Editor's Corner

Le Bulletin se veut l'outil d'information le plus complet possible sur les publications, les conférences à venir, les offres d'emplois, ainsi que sur les sujets touchant directement la discipline.

Dans le présent numéro, nous incluons des contributions spéciales sur les programmes de stages parlementaires en Ontario et au Canada, sur les publications en sciences sociales au Québec, de même qu'une étude sur l'utilisation des ordinateurs par les membres de l'association.

Le Bulletin innove en incluant une section spéciale "In Memorium" sur les personnes qui ont eu un impact marquant sur le développement des sciences politiques au Canada.

Je profite de l'occasion pour remercier mon assistant, Bill Jory, qui a participé activement à la préparation de ce numéro.

Je sollicite vos suggestions pour les prochaines contributions spéciales au Bulletin.

Merci de votre collaboration,

Alain G. Gagnon
Directeur adjoint

Le mot du rédacteur

The Bulletin provides its readers with comprehensive information on published or soon-to-be published works, upcoming conferences, and other relevant points of interest.

In this issue, brief notes on the Ontario Provincial and the Federal Internships Programs are included along with contributions on the computerization of our discipline, and social sciences in Quebec.

An important addition to the Bulletin is "In Memorium" section, which becomes the center page tribute to Canadians who have had a felt impact on the development of political science.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank my assistant, Mr. Bill Jory, who has assisted me in preparing this issue.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any suggestions for future changes to the present format. I would be glad to receive yours comments.

Thank you for your co-operation in making this effort a success.

1. 1987 Annual Conference

418 persons participated in the programme at our Annual Meetings at McMaster University, amongst whom fully 180 were papergivers (162 in 1986). It was a remarkable conference by any measure and the persons attending were, to our knowledge, very much pleased. Our thanks and congratulations go out to V. Seymour Wilson and his Programme Committee and to George Breckenridge, the local organizer, as well as to the Department of Political Science at McMaster.

A note of reminder: for the 1988 meetings at The University of Windsor, the Programme Chairman is Marsha Chandler and the local representative at Windsor is W.C. (Jake) Soderlund. The dates are June 9, 10, 11, 1988. The Programme Committee met at Toronto on November 20th and we can assure you that the Windsor Programme will be an excellent one! We look forward to seeing you there.

2. Le bureau de direction

A la réunion d'Hamilton en juin dernier, le Bureau de direction a demandé au Comité des finances de se pencher très sérieusement sur le déficit qu'accuse notre Association depuis quelques années et de faire des recommandations appropriées.

At the same time the Board asked the President, John C. Courtney, the President-Elect, David J. Elkins, and Professor Neil Swainson (UVic) to look into the possibility of establishing a Trust Fund as a long-term means of lessening the impact of reducing levels of grants revenues.

La prochaine réunion du Bureau se tiendra le 12 décembre et nous aurons plus de détails à cet égard dans le prochain BULLETIN.

3. Un réseau de politologues hors Université

Certains d'entre nous estiment que l'Association ne répond que faiblement aux besoins des politologues qui n'occupent pas la fonction traditionnelle (chez nous du moins) de professeur d'université et parmi ceux-ci quelques uns (en particulier de l'Outaouais) éprouvent le besoin d'établir des contacts réguliers entre eux. Pour répondre à cette demande Simon McInnes, Directeur (Direction de la politique, Direction générale de la politique et de la Constitution, Secteur de l'Autonomie gouvernementale, Affaires indiennes et du Nord Canada/Policy and Constitution Branch, Self Government Sector, Indian and Northern Affairs, Les Terrasses de la Chaudière, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0H4) et Gerald Schmitz (Library of Parliament Research Branch, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0W9) avec la coopération du Secrétariat travaillant à la constitution d'un réseau de politologues hors Université. Si vous êtes l'un de ceux-ci ou l'une de celles-ci, pourriez-vous nous envoyer votre nom et votre adresse ou encore le nom et l'adresse de personnes intéressées.

4. The Chairpersons Meeting

The Chairpersons will be meeting at Dalhousie on February 5th and 6th 1988. Should you have any question to bring to the attention of the Chairpersons do not hesitate to do so by writing to me at the Secretariat, 12 Henderson Avenue, University of Ottawa, Ottawa, Ontario, K1N 6N5.

5. Le Congrès de l'Association internationale de science politique

Vous n'oubliez pas que le prochain congrès de l'Association internationale de science politique se tiendra à Washington D.C. du 28 août au 1<sup>er</sup> septembre 1988. Pour plus de renseignements communiquer avec l'AISP au 12, Henderson Avenue, Ottawa, Ontario, K1N 6N5 (Linda Vachon, 1-613-564-5818)

6. The Essex Scholarships

Professors Réjean Landry (Laval) and Patrick James (McGill), and Pierre Martin, a Canadian graduate student at Northwestern University, were the 1987 Essex Scholars and spent a minimum of 4 weeks during July and August attending the University of Essex (Colchester, England) Summer School in Data Collection and Analysis. The Association, with a grant provided by the SSHRCC has, for the last 13 years, sent 3 (or sometimes 4) members to this highly-reputed programme. The quality of the candidatures remains extraordinary. Each year a Board-appointed Selection Committee made up of three experts in the area of the scholarship, has a task of Solomon before it. Members are invited to write to the Secretariat, before year-end, so that they may be provided with information in order to complete, by mid-February, applications for the programme which is open to both senior graduate students and to faculty members.

7. The Directory Project

Some very Good News: We are delighted to announce that Professor David Smith of the University of Saskatchewan has agreed to take on the task of carrying forward the DIRECTORY project!

You will remember that the project became stalled after the 1985 draft. The Association has long had a strong sense (and at many levels: Journal Programme Committee membership concerns, etc., etc.) of the urgent need for such a resource. A special grant provided by the SSHRCC will provide Professor Smith with a base for this new start. We know that he can count on your cooperation as he begins to update or renew data.

LOBBYING AND REPRESENTATION

Let me try to give you, in a few paragraphs, a sense of our activities in the area of lobbying and representation.

First, the revision of the 1924 Copyright act: like some other organizations in the higher education sector, we have expressed strong reservations concerning the revision process. The Government wishes to have a first series of amendments to the Act adopted before it submits a second series of amendments, late in the Fall of 1987. We are suggesting to the Minister of Communications that she should outline the nature of the second series of amendments now, so that people may judge the ensemble of changes, rather than having to accept blindly the first set of amendments. The SSFC is also monitoring the revision of the Access to Information and Privacy Acts: in spite of the very precise recommendations of the Commons Committee which made a lengthy and exhaustive review of these statutes, the Government appears to have decided not to enact any significant changes. The SSFC, which supported the position taken by the Commons Committee, will continue to press the issue.

We are also making representations on two other issues: the threat of the cancellation of the postal subsidy of second-class mail and the non-discriminatory fiscal treatment of social science research. A decision regarding the postal subsidy is expected in a few weeks. The fiscal treatment of R&D is a much longer term issue, but I hope that our efforts will soon begin to show positive results.

The working groups on the National Science and Technology Policy represent another important part of the Federation's activities. We have been invited by the chair of the group on Social/Cultural Impacts of Science and Technology to collaborate in defining some aspects of the action plan that each of the seven groups must submit to the Council of Ministers of Science and Technology. We are also developing a brief which will be submitted to the working group on Basic Research.

Finally, I should note that the SSFC was well represented at the Saskatoon Forum on Post-Secondary Education, October 25-28: the President, Past-President, and a few members of the Board of Directors were invited to this major conference. It is too early to say whether there will be any concrete government action as a result of the Forum.

PUBLICATIONS

I am pleased to announce the publication of the Directory of Social Science Research Centres and Institutes at Canadian Universities and of the Proceedings of the National Conference on University Research Centres in the Social Sciences and Humanities. Both publications developed out of the March 1987 Conference organized by the Federation. They are published for the SSFC by the University of Ottawa Press.

ACTIVITES DE LOBBYING ET DE REPRESENTATION

J'aimerais, en quelques lignes, essayer de vous donner une idée des principales activités de la Fédération dans le domaine du lobbying.

Tout d'abord, la révision de la loi de 1924 sur le Droit d'auteur. La Fédération ainsi que plusieurs autres organismes du secteur de l'enseignement supérieur, s'est opposée au processus de révision proposé par le gouvernement; ce processus exige en effet de la part du public un acte de foi envers le gouvernement, puisqu'on voudrait faire adopter de façon définitive une première série d'amendements, sans dévoiler ce que contiendra la deuxième série d'amendements, qui doit être déposée tard cet automne! Nous avons suggéré à la Ministre responsable de dévoiler dès maintenant le contenu de la deuxième série d'amendements, afin que l'on puisse porter un jugement éclairé sur l'ensemble du dossier. Dans la même veine, nous surveillons de près la révision de la Loi sur l'accès à l'information: le Gouvernement, malgré les demandes très précises du Comité des Communes qui avait étudié la loi en profondeur, a adopté une position très prudente, pour ne pas dire peureuse, refusant toute modification significative. La FCSS, qui avait soutenu les positions adoptées par le Comité des Communes, continuera son lobby sur cette importante question.

Nous continuons aussi à faire des représentations sur deux autres dossiers qui affectent directement les chercheurs 1) La menace de suppression du tarif postal de 2<sup>e</sup> classe, qui entraînerait des augmentations de coûts dans la distribution des revues et livres; des décisions à ce sujet devraient être annoncées au cours des prochaines semaines. 2) Le traitement non-discriminatoire de la R&D en sciences sociales: il s'agit là d'un problème qui ne peut être réglé rapidement, mais j'espère que les efforts de la FCSS dans ce domaine commenceront bientôt à porter fruit.

La Fédération est également impliquée très activement dans les travaux des groupes chargés d'élaborer le plan de mise en oeuvre de la Politique nationale de la science et de la technologie. Nous travaillons avec deux de ces groupes - le groupe des Impacts socio-culturels de la science, à qui nous avons soumis un Mémoire, et qui nous a invité à participer à l'élaboration de son plan d'action, et le groupe sur la recherche fondamentale, à qui nous soumettrons très prochainement un Mémoire.

En terminant, je tiens à souligner que la Fédération était bien représentée au Colloque national sur l'enseignement postsecondaire, à Saskatoon, fin octobre. Le Président, le Président-sortant et quelques membres de notre Conseil d'administration participaient à cette importante rencontre. Il est encore trop tôt pour savoir si les gouvernements donneront des suites concrètes au Colloque.

Parliamentary Internships program

Stages parlementaires

The Canadian Political Science Association, in collaboration with the Speaker of the House of Commons and the House Leaders, announces the competition for the Parliamentary Internships Programme 1988-1989.

For the 1986-1987 year, the Programme's Patrons, each contributing $15,000 or more, were the Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association, the Insurance Bureau of Canada, the Public Affairs Resource Group Ltd., and Executive Consultants Ltd., while the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council provided a core administrative grant.

This work-study programme has a threefold aim. It provides back-bench Members of Parliament with highly qualified assistants. It gives university graduates an opportunity to supplement their theoretical knowledge of Parliament with a practical experience of the day to day work of the Members. The graduates of the programme are better able to make a significant contribution of Canadian public life.

The interns' responsibilities include working with Members of the House of Commons, scholarly research, and undertaking study travel.

The internships are open to Canadian citizens who are recent graduates of a Canadian university.

Tenure and income: From September 1988 for a period of 10 months. Estimated $12,000 plus travel subsidies.

We expect to offer 10 internships for 1988-1989. Completed applications must be received no later than December 31, 1987.

For further information and application forms, write to:

L'Association canadienne de science politique, en collaboration avec le président de la Chambre des communes et les leaders de la Chambre, annonce le concours 1988-1989 des stages parlementaires.

Les organismes suivants ont aidé financièrement au soutien du programme pour l'année 1986-1987 par une contribution de 15,000$ ou plus: l'Association canadienne des compagnies d'assurances de personnes, Inc., le Bureau d'assurance du Canada, le Public Affairs Resource Group Ltd., et l'Executive Consultants Ltd. Une subvention du Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines du Canada a défrayé les coûts d'administration.

Le but de ce programme est triple. Il rend service aux parlementaires canadiens en mettant à leur disposition des assistants compétents. Il donne aux stagiaires l'occasion d'améliorer leurs connaissances théoriques du Parlement par la pratique du travail quotidien des députés. Les stagiaires sont en mesure de mieux servir la société politique canadienne.

Les stagiaires travailleront avec les députés, feront de la recherche académique et participeront à des voyages d'études.

Les candidats doivent être de nationalité canadienne et avoir récemment reçu un diplôme d'une université canadienne.

Durée et traitement: Dix mois, à compter de septembre 1988. 12,000$ approximativement en plus des frais de voyage.

Nous choisirons probablement dix stagiaires en 1988-1989. Les candidatures doivent être présentées au plus tard le 31 décembre 1987.

Ontario Legislature Internship Program

Ontario Legislature Internship Program

The 1987-88 Ontario Legislative Interns have begun work in the offices of nine Members of the Legislative Assembly, it was announced recently by Fred Fletcher, the Internship Programme's Academic Director.

The interns and the Members for whom they'll be working for the next four months are: Bohdana Dutka (Floyd Laughren--NDP, Nickel Belt); Doug Greenwood (Doug Reycraft--Lib., Middlesex); Yvonne Lavallée (Margaret Marland--PC, Mississauga South); Jeff Nankivell (Harry Pelissero--Lib., Lincoln); Vic Nishi (Ruth Grier--NDP, Lakeshore); Alison Pipa (Brad Nixon--Lib., York Mills); Jerald Owczar (Charles Beer--Lib., York North); Laurie Stone (Richard Johnston--NDP, Scarborough West); and Kim Weslak (Rob Runciman--PC, Leeds).

The interns will be working with these Members until the end of February, when they will cross the floor to work for Members on the opposite side of the House. The interns work full time at the Legislature from September through June and are paid a monthly stipend.

Funding for the programme is provided by the Assembly, the Canadian Political Science Association (CPSA) and through private donations. For 1987-88, a stipend for a ninth intern has been provided by the Committee of '94, a women's group devoted to increasing the representation of women in Canadian legislatures. The Committee's stipend offers an opportunity for mature women with an interest in entering the political process.

The internship programme, which was founded in 1976, is administered by a committee consisting of the Academic Director, Assistant Director Graham White of the University of Toronto, and three legislative co-ordinators at Queen's Park: Doug Arnott, John Eichmanis and Ellen Schoenberger.

Interns are selected on the basis of superior academic performance and other achievements by a non-partisan committee appointed by the CPSA. This year's interns come from a variety of backgrounds:

Bohdana Dutka (B.A. Hons., University of Manitoba; M.Phil, University of Sussex, England).

Doug Greenwood (B.A., University of Toronto)

Yvonne Lavallée (Degree in progress, University of New Brunswick)

Jeff Nankivell (B.A., University of Toronto and Université Laval; M.Sc. in progress, London School of Economics)

Victor Nishi (B.Sc., Queen's University; M.Sc., University of Calgary)

Jerald Owczar (B.A. Hons., University of Manitoba)

Alison Pipa (B.A., University of Toronto; M.Sc., London School of Economics)

Laurie Stone (B.A. Hons., University of Saskatchewan)

Kimberly Weslak (B.A., University of Toronto; M.A., McMaster University)

Job opportunities/Offres d'emplois (cont'd)

THE UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY

SHASTRI INDO-CANADIAN INSTITUTE

The Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute, as part of its Canadian Studies Programme, is accepting applications from Canadian political scientists interested in undertaking a lecture tour in India. The visit to India will be of about four weeks' duration, and will take place some time between October 1988 and March 1989. The Head Office of the Institute will arrange and pay for the international travel of the scholar selected; all in-India travel costs and maintenance will be borne by the Indian University Grants Commission.

Scholars whose area of expertise is in Canadian politics are invited to apply by letter. The letter should be accompanied by an updated C.V., dates between October 1988 and March 1989 during which a four week visit could be arranged, a list of lecture topics, and any other pertinent information. The deadline for receiving completed applications is March 15th, 1988. Please address same to:

CANADA'S LEGISLATURE INTERNSHIP PROGRAMS

Frederick J. Fletcher and Ruth A. Flynn

Each year at a growing number of legislatures across the country, a small group of highly qualified university graduates arrives to begin a unique educational experience. Between 40 and 50 of Canada's most promising graduates are selected from 600 or more applicants to serve as interns in Parliament and five provincial legislatures. The programs themselves vary in both administration and organization, each adapting a structure which is appropriate for its own legislative environment. The Interns will work long, hard hours assisting legislators as well as learning valuable new work skills.

The purpose of this paper is to examine the evolution and current operation of all interns programs and to assess the degree to which the programs have achieved their stated objectives. Our conclusion is that the internship programs have indeed proven to be a notable success, whether measured in terms of the educational benefits to the interns, assistance to Members, or contribution to public understanding (assessed by examining career paths of former interns).

Internships are an outgrowth of the apprenticeship system in the crafts and trades. In the United States, internships, as defined by today's terms, emerged in the 1940's; but it was not until the 1960's that the programs truly blossomed. Canadian internship programs have been most influenced by the program operating in Congress as well as 24 U.S. state legislatures. The American programs are referred to as "fellows programs" thus distinguishing them from a vast array of work-study "internship" programs.

The fellows programs are similar to their Canadian counterparts in that they are only open to graduates; pay a stipend; are awarded through a competitive process, and they are heavily competed for. However, the Canadian programs, while inspired by the American example, have evolved quite independently.

Discussions concerning a proposed internship program for Canada finally culminated in a motion proposed by Alf Hales (M.P. Wellington) on March 10, 1969. After gaining the support of the Canadian Political Science Association (CPSA), the Donner Canadian Foundation, the Speaker and House Leaders, the motion formed the basis for the Parliamentary Internship Program (PIP). Recognizing the merit of such a program, provincial counterparts were established in Alberta and Quebec (1974); and British Columbia and Ontario (1976). After some years of effort, programs were later established in Manitoba (1985) and Nova Scotia (1986). Their very creation attests to the success of the older programs.

In contrast to the U.S. programs, the Canadian programs stress the benefits to the host institutions and their Members and to society in general as well as to the individual Interns themselves. The emphasis in Canada on service to the Members underscores the fact that internships are a part of an effort to increase the policy role of the Private Members. In fact, the Ontario program was part and parcel of a package of parliamentary reforms recommended by the Ontario Commission on the Legislature (Camp Commission) designed to strengthen the role of the Private Member.

Each program has developed a structure which is appropriate to its own legislative environment. The two CPSA sponsored programs (PIP and OLIP) are each administered by a Director appointed by the CPSA Executive Committee for a three year term. The Directors are assisted by legislative officials in the day-to-day operation of the programs but are accountable for financial and policy matters to the CPSA. The PIP Director is assisted by a CPSA appointed Policy Committee of academics and a parliamentary committee representing both the CPSA and the Speaker of the Assembly.

A second model -exemplified by Alberta and B.C.- involves administration by the Speaker of the Assembly. In Alberta, the Speaker is the administrator of the program and the Chairman of the Program's Selection and Advisory Committee. The Committee consists of a representative of the government and opposition caucuses and the Universities of Alberta, Calgary, and Lethbridge. The Executive Assistant to the Speaker handles the day-to-day tasks. Similarly, in British Columbia, the Administrative Assistant to the Speaker administers the daily operations while the Academic Director deals solely with the academic component of the program.

The programs in Nova Scotia and Manitoba represent a third model. In both cases, the Academic Director is the chief operating officer, assisted by the staff in the Speaker's office. However, the Academic Director is responsible to the Assembly through a committee. The Manitoba program is overseen by a steering committee chaired by the Director. It is made up of the Director, the Speaker, and the Clerk of the Assembly and two MLAs representing the political parties. The Committee appoints the Academic Director. In Nova Scotia, the Select Committee on the Procedure of the Legislature appoints the Academic Director.

Special attention must be given to the Quebec program. The Quebec National Assembly was host to a program from 1974-76 and from 1979-86. The first program, funded by the Donner foundation, was highly successful in terms of serving Members and attracting qualified applicants. However, the program which was closely modelled on PIP folded when private funding could not be found. In 1979 four interns were funded under the auspice of the Fondation Jean-Charles Bonenfant, itself publicly funded. With the change in Government in 1985 the Assembly suspended its grant to the Foundation pending a full review of the program.

PIP is the only program which is funded primarily from private sources, and consequently it has a number of financial crises. OLIP originally sought to be privately funded, but was forced to abandon this objective when the program failed to maintain a 20% level of private funding during the recession. All of the provincial programs with the exception of B.C. have some measure of private support or intend to pursue it. Private funding, therefore, is supplementary to the programs overall budgets. The programs receive the bulk of their funding from the budgets of their respective Assemblies.

The programs, however, are a bargain from any standpoint. For between $1,250 and $2,250 (including overhead) per month for each Intern, legislators obtain staff assistance they could not hire for that amount. Indeed, as former MP Cyril Symes has observed, assistants with the qualifications and the motivation of the Interns can only rarely be hired for the full-time salaries that legislators can pay. From an educational standpoint, it would be difficult to maintain Interns in graduate programs for that cost, when fellowships and overhead costs are considered.

The Selection Committees vary, each reflecting its own legislative environment. The criteria for selection, however, along with the actual procedures for the selection of interns are strikingly similar. Personal maturity, academic excellence, interest in and knowledge of parliamentary government are a few of the factors taken into consideration by the Selection Committees. Personal characteristics, such as judgement and capacity to work in a group, play an important role in the final interviews.

The interns work either directly for individual Members (Ottawa, Queen's Park and Quebec City) or for the party caucuses, usually with the research staffs. The Alberta program is a mix of the two. In B.C. and Nova Scotia, the Interns work as researchers in the civil service for 6-8 weeks before moving to the Legislature. This is an adaptation to the short sittings and the relatively inactive committee systems of those two legislatures, but it has the advantage of providing a broader perspective for the Interns.

In the Federal, Ontario, and Alberta programs the Interns "cross the floor" dividing their time equally between the Government and the Opposition, thus ensuring that the Interns gain a true understanding of the roles of both the Government and Opposition. The practice of switching also underscores the non-partisan and professional nature of the programs. Confidentiality is protected by contractual agreements or oaths of secrecy and there have been very few problems over the years. The B.C., Nova Scotia, and Manitoba interns are assigned to a caucus and they remain with that caucus, the interns have the advantage of gaining yet another perspective on the inner workings of the legislature. Nevertheless, both Nova Scotia and Manitoba are exploring the possibility of their interns crossing the floor.

The exact nature of the Interns work depends upon the needs of the Member or caucus.

Often the Interns spend their time writing speeches, briefing notes, constituency letters and newspaper columns, composing background papers on policy issues, drafting Private Members' bills and resolutions and handling queries from constituents. Some have played important roles in committee hearings, acted as co-ordinators for party task forces or helped organize leadership races or re-election campaigns. In all of the programs, much of the day-to-day administration of the programs is delegated to the interns themselves.

The academic component of the program is an important one. Many of those associated with the programs believe they are easily the equal of any Masters' program. Indeed, academic credit is often available to Interns, but it must be worked out with individual universities. In Alberta, the Interns themselves serve as guest lecturers in seminars at the participating universities.

The academic structure of the programs has six elements: readings, orientation, diary, faculty, guidance, seminars, and a research paper. Exchange visits, although contingent upon funding available, are of immense educational value. The Interns not only learn about other legislatures but they also gain a new perspective concerning their own legislature. The importance of this cannot be underscored. The research papers are an important part of the program and they constitute one of the legacies left by each group of interns. The papers often deal with subjects neglected or not yet covered by scholars and procedural specialists. The federal program specifies that the papers be of publishable quality and quite a number of papers have in fact been published. The Alberta program has published a volume of its papers and OLIP is planning a similar project. Several papers prepared by the Quebec Interns have appeared in Le Bulletin de la Bibliothèque de l'Assemblée Nationale. The papers constitute a valuable source of material for scholars and others interested in the legislative process as well as comparative provincial politics.

In general, the programs have been outstandingly successful, by almost any measure, in meeting their objectives. All of the programs can produce glowing testimonials from Members who have had interns. More revealing, however, is the fact Members continue to apply for Interns in numbers far greater than the available supply- despite the increased resources which have been made available to many legislators. In addition, the continued financial support or the programs form the provincial (including the reinstatement of the Quebec program 1979) is testimony to their popularity and success. The Manitoba legislature has agreed to extend its program from 10-12 months, after less than two years of operation.

The educational benefit to the Interns themselves can perhaps be expressed by Howard Astor, a former federal Intern, now a professor of political science. He stated that "I have learned more about politics during the past 10 months... in the past five years of university study." While the impact of the programs on parliamentary reform is a bit more difficult to discern, there is no doubt that the Interns have served to both strengthen and raise the profile of the Private Member.

By examining the career patterns of past interns, one can also discern that the original goal of creating a body of knowledgeable young people to bridge the wide gulf which exists between academic, business, government, labour and the population at large has been achieved. A 1982 Ontario survey found that virtually all of the program's graduates were either employed in positions where they could apply the knowledge gained in their internship or engaged in study in advanced fields. Former interns include journalists Jeffrey Simpson and Christopher Waddell (Globe and Mail); government-business specialists such as Peter McBride of Falconbridge or Tema Frank (whose clients have included the Canadian Bankers Association). The academic world has reaped the benefits of the internship program as interns have completed their studies at Harvard, Oxford, Cambridge and Cornell; at least two interns were Rhodes Scholars. Many decided to remain in academia: Catherine Swinton (associate Dean of Law, University of Toronto), Paul Thomas, (University of Manitoba and Director of the Manitoba Internship Program), David Taras (University of Calgary), and Graham White (University of Toronto). Some interns have pursued careers in the civil service, become researchers for organizations such as labour unions; others have run for public office- two have been elected (as Mayor of Victoria and Judy Wascylcia-Leis, a member of the Manitoba Cabinet to date).

Perhaps the strongest evidence of the success of the internship programs is their survival despite various economic recessions as well as governmental spending restraints. The caucuses and their Members continue to request interns. Professors continue to suggest the program to their best students; former interns highly recommend the program; and students of outstanding quality to apply. Programs that can satisfy students, professors, Members of Parliament and their caucuses, and sponsors must be doing something right.

WORKSHOPS/ATELIERS

SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH COUNCIL

The Social Science Research Council announces the First Annual Workshop on Soviet Domestic Politics and Society. The Workshop will be held June 5-18, 1988 at Massey College University of Toronto, and will be directed by Professor Peter Solomon of the University of Toronto. Professor Thane Gustafson of Georgetown University will serve as Associate Director.

The Program: The program of the Workshop will include seminar discussions of participants' own research as it relates to Soviet domestic politics and society. In addition, senior specialists will lead participants in discussions of the historical record and current experience with policy change and in an examination of the utility of new sources and methods which are available for analysing the process of change.

Financial Assistance: Workshop costs, including transportation and stipends for participants will be provided by the SSRC. Housing will be provided at the University of Toronto.

Deadline: Applications must be postmarked no later than 15 February 1988. Those chosen to participate will be notified by 31 March 1988.

The 1988 Summer Workshop will be conducted subject to the availability of funds. Inquiries and requests for application forms should be addressed to:

In Memorium

Crawford Brough Macpherson
1911-1987

Macpherson was born and raised in Toronto. Upon completion of his undergraduate studies in Political Science and Economics at the University of Toronto in 1933, he pursued graduate studies at the University of London, receiving his M.Sc. in Economics in 1935. From that year until his retirement in 1977, he taught at the University of Toronto, Department of Political Science; the continuity of his association with the University being interrupted only for a brief period during World War II. His published work in political theory earned him the higher doctorate of the University of London, the D.Sc. (Econ.) in 1955.

He was President of the Canadian Political Science Association and the Canadian Association of University Teachers. He served on the Executive of the International Political Science Association and chaired for several years the Conference for the Study of Political Thought, a prestigious international political theory society. His service to the University of Toronto included chairing the Presidential Advisory Committee on Undergraduate Education which led to the restructuring of the undergraduate curriculum in the Faculty of Arts and Science in 1966-67.

Macpherson was appointed officer of the Order of Canada in 1976; he was elected Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Royal Historical Society, England. In 1975, he received the title University Professor at this University.

Visiting professorships, conferences and lecture invitations brought him to many parts of the world: England, Europe, the United States, Latin and Central America, Australia, Japan and the Middle East. He was Visiting Research Fellow, Institute of Advanced Studies, Australian National University; Visiting Professor, Institute of Jerusalem, and a Fellow of Churchill College, Cambridge. He received numerous honorary degrees.

Macpherson's books include: Democracy in Alberta: Social Credit and the Party System; The Political Theory of Possessive Individualism: Hobbes to Locke; The Real World of Democracy, the Massey Lectures; Democratic Theory: Essays in Retrieval; The life and Times of Liberal Democracy; Burke, the Past Masters series; The Rise and Fall of Economic Justice and Other Essays. He edited with an introduction Thomas Hobbes' Leviathan; edited and contributed to Property, Mainstream and Critical Positions; edited with an introduction John Locke's Second Treatise of Government. C.B. Macpherson's works have been translated into German, Spanish, French, Italian, Portuguese, Japanese, Swedish and Danish.

1. A Memorial Service was held for C.B. Macpherson on 30 September, 1987 at the University of Toronto.
  2. A plenary session of the Canadian Political Science Association's meeting at the Learned's is scheduled for Thursday, June 9 at 1:30. Directly following the Plenary there will be in the Political Theory section, a roundtable on C.B. Macpherson's work.

Les sciences sociales au Québec

par Yvan Lamonde

LES SCIENCES SOCIALES AU QUÉBEC*

par Yvan Lamonde

L'édition dans les sciences sociales atteste clairement d'une réalité gommée ces année-ci: les sciences sociales sont branchées sur le réel, en prise directe sur la vie immédiate. La mutation de la famille, de la modernité et de la paternité, le défi démographique et psycho-social du vieillissement et de la jeunesse, les tendances de l'environnement urbain, ethnique et linguistique, l'évolution des paramètres de la santé et du travail constituent autant de domaines sur lesquels l'édition québécoise en science sociales jettera quelque lumière cette année.

Le programme d'édition de l'Institut québécois de recherche sur la culture (IQRC) est, à ce titre, révélateur des tendances. L'IQRC publiera deux ouvrages sur la famille: Des mères sans alliance, de Renée Dandurand, sur la famille monoparentale, qui a aussi dirigé la parution du numéro 13 de Questions de culture sur les "Nouvelles tendances de la vie familiale". Les éditions Saint-Martin scrutent "la famille en question" avec trois titres: un collectif d'auteurs intitulé Un amour de père sur la nouvelle paternité; une étude d'Andrée Fortin sur l'évolution de la famille québécoise, Histoires de familles et réseaux, et Accoucher autrement, sous la responsabilité de Michel O'Neil et Francine Saillant. Les PUM annoncent, d'Anna-Beth Doyle, L'Enfant et le stress familial et Leméac réédite en poche l'essai-pionnier de Maurice Champagne-Gilbert, La Famille et l'homme à délivrer du pouvoir.

Ironiquement, Québec/Amérique annonce les deux titres suivants: Femmes de pouvoir en Europe, des interviews par Gilbert Tarrab, et Femmes et pouvoir au Québec sous la responsabilité d'Andréanne Lafond.

L'homme, la femme, l'enfant, la famille, le temps et la mort. Un retour de valeurs universelles. L'IQRC annonce un "diagnostic" de Yves Martin et de Jacques Henripin sur Le Vieillissement de la population et une monographie de Marie-Marthe Brault, Du loisir à l'innovation, sur les associations volontaires de personnes retraitées. Les PUL couplent l'universel et le particulier avec Vieillir à travers le monde, de Georges Létourneau et Renaud Santerre, et une étude de Serge Gagnon, Mourir hier et aujourd'hui au Québec. Les PUM, fort actives, offrent une vue panoramique qui va de la Naissance d'une population en Nouvelle France, du démographe Hubert Charbonneau, aux Soins palliatifs pour personnes en phase terminale, d'Anne Mouren-Mathieu.

Quelle vieillesse, mais aussi quelle jeunesse? Yves Lamontagne a dirigé un collectif sur La Jeunesse québécoise et le phénomène des sans-abri (PUQ) et Shirley Roy publie, chez Saint-Martin, Hommes clochards et femmes itinérantes; Michel Dorais cherche le sens des Enfants de la prostitution (VLB) et Jean-Guy Nadeau publie, chez Fides, La Prostitution: une affaire de sens.

Le temps, la vieillesse, la jeunesse. L'espace aussi. L'espace urbain scruté par Richard Morin dans la Réanimation urbaine (PUQ), sous un titre qui promet: Montréal graffiti out (VLB), de Jeanne Demers et Line McMurray qui regardent l'autre Montréal, et dans Le Tourment des formes, d'Alain Médam (HMH), qui est le tourment du cosmopolitisme montréalais. L'espace ethnique: Les Chinois de Montréal, de Denise Helly (IQRC), puis Trajectoires d'émigrés juifs marocains à Montréal (VLB), de M. Berdugo, Y. Cohen et J. Lévy.

L'espace linguistique avec le diagnostic attendu d'une décennie, La Politique linguistique du Québec, 1977-1987, de Michel Plourde (IQRC), et Le Débat linguistique au Québec: la communauté italienne et la langue d'enseignement, de MM. Taddeo et Taras (PUM). L'espace social, enfin celui de L'Evolution des politiques sociales au Québec, 1940-1960 (PUM), de Yves Vaillancourt; l'espace de la santé: Pour une approche critique du droit de la santé (PUM), sous la responsabilité d'Andrée Lajoie et de Patrick Molinari; et l'espace du travail: Travailler comme des robots, d'André Blette, et Psychologie et nouveaux milieux de travail, sous la direction d'André Larocque (PUQ); Pour un travail à sa mesure, un collectif sur la réinsertion professionnelle (Fides), et Les Grèves au Canada: causes et conséquences (PUM), de Robert Lacroix, dont le titre crée toute une attente. Puis, chez Bellarmin, une réflexion théologique d'André Beauchamp et de Julien Harvey: Repères pour demain. Avenir et environnement au Québec.

On lira aussi des oeuvres de maturité d'hommes d'une génération déjà à l'oeuvre avant le Grand Jour de 1960: le premier de quatre volumes de Léon Dion sur le Québec de 1945 à 2000, A la recherche du Québec (PUL); une étude du toujours perspicace Dominique Clift sur la "personnalité canadienne", Le Pays insoupçonné (Libre Expression); un Fernand Dumont sur Le Sort de la culture, et un Marcel Rioux, Chroniques d'une saison à la Renardière (Hexagone).

L'ex-député libéral d'Ahuntsic, Jean-Paul Lefebvre, nous situera Entre deux fêtes à propos de la politique québécoise de 1966 à 1976 (Stanké). Marc-Henri Soulet fera une radioscopie "française" des intellectuels québécois dans Le Silence des intellectuels (Saint-Martin). Le silence sera peut-être rompu! Les Mémoires de l'historien Marcel Trudel, l'auteur d'un Chiniquy et de L'Influence de Voltaire au Canada au début des années 50, évoqueront peut-être un autre silence (Boréal). Puis, enfin, un Fernand Séguin, La Bombe et l'orchidée chez Libre Expression.

On annonce encore quelques "sommets". De grands instruments de recherche: le dernier volume du Dictionnaire des oeuvres littéraires du Québec (1970-1979) chez Fides; le monumental Atlas historique du Canada tome I, des origines à 1800, aux PUM; un volume des Archives des lettres canadiennes (Fides) sur Le Nigog de 1918; la précieuse Bibliographie de l'histoire du Québec et du Canada (1946-1965), de P. Aubin et L.-M. Côté, à l'IQRC; deux volumes de Correspondance de Paul-Émile Borduas et un Joseph Lenoir dans la "Bibliothèque du Nouveau Monde" des PUM. Deux sommes théoriques aux PUQ: Contributions à la critique de la raison politique, de Simon Laflamme, et Face aux Colbert. Les Letellier, Vauban, Turgot et l'avènement du libéralisme, de Luc-Normand Tellier. Deux sommes méthodologiques: Méthodologie des sciences sociales, d'Omar Aktouf (PUQ), et Introduction aux méthodes historico-critiques, de Mireille Brisebois (Fides).

L'édition en histoire délaissée, cette année, le 19e siècle québécois, à l'exception d'un collectif, Contributions à l'étude du régime seigneurial canadien (HMH), d'une Introduction à l'histoire des sports au Québec (VLB), de Donald Guay, et d'un aperçu sur Sciences et médecine au Québec: perspectives socio-historiques (IQRC), de Y. Gingras, M. Fournier et O. Keel. Trois titres sur la Nouvelle-France: André Lachance, La vie urbaine en Nouvelle-France (Boréal), Marie-Aimée Cliche, La Dévotion en Nouvelle-France (PUL), et un volume d'iconographie de Denis Martin, Portraits des héros de la Nouvelle-France (HMH). L'image est aussi le souci de Pierre Desruisseaux qui a traduit et présente Le Québec en images (HMH), de G. M. Grant, qui voyage au Québec en 1860, et de C. Paulette, P. Lalonde et M. Tremblay, qui ont préparé un Québec à ciel ouvert (Libre Expression), en photographies aériennes, comme Pierre Salinger l'a fait pour Paris.

Jacques Rouillard, le meilleur spécialiste du domaine, publiera une Histoire du syndicalisme au Québec, (Boréal), VLB annonce la publication posthume du grand cours d'histoire (Les Normes) de Maurice Séguin, inspirateur du mouvement indépendantiste contemporain, et la traduction de l'étude de Merrily Weisbord, Le Rêve d'une génération. Les communistes canadiens, les procès d'espionnage et la guerre froide. Trois titres, enfin, sur l'histoire internationale: L'Industrie américaine fin-de-siècle, de Bertrand Bellon et Jorge Niosi (Boréal); Capitalisme, société et culture au Japon: la première industrialisation, des origines à 1919, de Bernard Bernier (PUM), et Les Tisserands de l'histoire, une histoire du Commonwealth au moment où son auteur, Arnold Smith, y remplissait des fonctions de responsabilité (Trécarré).

On annonce quatre biographies: un Nelligan de Paul Wyczynski (Fides), un Ludger Duvernay de Denis Monière (Québec/Amérique), une Biographie de Justine Lacoste-Beaubien, de Madeleine Desrivières, et un Jacques Marquette découvre le Mississipi, de Lucien Campeau (Bellarmine).

Trois autres convergences, enfin: le politique, le technique et l'organisation. L'Hexagone annonce Autorité politique et libertés, de Yves Roy; Pouvoir, justice et non-mépris, de Gilles Lane. Denis Monière, prolifique, publiera une Introduction aux théories politiques (Québec/Amérique) et Edmond Orban, une étude attendue en français sur Le Système politique des Etats-Unis. Dans la collection "Positions philosophiques", l'Hexagone publie La Science comme mythe, de Yvon Johannisse, et Pour en finir avec Darwin et les théories de l'évolution, de Gilles Lane, tandis que Boréal annonce, de Christian Miquel et Guy Ménard, Les Ruses de la technique, perçue dans sa symbolique. Deux ouvrages enfin sur les organisations: de Jean Mercier, Les Québécois et les organisations (Hexagone), et une étude d'Adrien Payette sur l'efficacité des cadres et des organisations (PUQ).

Bonne Lecture!

The Computerization of Canadian Political Science

Gernot Köhler/Sheridan College

A survey of Canadian political scientists conducted in February of 1987 shows a number of interesting facts about the computerization of the profession and the actual uses made of computers in everyday professional life. The survey was in the form of a questionnaire which was mailed to the members of the Canadian Political Science Association (non-institutional membership 1,070).

Highlights of the survey:

1. Between 1971 and 1987 the share of computer users in the profession increased from 21 percent to an estimated 70 to 86 percent.
2. Microcomputers are more widely used than mainframes by a ratio of over 2 : 1. Micros are used by 88 percent and mainframes by 40 percent of all computer users. 27 percent use both.
3. The major areas of computer application by political scientists are:

Publishing	93
Clerical	90
Research	84
Teaching	72
Communications	33
Games & Personal	31
Management	28
	(N 171)

4. These broad categories are a summary description of the following activities (based on N 171 computer users):

92	prepare draft manuscripts (papers, books, etc)
89	write letters or memos
64	compile bibliographic information
62	prepare final manuscripts for reproduction
54	generate tests and exams
52	keep notes
51	file letters or other documents
48	analyze statistical data
44	construct databases
38	generate assignments for students
34	keep student files
33	prepare mailing lists or labels
27	design questionnaires
27	search online databases provided by other organizations
27	prepare graphics
27	prepare timetables
23	inter-office mail within a university or place of work
21	play games
21	exchange messages with persons outside one's university or place of work

- 19 prepare budgets
  - 18 teach computer skills; programming, etc.
  - 17 electronic communication with persons outside of place of work--Canada-wide
  - 14 Electronic mail between home and office
  - 14 produce typesetting for the printing of books, journals, etc.
  - 9 electronic communication with USA
  - 9 write personal letters, X-mas cards, keep personal addresses
  - 8 prepare course outlines, bibliographies and other course materials handed out to students
  - 6 decision-making
  - 6 construct computer models
  - 5 electronic communication with overseas
  - 4 store lecture notes
  - 4 use CAI or CMI--computer-assisted instruction, computer-managed instruction
  - 4 personal financial uses, incl. for taxes, mortgage, etc.
  - 3 store recipes
  - 2 educational programs for children
  - 2 develop or use artificial intelligence or expert systems
  - 1 decision analysis
- less than 1 percent each: "Other", including:
 manage wine cellar; CV/resume;
 diary; store songs and poems;
 medical records; house league
 hockey records

5. Off-beat uses: "We have two computers at home. I use one as a bookend and the other (portable) as a weight to hold the carpet down."

6. Computer Users' Suggestions to CPSA:

How many?

What?

- 55% 1. PUBLISH information on available
  - (a) software, including software reviews;
  - (b) networks and communications (e.g. BITNET);
  - (c) Databases (incl. online; national; international; cost; location; access; up-to-date bibliographical);
 in the form of
  - (a) a review section in CJPS; or
  - (b) in the Bulletin; or
  - (c) as a separate newsletter for micro-users; or
  - (d) on line including the publication of "buy-sell" ads
- 19% 2. COMPUTERIZE the Canadian Journal of Political Science (CJPS) including:
  - (a) accept articles on diskette or via BITNET/NETNORTH;
  - (b) provide online author-title-keyword database of CJPS; put CJPS online; disseminate conference papers via database
- 15% 3. ESTABLISH a user group, network or bulletin board fostering cooperation and exchange between members (possibly via BITNET)

- 11% 4. PUBLISH a directory of Canadian Political Scientists (or CPSA members), including address, phone #, research interests, on-going research--in the form of:
  - (a) print; or
  - (b) online; or
  - (c) on diskettes
- 6% 5. DEVELOP a Canadian database or on-line index, including Canadian journals; publications on Canadian politics; publications by Canadian political scientists
- 4% 6. ENCOURAGE development of CAI, e.g. data analysis exercises
- 2% 7. HELP FIND volunteer abstractors for an existing bibliographic database operation
- 2% 8. DO NONE OF THE ABOVE since it is not going to help French speaking colleagues in any way

Brief News

Nouvelles brèves

STUDYING AUSTRALIAN POLITICS IN CANADA

The study of Australia is a growth industry within Canada! On Saturday morning, June 6, approximately 30 people attended a session on "Public Policy Research in Canada and Australia" as part of the annual meeting of the CPSA.

The session was also attended by two distinguished colleagues from Australia who have made the "Canadian-Australian connection" from the opposite direction: Dr. Brian Galligan (Australian National University and President of the Association for Canadian Studies in Australia and New Zealand) and Dr. Ken Wiltshire (University of Queensland, a founder of ACSANZ).

Several important points come out of this gathering. First of all, its success demonstrates a widespread interest in Australia in the Canadian political science discipline (and in related disciplines, since at least one historian and one economist "crashed" the meeting!) In passing, John Courtney reminded the meeting that there appears to be a degree of asymmetry in the relationship between the two countries in "the public sector": Canadian experiences with a wide range of problems and Canadian policies in response to them are often looked at by Australian authorities, but Canadian authorities look to Australia less frequently. Perhaps the Canadian discipline can assist in adjusting this balance.

Secondly, the group indicated its firm desire to establish an on-going network through which political scientists in Canada with interests in Australia can stay in contact with one another and can share matters of mutual interest. One of the subsequent goals of the network will be to take stock of the full extent of research on Australian politics in Canada and the range of political science courses with significant Australian content in Canadian universities.

Thirdly, the possibility of organizing a joint workshop involving the CPSA and the Australasian Political Studies Association (APSA) was raised. This question will be addressed to the CPSA Board by Robert Williams in the near future.

Those who may be interested in joining the network or who may wish to pass along messages to colleagues in Canada about their Australian research may do so through its soon-to-be published newsletter, should write to either

NOTES FROM THE WOMEN'S CAUCUS* OF THE CPSA

At our meeting of the Learned in Hamilton this year, the Caucus decided that our effort this year should be concentrated on exchanging useful information through a circular letter in late Fall 1987 and Spring 1988. We focussed on two kinds of information that would be particularly interesting to share: i) information on the variety of university initiatives that exist to encourage the hiring of women professors and, ii) information on initiatives that exist in introducing feminist material and/or feminist perspectives in Political Science courses of all kinds. Some of you may have already been contacted by Caroline Andrew who has written to individuals in departments across the country soliciting information related to the above concerns. Anyone wishing to contribute to this project, please contact

Professor Caroline Andrew, Department of Political Science, University of Ottawa, Ottawa, Ontario, K1N 6N5. Should you be interested in receiving the circular letter, contact Professor Isabella Bakker, Department of Political Science, York University, 4700 Keele Street, North York, Ontario, M3J 1P3.

*All women involved in the Political Science profession as both students and teachers are invited to participate in the Caucus' activities.

Awards Bourses

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH CENTRE/
CENTRE DE RECHERCHES POUR LE DEVELOPPEMENT
INTERNATIONAL

Eleven female and 10 male graduate students have been selected to conduct their proposed research projects in developing countries. The awards, offered through the Young Canadian Researchers program of the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), will give each recipient up to $20,000 for a period of 12 months or less.

The competition is open primarily to Canadian Ph.D. students engaged in research and study of development-related subjects in areas of IDRC involvement. Also eligible are young professionals working in the fields of communication/media, finance or administration.

CARLETON SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

The results for the OGS and SSHRCC awards have now been announced. Fifteen students who are either in our graduate programme or will enter it this fall from other units at Carleton have been awarded OGS. This compares to 8 for 1986-87 and 11 for 1985-86.

Similarly for SSHRCC, we received 2 special M.A. awards, 4 new doctoral SSHRCCs, and 4 renewals. This compares to 1 new doctoral scholarship last year.

CANADIAN STUDIES WRITING AWARDS

The Association for Canadian Studies (ACS) awards five grants annually valued up to $8000 each. These awards are to enable authors to do the research and writing required to prepare a manuscript for publication. Publication arrangements will be the concern of author and publisher, but ACS may assist authors in making contact with publishers. The manuscript should be a work of original scholarship and also have relevance to the general public.

The manuscript should deal with one of the following themes:

- Canada as a northern nation
- Canadian cultural context
- Canadian social history
- Canada and the new technologies
- Canada and the North American economy

An independent committee will evaluate the proposals which are to be submitted before November 15 each year.

Forms and information are available at the ACS office.

UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN

The Queen Elizabeth II Scholarship in Parliamentary Studies has been established by the Government of Saskatchewan in honour of Her Majesty's visit to the province in October, 1987. Valued at $10,000, the scholarship will be awarded annually to a Canadian citizen for graduate study at either of the province's universities. It is intended to encourage advanced study and research in the Saskatchewan government and politics - including the Crown, Legislature, Executive and related institutions. For more information contact John C. Courtney, Department of Political Studies, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, S7N 0W0.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The University of Louisville is pleased to announce the first annual competition for the best idea promoting improved relations between nations published or presented in the last five years, 1983-87. The university is able to provide the award as a result of the creative generosity of Mr. H. Charles Grawemeyer. The idea deemed most useful and well articulated may have an individual author or authors, or may be the product of an institution or agency, and the ideas may be submitted from anywhere in the world. The award will be one hundred fifty thousand dollars ($150,000).

The purpose of the award is to stimulate the dissemination, and critical analysis of outstanding proposals for the improvement of relations between nations. Submissions for the award may address a wide range of international concerns such as foreign policy and its formation, the conduct of foreign relations, intercultural relations and communications, international trade and investment: any combination or particular aspect of these; or any idea which could at least incrementally lead to more just and peaceful international relations. The sponsors stress that, in addition to originality, judges may consider the feasibility and potential impact of submissions.

For more information contact W. Landis Jones, Chairman, Department of Political Science, University of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky 40292

NAB SOLICITS PROPOSALS FOR RESEARCH GRANTS

The National Association of Broadcasters has announced that it is seeking proposals for its 1988 Grants for Research in Broadcasting. The deadline is February 1, 1988. The program, now in its 22d year, permits maximum awards of $5,000 to individual grantees, and approximately four to six are awarded annually. Winners have 12 months to complete their projects from the time the award is announced. The competition is open to all academic personnel, graduate students and senior undergraduates.

Proposals dealing with instructional or public radio and television are specifically excluded from the competition. At least one award is given for research on the relationship between children and the broadcast media.

The proposals are evaluated by an independent committee composed of representatives of the broadcast industry, professionals in broadcast research and academicians. Problem conceptualization, research technique, contribution to the field, and clarity and thoroughness are the criteria by which each proposal is judged. Winners will be announced at the 1988 Broadcast Edition Association Convention in Las Vegas next April.

For a copy of the program announcement and an application form, contact Dr. Richard V. Ducey, Senior Vice President, Research & Planning Department, National Association of Broadcasters, 1771 N Street, N.W. Washington, DC 20036. Telephone: (202) 429-5380.

Brief News/Nouvelles brèves (cont'd)

Governance is being launched to fill a gap in the current literature - namely to provide a forum for both scholars and academics interested in questions of comparative executive politics (including elective, appointive and career members of the executive branch of government), and in the development of better conceptual approaches to questions of structure and organization in the public sector. It is explicitly international and comparative in approach, focusing for example on single country studies only to the extent that these are relevant to the experience of other countries or that they have direct theoretical relevance.

Governance will pay particular attention to the politics of the executive branch of government which is defined as the career civil service, their political "masters" and the variety of relationships between these and other components of the political system including organizations such as nationalized industries.

Governance is edited by Colin Campbell of Georgetown University, and B Guy Peters of the University of Pittsburgh, with the help of an international editorial board. Published quarterly, it will fill a gap in the current literature because it is explicitly comparative and international in its approach.
