope it changes soon.

In accordance with the protocol agreed to by the Canadian Political Science Association and the Société canadienne de Science politique, the Newsletter of the CPSA will appear in English while the ScSp's Lettre circulaire appears in French. Therefore, this and future issues of the Newsletter will be in English. An effort will be made to translate and publish important material from the Lettre circulaire of the Société in order that members of the CPSA who do not receive both publications, can be informed of the activities of both organizations.

ORGANIZATION OF THE C. P. S. A.

This year the C. P. S. A. has restructured itself in order to place greater emphasis on the committees of the Board. It is hoped that this will permit the involvement of a greater number of members in the activities of the Association. This is becoming increasingly important in that the C. P. S. A. is being called on more and more to present the position of political science in relation to various issues. In order to do so effectively, more political scientists must become involved in the activities of the Association. This is the intended result of the new system of committees. Each of the committees is regionally based, the only possibility in a country as large as ours and with an Association as poor as ours. We are printing in full the list of the C. P. S. A. Committees so that people will be in a better position to judge the effectiveness of the new system.

THE TREASURY BOARD OF CANADA AND THE MACHINERY OF GOVERNMENT OF THE 1970'S.

LE CONSEIL DU TRESOR DU CANADA ET L'APPAREIL GOUVERNEMENTAL DES ANNEES 1970.

The original article appeared in the September 1971 issue of the Canadian Political Science Journal. This reprint will be of value to those in political science, economics and public administration. For this reason it was chosen as the first example for a proposed series of Canadian Social Science Reprints. In order for this article and the entire series, to be of use, wide distribution must be assured. The article can be obtained by writing the CPSA office (c/o University of Ottawa, 30 Stewart Street, Ottawa, Ontario. K1N 6N5).

COMMITTEE ON THE HIGH SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Last year the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association initiated a study of political science courses being taught in English-language Community Colleges in Canada. At its June meeting the Board established a committee to pursue this investigation and to examine the teaching of political science in Canadian high schools. John Wilson was appointed chairman of this committee and it is now in the process of being formed. It is intended that its members should be drawn from every university in Canada and that its aim should be the preparation of a report on the teaching of political science in high schools and community colleges which will, among other things, be of very great value in helping our graduates find jobs. Anyone who has a special interest in the work of this committee should write to Professor John Wilson, Department of Political Science, University of Waterloo, Waterloo, Ontario.

INTERIM COMMITTEE ON FEDERAL ELECTION SURVEY RESEARCH

At its first meeting following the annual meeting of the Association in Montreal in June, the Board established an interim committee to investigate ways and means of rationalizing federal election survey research in Canada. John Wilson (University of Waterloo) was appointed chairman and the Committee has begun its work by sending a circular to faculty members and Ph.D. candidates in Departments of Political Science, Sociology, Psychology, Anthropology, History, and Economics in all Canadian universities. Everyone should have received this circular from the regional member of the Committee by the middle of September. The members of the Committee, together with the universities they are responsible for enumerating as far as interest in federal election survey research is concerned, are as follows:

All universities in the Atlantic provinces except Moncton.	Susan McCorquodale (Memorial)
Moncton, Laval, UQ à Chicoutimi, UQ à Rimouski, UQ à Trois-Rivières, ENAP	Vincent Lemieux (Laval)
Montreal, UQAM, Sherbrooke	Daniel Latouche (McGill)

Anyone who has not received a copy of the circular by the end of September should get in touch with the member of the Committee covering his university.

NEW AMERICAN PUBLICATION
LEGISLATIVE STUDIES PUBLISHING PROGRAMME ANNOUNCED

The Consortium for Comparative Legislative Studies, recently organized by Duke University, the University of Hawaii, and the University of Iowa, announces the establishment of a new publishing programme in Comparative Legislative Research, to be brought out by Sage Publications (Beverly Hills and London). The programme consists of three series. The Sage Progress Series in Comparative Legislative Research will report the results of collective research activities, including conferences, and other edited, theme-oriented works. One volume (in two separate bound parts) will be published each year. The Sage Series on Legislative Studies will include two book-length studies each year. In addition, a series of eight individual papers annually (ranging in length from 32-96 pages each) will be published in a Comparative Legislative Studies Series--within a larger series ("Sage Research Papers in Political Science") which will be launched in 1973. The general editor for these three series is Malcolm E. Jewell, who will be assisted by an international editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the overall programme is to make possible, in a flexible format, the prompt publication and wide distribution of legislative research that has a comparative perspective. The editors are interested in receiving manuscripts that report cross-national research on legislative systems, institutions, behavior, and outputs. They are also interested in single-nation legislative research, particularly on foreign countries, that tests and develops hypotheses which are significant for comparative research.

The editors welcome contributions from scholars in the United States and other countries. Each manuscript that is submitted will be evaluated by members of the editorial advisory board and/or other well-qualified scholars. Individual papers, as well as book-length manuscripts, should be submitted to:

Malcolm E. Jewell,
Department of Political Science,
University of Kentucky,
Lexington, KY 40506.

The members of the editorial advisory board are Jean Blondel, University of Essex; Ralph E. Crow, American University of Beirut; Haans Daalder, University of Leiden; Gary Hoskin, State University of New York at Buffalo; Robert J. Jackson; Carleton University; Subhash C. Kashyap, Institute of Constitutional and Parliamentary Studies, New Delhi; Allan Kornberg, Duke University; W.H. Morris-Jones, Institute of Commonwealth Studies, University of London; Samuel C. Patterson, University of Iowa; Mogens N. Pedersen, University of Aarhus; Richard Sisson, University of California, Los Angeles; Joel Smith, Duke University.

Standing orders may be placed for any or all of the three series. Individuals and institutions who wish to order, or to receive announcements of forthcoming titles should write Sage Publications, 275 South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California 90212. (From the U.K., Europe, Africa and the Middle East write the London Office: 44 Hatton Garden, London EC1N 8ER)

O D D S & E N D S

The publication "Papers Presented at the C. P. S. A. Annual Meeting 1972" will be available in bound volumes in most university libraries across Canada by the beginning of October (hopefully). This will permit people to use them as reference material for courses. There are only a limited number of copies available so if your university library has not got the publication on standing order, it should do so immediately before all the copies are taken.

Copies of the programme for the International Political Science Association Congress (Sir George Williams University, Montreal, August 19th-25th, 1973) along with pre-registration forms will be sent out shortly to all CPSA members. You are encouraged to return the pre-registration forms as soon as possible as reservations are likely to become hard to get.

Congratulations to Douglas Verney, former president of the Canadian Political Science Association. He has been appointed executive-director of the Social Science Research Council for a mandate of two years.

Letters have been sent to all department heads reminding them of the possibility of having European political scientists teach summer sessions at Canadian universities during 1973, as many of them will be coming over for the IPSA Congress in August. People should consider this possibility and discuss it with their department head.

The next issue of the Newsletter will contain information on data banks of machine readable data in Canadian Universities, relating to political science. Anyone with information on this subject that he or she would like to see included in the Newsletter should send it to the Editor as soon as possible.

We received a suggestion from Lloyd Brown-John (University of Windsor) that the Post Office be approached to issue a special stamp to commemorate the holding of the International Political Science Association Congress in Canada. This was done for the geographers in honour of their International Congress, held in Montreal last August. John Trent has taken up the idea with the Post Office but additional pressure is useful. Therefore, all the political scientists ought to write either directly to the Post Office or to their Member of Parliament encouraging them to issue a special "political science" stamp.

The C. P. S. A. is still pursuing the idea of a social science magazine, to be brought out jointly by the social science associations in Canada. But in order to pursue this, the views of the membership need to be better known. Would such a publication serve a need? Should it serve to increase communication among social scientists, between social scientists and the public, or both at once? Any ideas about a possible social science magazine should be sent in to John Trent, Secretary-Treasurer of the CPSA, c/o University of Ottawa, 30 Stewart Street, Ottawa, K1N 6N5.

The Political Science Department of Lakehead University is developing co-operative activities with the University of Minnesota, Duluth. One of the faculty will give a one semester course in Canadian politics at UMD and one of Duluth's faculty will reciprocate in a subject area not yet decided upon. It would be interesting to hear from departments about other co-operative arrangements of this type.

We hope to receive (this is clearly the major theme of this Newsletter) more information from the CPSA correspondents about their departments and Universities. This could include information on upcoming meetings, on new courses, on new approaches or on just about anything that might be of interest to Political Scientists in Canada.

Notices have gone out encouraging people to participate in the 1973 annual meetings. The annual meetings will not be held this year with the other Learned Societies. Instead they are being held on the two days preceeding the IPSA Congress (the 18th and 19th of August, in Montreal) in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Société canadienne de Science politique. For further information concerning the programme contact Jacques Benjamin, Président du programme, Département de Science politique, Université de Montréal, C.P. 6128, Montréal.

If people want to participate in the meetings and haven't yet sent in their proposals, they should do so as soon as possible. The various chairmen (or rather chairpersons) and their sections are as follows:

| Jim McNiven (Dalhousie) | - Public Administration

PARLIAMENTARY INTERNSHIPS

The Parliamentary Internships Programme is now in its third year of operation. The principle object of the programme from the point of view of the C.P.S.A. was to help graduates of Canadian universities to supplement their academic training with a practical knowledge of Parliaments' functions and the day-to-day work of Members of Parliament, and to share the benefits of the programme with the academic community and the Canadian public at large. The graduates of the first two sessions are already making a significant contribution:

- Aster, Howard: 1971 - is teaching Political Science at McMaster University.
Finn, Jean-Guy: 1971 - is teaching at the Université de Moncton.
Murray, Don: 1971 - is a journalist with the Montreal Gazette.
Thordarson, Bruce: 1972 - is now working for Peter Dobell's Parliamentary Centre for Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade.
Thomas, Paul: 1972 - is teaching Political Science at the University of Manitoba.
Cordeau, Marie: 1972 - is a research assistant for the Ontario Commission on the Legislature.

All of the other Interns have returned to university for further studies. Below is a list of the 1972-73 Interns who are currently engaged in various activities related to the 29th general election. (One is working for the Chief Electoral Officer and the others are working within the organizations of the four political parties.)

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

July 27, 1972.

- CAN YOU HELP -

Mr. J. Banks,
Executive Secretary,
Social Science Research
Council of Canada,
151 Slater Street,
Ottawa 4, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Banks:

Next academic year, beginning on August 14, 1972, I will work as a Visiting Assistant Professor at Indiana University, Bloomington campus. Being a political scientist, I will work in close connection with the University's Department of Political Science, but I will be formally connected to the University's new School of Public Environmental Affairs. I will co-operate with Professor Lynton K. Caldwell, the Arthur E. Bentley Professor of Political Science, who has taken a special interest in the political aspects of the environmental problem.

As part of my preparations, I have read "Canada and the Human Environment", Canada's contribution to the Stockholm Conference on the Human Environment. In Appendix II of the report, on page 91, I found that the SSRC of Canada had been represented on the Preparatory Committee by a Professor E. G. Pleva. That seems to indicate, that Canadian social scientists, maybe also political scientists, have been working on the problem. This is of importance to my own work next year, which will concentrate on a comparative study of environmental policies in Canada, Sweden, and the U. S. (My own doctoral dissertation deals with Swedish Environmental Policy).

What I want to know is what has been done by social scientists in connection to the environmental problem. More specifically, I would like to know what has been done--and what is being done--by Canadian political scientists in this field. I do hope that You, or Professor Pleva, can give me information on this.

You can reach me on the address indicated below from August 14th.

Very sincerely,

Lennart J. Lundqvist,
Visiting Assistant Professor,
School of Public Environmental Affairs,
Indiana University,
Bloomington, Indiana 47401

MANPOWER STUDY

The Canadian Political Science Association is hoping that a study of the manpower situation in Canadian political science will soon get underway. The study will be directed by Fred Engelmann (Alberta) and Dave Cox (Queen's). A grant request has been made to the Department of Manpower and Immigration and the study will, hopefully, soon be able to start. The following description of the project, taken from Fred Engelmann's outline of the research proposal, will acquaint C. P. S. A. members with the general aims of the study.

1. The objective of this survey is to ascertain current information on the manpower situation in Canadian political science. We want to find out the number, fields of study, time schedules and job expectations of all Ph.D. students in political science in Canadian universities, and of Canadian graduates pursuing their Ph.D. in political science outside of Canada. We also want to find out intended areas of appointment in Canadian departments of political science. The end product of our project is to be a composite report of our findings. This is a survey, not an actual placement effort. Our aim is to provide all Ph.D. students in political science and all Canadian departments of political science with this composite information. We have the support of the Canadian Political Science Association and are confident of obtaining the support of prospective respondents, since we intend to present information that will throw light on a market situation now marked by uncertainty on the part of employers. We also want to reduce apprehension--probably justified but unnecessarily uninformed--on the part of prospective employees, all of whom are engaged in a long and costly course of studies.
2. Our proposed survey consists of three parts. First, we want to ask each department of political science in Canada about their former undergraduate and M.A. students now in Ph. D. study outside of Canada, and about the fields of political science in which these Canadian departments intend to make additional appointments. Even given the current market situation, we can think of no better way to collect this demand information. Regarding students outside of Canada, we will attempt to get as much information as possible on those likely to intend to return to Canada. The second part is a lengthy questionnaire to chairmen and graduate studies directors of the 15 universities offering a Ph.D. in political science. It will call for composite information on the department's

Ph.D. programme and possible future development. The third questionnaire will be sent to each individual Ph.D. student. It will ask for his personal assessment of his time schedule, his personal preparation, and for information about his willingness for appointment in universities, colleges, the government, or elsewhere.

At the time the second and third questionnaire are sent out, Professor David Cox (Queen's) and I would commence visits to the 15 departments offering the Ph.D. degree. We would ask for interviews with the chairman and graduate director, and with all individual Ph.D. students, for in-depth comments. We feel that these interviews would have two additional benefits:

1. the weight of some of the answers can best be conveyed in private conversation;
2. we would attain the subjective picture necessary to enrich our report.
