REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT/

RAPPORT DU PRESIDENT

Your Executive and Board have approved a new initiative of potentially great value to the Association in the years ahead. A CPSA TRUST FUND has been established under the Chairmanship of Tom Flanagan of the University of Calgary. Joining him as fellow Trustees are Réjean Landry (Laval), Denis Stairs (Dalhousie), Caroline Tuohy (Toronto) and, ex officio, the Association President. They will be assisted by an Advisory Board composed of a dozen or so political scientists from across the country. The purpose of the Fund is to enable the CPSA to draw from the interest created by the Trust's capital so as to help to maintain and enlarge our existing programmes and initiate new ones.

The move followed an assessment of the Association's finances by an ad hoc Trust Fund Committee which concluded that the implications of continued diminishing financial support from such bodies as the SSHRCC were potentially very severe for our Association. From 1977 to 1986 grants from outside agencies dropped from 40 per cent to 27 per cent of the Association's total revenue, with the burden to offset the loss of revenues unavoidably falling on individual and institutional CPSA members. It was our view that the trend established in the last decade of reduced Research Council support of learned societies generally is almost certain to continue and that something clearly must be done by our own Association before we begin to lose members because of steadily increasing membership fees.

Accordingly the CPSA TRUST FUND has been set up. As the CPSA currently has a Revenue Canada charitable registration number, members donating to the Trust, either in the form of an annual donation or in a single lump sum, will receive a tax benefit. It is hoped as well that some members will want to support the Association by leaving a specific bequest in their estate. We do not see the establishment of the Trust Fund as amounting to a "quick fix" of our tight financial situation, and clearly it will take time to capitalize the Fund to such a level as to begin drawing on its interest. But we do hope that with time the endowment will grow steadily, thereby allowing our Association to continue to support as many worthy projects and programmes as it now does. Needless to say, we also hope that members will be as generous in their support of the Trust in the years ahead as they have been of the Association and its several activities in the past.

Of those activities, mention should be made of developments over the last year on several fronts. Conrad Winn has done an admirable job of fundraising for the Parliamentary Internship Programme. Having established a committee for this purpose, the PIP Director appears to have the funding of the programme on a more solid footing than had been the case heretofore. He has also worked closely with colleagues from across the country and with the PIP Policy Committee (chaired by Caroline Andrew) to strengthen the academic part of the programme. For its part, the Ontario Legislative Internship Programme has continued to flourish in the ever capable hands of Fred Fletcher. Fred has completed his two full terms at OLIP and is now eager to be on to new projects. We thank him for his tireless efforts. He leaves behind a superb programme for his successor, Graham White.

As President I was privileged to be asked to represent the Association at the PIP and OLIP annual dinners in Ottawa and Toronto respectively. My earlier impressions of the two programmes (shared by many others I know) were confirmed on those two occasions when I had an opportunity to meet with past and present Interns, donors and academics. I was forcefully reminded of the contribution that our Association makes to public life in Canada with these two "high profile" competitions-- a contribution that reflects well on our profession and on the several hundred students who have served as Interns since the programmes were first introduced some years ago. If two or three decades from now our Trust Fund is as widely respected and supported as the Internship programmes are now, then it truly will have succeeded.

As it has done since 1975, the Association continues to select three political scientists (faculty or graduate students) to be awarded grants for the Essex Summer School. Financial support (amounting to $2,733. per grant-holder in 1988) comes from the SSHRCC, and we gratefully acknowledge their generosity in contributing to this unique Canadian programme. Our Essex awards have now become well enough established that the competition generates increased interest with each additional year. The 1988 winners are Jean Crête, professeur (Laval), and Hélène Gaboury (Montréal) and Helen Moroz (Queen's), Ph.D. candidates at their respective universities.

The CPSA's experience in adjudicating competitions such as PIP, OLIP and the Essex Summer School prompted the Province of Saskatchewan to ask the CPSA to adjudicate a new $10,000 graduate scholarship tenable at either the University of Regina or the University of Saskatchewan. Named the Queen Elizabeth II Scholarship in honour of Her Majesty's visit to the province in 1987, the grant is open to any Canadian citizen or landed immigrant and is to be awarded for the advanced study and research into Saskatchewan government and politics. The first scholarship has been awarded to Kenneth Cheveldayoff (Saskatchewan).

This year we have paid increased attention to the matter of membership, hoping that with additional effort on the part of the Board and Executive we would be able to increase the number of individual members in the Association. With the help of the Heads of departments, we have attempted to contact professors, students (both graduate and undergraduate) and non-university based political scientists employed in their area who do not currently belong to the CPSA. Indications are that it has met with some success. Nonetheless it is critical that we continue to make every effort to contact those colleagues who clearly benefit from the work of our Association yet who, unlike the rest of us, do not belong to it.

I might mention three unrelated activities of the CPSA which, like all others carried on by volunteer political scientists working on our behalf, contribute to the improvement of political science specifically and social science generally in Canada. (1) In addition to our many contacts throughout the year with the SSHRCC, our interests on the federal scene are represented by Teresa Rakowska-Harmstone and Reg Whitaker who are our members on the SSFC Lobbying Network and the Advisory Committee on Public Records respectively. (2) David Smith has begun reviving the CPSA Directory--a considerable undertaking, but one that will have great practical value in the years ahead. (3) Duff Spafford continues to serve as Chairman of the Committee on Scholarly Communications, a body which now has two important matters before it: the question of advertising in the CJPS and the Bulletin, and the thorny issue of copy-right reprint policy and procedures. There are, of course, many other colleagues (from Journal and Bulletin editors to members of various standing and special committees) who regularly devote a good deal of time to Association affairs in their different capacities. For that, we are all appreciative. The strength of our Association derives from their contribution.

Finally, a word of thanks to a number of colleagues and friends who have helped to make this year one of the most stimulating and rewarding of my career. The support of my department, particularly of its Head, Don Heasman, is deeply appreciated. Gil Winham organized a highly successful "State of the Art" seminar at Dalhousie in early February, for which the many Heads of Departments in attendance and the CPSA are grateful. My successor, David Elkins, has shown himself time and again to be a wise and thoughtful colleague who understands his profession well. O.P. Dwivedi served his profession as diligently during his Past-Presidency as he had the year before, and Jean-Pierre Gaboury continued as the Association's very capable Secretary-Treasurer. To these three fellow Executive members, and to André-J. Bélanger (the Board's elected member of the Executive), my thanks for their help during the year. Marsha Chandler and her committee have done a tremendous job with this year's programme. We are all deeply indebted to them. Finally, to Joan Pond, Rachel Desjardins and Alwyne Greenhalgh my special thanks. It has truly been a pleasure to have worked with them this year. I need hardly remind you that without their knowledge and understanding of our profession, the CPSA would certainly not be as strong and as vibrant an Association as it is.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-TREASURER/

RAPPORT DU SECRÉTAIRE-TRESORIER

Jean-Pierre Gaboury

1. Financial Statements, 1987

You will notice in reading the financial statements that our Association ended the year 1987 with a deficit of $1,164. thus bringing our accumulated deficit to $12,331. This is in fact our second deficit in a row and the only cheerful thing about this is that this year's deficit is smaller than last year's. All this is despite the fact that our Association is managed in the most parsimonious manner. As you very well know, Mrs. Pond is taking an extremely good care of our finances and we could never find a better arrangement. Despite all that, we are still in the difficult situation of having to face increasing costs while some of our revenues (mainly government grants) are decreasing. Therefore we cannot avoid a fee increase for the year 1989 lest we find ourselves in an even more unfortunate position. This is why both the Finance Committee and the Board are recommending to the Annual General Meeting a new fee schedule (see Table 1). I thank you in advance for your kind cooperation on this matter.

2. L'augmentation des cotisations

Le Comité des finances de l'Association et le Bureau de direction se voient contraints de recommander à l'Assemblée générale une augmentation des cotisations à partir de l'année 1989 (voir l'échelle proposée au Tableau 1). La raison qui rend une telle augmentation inévitable est simple: nos coûts augmentent naturellement d'année en année alors que nos revenus ne suivent pas la même courbe. Une partie de nos problèmes provient de la politique de privatisation du gouvernement fédéral, en effet, les subventions que nous recevons du Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines du Canada diminuent d'une année à l'autre. Nous sommes au point où nous ne pouvons pratiquement plus diminuer nos dépenses, car chacune des dernières années a été l'occasion d'un exercice de compression budgétaire. Je puis témoigner, je pense, d'une gestion exemplaire et des plus économes de la part de notre administratrice, Madame Pond. La dernière augmentation a été approuvée en 1986. Je vous remercie de votre attention bienveillante.

REPORT OF THE CO-EDITORS OF THE CJPS/

RAPPORT DES CO-EDITEURS DE LA RCSP

The four issues of Volume XX (1987) of the Journal/Revue contained 23 articles, two field analyses, three notes, three comments and replies, one review article, 136 book reviews and 15 brief reviews. A total of 108 manuscripts were submitted during the year, an increase of four over the submissions in 1986. Of papers submitted, 89 were in English and 19 in French; the corresponding figures for 1986 were 87 and 17.

This year there were major changes on the editorial board of the Journal/Revue. Du côté de la rédaction française, Lucille Beaudry de l'UQAM a succédé à François-Pierre Gingras à la co-direction, alors que Stéphane Dion (Université de Montréal) a succédé à Lucille Beaudry comme responsable des recensions. In June 1987 Ronald Manzer and Sylvia Bashevkin, both at University of Toronto, became co-editor and assistant editor respectively, replacing Robert Boardman and Herman Bakvis of Dalhousie University; and William Coleman of McMaster University succeeded Grace Skogstad (Toronto) as review editor.

L'année 1987 représente un tournant pour la Revue/Journal: quatre manuscrits français ont été acceptés en 1987 et sept articles et un synthèse bibliographique ont été publiés, ce qui est un nouveau sommet. En 1986, la Revue/Journal a publié deux articles et trois notes en français. De 1983 à 1985, le taux d'acceptation des manuscrits a été en moyenne de 20%, mais, en 1986, il a fait un bond à 65% ce taux revient à 20% en 1987. Par comparaison, du côté anglophone, les taux d'acceptation ont été en moyenne de 23% de 1983 à 1985, de 29% en 1986, et de 16% en 1987.

Like previous editors we are indebted to our colleagues who have provided us with judicious and timely appraisals of the manuscripts that we have sent to them for review. We wish that a more direct acknowledgement of their contribution were possible. Unfortunately the small size of our community makes it impossible to acknowledge our assessors and still protect our practice of anonymous review. However, they should know how grateful we are for their continuing efforts on behalf of the Journal/Revue.

We also express our gratitude to the former editors - Robert Boardman, François-Pierre Gingras, Grace Skogstad, and Herman Bakvis - for their considerable help to us as we assumed responsibility for editing the Journal/Revue. Fortunately for us all, John McMenemy continues as Managing Editor; we thank him for his cheerful patience and good counsel as we have begun to learn the perils and pleasures of scholarly publishing.

Finally, we thank the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council for its continued support of the operation of the Journal/Revue.

Parliamentary Internship Program

Bilingual PIP Bulletin inaugurated

The first issue of a planned twice yearly Bulletin made its appearance in midyear. Henceforth the target publication dates are September and January. The pocket-size newsletter is sent at no charge to Members of Parliament, financial sponsors, former interns, CPSA Directors, Political Science Department chairmen, and other supporters of the program.

Bill Davis highlights annual dinner

Former Ontario Premier Bill Davis was keynote speaker at the fall dinner. He followed in the footsteps of Alberta's Peter Lougheed, who spoke the previous year. In a remarkable display of his talent for humour, Mr. Davis sent his audience of more than 200 people into spasms of uncontrollable laughter as he applied his rapier wit to journalists, New Democrats, Liberals, political science professors, pollsters and other deserving groups. Representing the CPSA, President-elect John Courtney sat at the head table along with Flora, former intern Jeff Simpson, Sen. Norm Atkins and other notables.

Political science professors from outside Ottawa who expect to be in the capital in October, when the dinner is normally held, are asked to let the PIP office (613 564-6610) know so that an invitation may be extended to them.

Three new awards

In mid-June the Speaker of the House of Commons will host a special convocation-type reception at which three awards will be bestowed for the first time. Named after the Member who was instrumental in establishing the program, the Alf Hales Plaque will be presented by the Speaker to the intern who contributed most to the program in the judgement of the MPs and director. The CPSA award will be granted to the intern who produced the year's best research essay. The Peer award will be given to the intern who contributed most to the life of the program in the judgement of his/her peers.

Some financial ups

Revenue is up thanks to major donations from the following new patrons ($ 15,000-60,000): the Insurance Bureau of Canada (patron level IV), Bell Canada (patron I), the Canadian Cable Television Association (patron I), the Canadian Real Estate Association (patron I), and the Life Underwriters Association of Canada (patron I). The Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association and SSHRCC, both longstanding and key patrons, remain with us. Among two dozen new or renewed sponsors (less than $ 15,000), Polysar, Xerox, and Imperial Oil deserve particular mention.

In the present climate of corporate giving, all our sponsors feel obliged to limit their contributions to a year-to-year basis. Planning is difficult because it is not always possible to estimate revenue before the year in question has already begun. Nonetheless, the generosity of patrons and sponsors has made possible a number of improvements. In particular, interns' stipends will be $ 14,000 for 1988-89, a 56% rise in two years. Other changes include a provision to pay interest on interns' student loans and better travel subsidies.

Involvement of scholars

Although fundraising will probably always keep the program on "tender-hooks", the less urgent financial situation this year permitted the program to place some emphasis on involving scholars from outside Carleton and indeed from outside Ottawa. A partial list of professors who contributed to the program would include Professors Jennifer Smith (Dalhousie), Marsha Chandler (Toronto), Rejean Pelletier (Laval), Guy Lachapelle (Concordia), Tom Flanagan (Calgary), John Jaworsky (Waterloo), Jean-Pierre Gaboury (Ottawa) and Carolyn Andrew (Ottawa). Louise Quesnel (Laval) led the Washington trip; Fred Fletcher (York) and Francois Houle (Ottawa), the trips to Bonn and London. Magnus Gunther (Trent) remained associate director.

Statistical profile of the program

A future issue of the Bulletin will present the full results of a statistical analysis of candidacies, successful and otherwise, in the history of the program. Some tentative preliminary results are that

- the proportion of female applicants has been rising steadily but remains less than 50%
- applicants are getting older (i.e. more 25-30 years old)
- political scientists have been retaining their predominant share of candidacies
- during the 1980's, the number of social science applicants from outside political science has risen dramatically while the number of humanists has fallen
- the proportion of Quebec applicants has risen dramatically in the last couple of years (to 43% of the total for the year 1987-88)
- the share of candidacies from the West and the East has remained remarkably steady through the history of the program.

Send us your best candidates

Deadline for applications for the 1989-90 year is a postmark of December 31, 1988 on the applicant's submission. References may arrive slightly later. Selection committees traditionally seek B+ or better students who are keenly interested in Parliamentary affairs but do not need necessarily have a background in the subject or even in political science. The internship groups during the past two years included an M.Sc. in biology and a B.Sc. in physiology. Considerable emphasis has been traditionally placed on non-academic considerations such as occupational or extra-curricular experience, public spiritedness, and maturity.

The selection committee for the 1988-89 year consisted of: Me. Marcel Pelletier, Law Clerk of the House of Commons; Jennifer Smith (Dalhousie, and former intern); Francois Houle (Ottawa); Sarah Dougherty (former intern and Montreal lawyer), and the director

Staff change

Mme. Paule Gregory retired this Spring and will be missed. It was her second retirement. She had previously held secretarial positions with a Canadian Prime Minister, a deputy minister, a French embassy and in other interesting spots. She is succeeded by Mrs. Maureen Amey. British born and bilingual, Mrs. Amey has held interesting assignments in Italy, Australia, the U.K. and of course Canada.

FEDERAL SCENE

What happened to the $1.3 billion for R&D?

At the time of writing, we are still waiting for a government decision on the allocation of this quasi-mythical $1.3 billion. Such a decision was first expected in February, then in March; it was not discussed in March and a decision was made that the whole dossier would be reviewed after the Easter recess with a final discussion being undertaken on April 22nd. The discussion took place... and very little was decided, as far as we can see. In effect, with the exception of the allocation of some $200 million to the Space Agency, and $70 to $80 million for undergraduate science and technology scholarships, no firm commitment has been made regarding the allocation of the remaining sum. To the best of our knowledge, the plans for the Centres or Networks of Excellence Program are still being drafted, and the proposed allocation for this program would be in the order of $220 million. As for the rest, it would appear that the decision has been postponed--yes, once again! to some time in May. The good news is that the notion of using part of the remaining funds to increase the base budgets of the granting Councils is still alive. The bad news is that the sum total of the requests submitted by various departments for these funds is increasing daily. Will the interest of the Councils prevail over those of the more powerful departments? In large measure, this will depend on the pressure applied by the academic community.

Lucien Bouchard remplace David Crombie au Secrétariat d'Etat. La nomination de Lucien Bouchard au poste de Secrétaire d'Etat et comme membre du puissant Comité des priorités et de la planification est de bon augure pour la communauté universitaire: son intérêt pour l'enseignement, la recherche et la culture est bien connu. Sa nomination au comité P&P signifie que les intérêts de la communauté universitaire seront bien défendus au sein du Cabinet. Evidemment, au cours des prochaines semaines, M. Bouchard ne pourra consacrer autant de temps qu'il le souhaiterait aux affaires du Ministère, puisqu'il briguera les suffrages de l'électorat, le 20 juin.

$500 Million for the New Department of Industry, Science and Technology. In a recent interview given to The Citizen, Mr. de Cotret announced that $500 million out of the $1.3 billion sum which, as announced in January, has been accorded for science and technology, will be allocated to the new Department of Industry, Science and Technology, for the implementation of 10 new programs. The legislation creating the "superministry" of Industry, Science and Technology was introduced on May 12. During this interview, Mr. de Cotret also mentioned that some $300 million of the $1.3 billion amount (once the Centres of Excellence, the science scholarships and the DIST programs are paid for), will be granted for university research. Does this mean that it will go to the three Granting Councils? We certainly hope so.

Postal Subsidy Program. At long last, the government has made a decision on the Postal Subsidy Program. The Minister of Communications, Flora MacDonald, announced on April 14, 1988, that the Program would be maintained for at least the next five years. This signifies that the basic postal rate structures for the mailing of publications will remain intact. The yearly increase in rates will be modest over the next five years, with a seven percent yearly increase for most academic journals and books (i.e. the average 1988 rate for the mailing out of less than 10,000 copies of subscriber-based periodicals will be 5.5 cents, while the estimated 1989 average rate will be 5.9 cents). The average 1988 publishers' book rate is 72.6 cents for a 1.5 kilo package which will be raised to 77.7 cents in 1989. The Federation had lobbied the government on behalf of academic journals and publishers, stressing that academic publishing in Canada had to be protected from the large increases that would have been charged in the event of a cancellation of the Program. Overall, the decisions made concerning this Program have made these representations worthwhile.

Comité permanent de la Chambre sur la Recherche, la Science et la Technologie. Deux questions principales sont à l'ordre du jour du Comité pour les prochaines semaines: les Centres d'Excellence et la politique de contrepartie. La Fédération canadienne des sciences sociales doit comparaître devant le Comité le 12 mai: Marshall Wm. Conley représentera la Fédération.

Copyright Act. The Senate has recently adopted the Report of its Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce on Bill C-60. The Federation was invited to testify before the Senate's Committee Banking, Trade and Commerce and on March 3rd a delegation comprising of Mr. Denis Magnusson, M. Jean-Pierre Gaboury and M. Robert Davidson attempted to convince the Senators of the necessity to substantially modify this Act and in particular, to keep in mind the rights of users (i.e. students and professors whose research would become much more difficult and onerous if the project were adopted without modification). The group also underlined the necessity for the Minister of Communications to table a second set of amendments to the Copyright Act which had originally been promised for the month of April 1988. The Bill must now go back to the House of Commons, and, given the uncertainty surrounding the date of the next federal election, there is no way of saying whether the Bill will be adopted before the end of the session.

Dossier en suspens. En ce qui concerne la Loi sur l'accès à l'information il n'y a rien de neuf à rapporter: le gouvernement a jusqu'au mois de novembre pour présenter un projet de loi, et il semblerait que l'ébauche du projet ne sera peut-être pas prête avant ce temps-là... Nous tentons toujours, à l'heure actuelle, de convaincre les divers ministères qui sont impliqués dans le Programme des bibliothèques de dépôt, d'inclure les produits ordinolingués de Statistique Canada dans le Programme. Cela les rendrait disponibles sans frais aux bibliothèques universitaires...

Paule Leduc appointed President of SSHRCC. The Honourable Lucien Bouchard, Secretary of State, announced the appointment of Paule Leduc as President of SSHRCC for a five-year term of office beginning June 6. Her experience in the university community includes teaching and research as well as five years as President of the Conseil des Universités du Québec. She has been a senior official in the Québec public service since 1975. She is currently Director of the Centre d'études politiques et administratives du Québec (CEPAQ). The Social Science Federation wishes to commend the government for this appointment, which meets the major selection criteria that had been suggested by the Federation. As you know, the S.S.F.C. had been actively involved in the consultation process leading to this appointment. We would like to extend our heartiest congratulations to the new President and wish her well in this challenging position.

Nouvelles des programmes. Lors de sa réunion des 17 et 18 mars derniers, le Conseil a adopté une modification au Programme d'aide et de subventions de voyage aux sociétés savantes. Suite à ce changement, trois de nos associations membres subiront une diminution relativement importante de leur subvention administrative. Un mécanisme a donc été mis sur pied pour assurer une transition pour les associations qui subiront une baisse de plus de 5%.

SSFC Research Team awarded grant for Management of Technology. A Social Science Federation team of researchers has been awarded $54,000 under an experimental program of the SSHRCC to identify research projects in areas relevant to major national needs. The Federation proposal on "The Management of Technology" was one of five funded by the SSHRCC. The project is based on the contention that the effective management of technology requires active participation from various user communities (government, industry, labour), and incorporates their participation in the design and implementation of the research. It will stress the development of a network of researchers from different disciplines, reaching also into the private sector and involving the active co-operation of government departments. It will be designed to evaluate the potential for concerted action between non-academics and academics, and among academics in several disciplines in a research program on management of technology. Three key issues to be addressed in the project are science policy, innovation and risk management, and organizational transformation.

An important report from the U.S. The U.S. National Research Council released on March 10th, 1988, The Behavioral and Social Sciences: Achievements and Opportunities. The report focuses on "scientific frontiers in the behavioral and social sciences -- leading research questions and fundamental problems -- and on the resources needed to work on them". IN MEMORIAM

Khayyam Zev Paltiel

Dr. Khayyam Zev Paltiel, Professor of Political Science, died on Sunday, April 17. He was 66.

Dr. Paltiel joined the faculty at Carleton in 1963 as an assistant professor. He was promoted to the position of associate professor in 1965 and to full professor in 1968.

In 1970-71 he was Visiting Professor of Political Science at the University of Ottawa; in 1973-74 at McGill University; and in 1983-84 he was Visiting Professor in the Canadian Studies Program, Department of Political Science, The Hebrew University, Jerusalem, Israel. He received his Ph.D. from The Hebrew University in 1964.

Dr. Paltiel was a Carleton University Senator and a member of the Board of Governors from 1971-74.

His fields of research and teaching were Canadian and comparative party finance and the control of election expenses, interest groups in Canada, aboriginal self-government and native control of social services in Canada, and Israeli government and politics.

Recognized as an expert in these areas, he took part in numerous conferences and colloquia around the world, and acted as a consultant on many government commissions and councils including the Privy Council Office (1964), the Native Council of Canada (1982-83), the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada (1983), and the Attorney General of Canada (1984).

Funeral services for Dr. Paltiel were held on April 18. He is survived by his wife, Freda, and four children, Ari, Jeremy, Candida, and Ora.

MINUTE

PROCES-VERBAL

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING 60 REUNION GENERALE ANNUELLE

The Canadian Political Science Association

McMaster University

Hamilton, Ontario

June 7, 1987

1. President's Welcome

President O.P. Dwivedi welcomed those present to the 60th Annual General Meeting of the Association.

Professor Engelmann read into the record the names of the persons elected:

President-Elect: Professor David J. Elkins (UBC)

2. Approval of the agenda

Members-at-large:

MOTION: CARRIED
Henry Habib (Concordia) / J. Peter Meekison (Alberta)

André Blais, professeur (Montréal)
Professor David Cameron (Dalhousie)
Anne Legaré, professeur (UQAM)
Professor and Vice-President J. Peter Meekison (Alberta)
Professor Carolyn Tuohy (U of T)

That the agenda as presented be approved.

3. Approval of the Minutes of 1986

MOTION: CARRIED
Warren Magnusson (UVic)/V. Seymour Wilson (Carleton)

Professor Engelmann told the meeting that 289 persons, or 28% of the membership, had voted. Allowing for not being always able to identify gender on the basis of names as listed, it would seem that a 5% smaller proportion of eligible female voters had "exercised their option" than was the case with eligible male voters. The percentage of participation/membership for the regions was as follows:

That the Minutes as presented be approved.

4. Business arising from the Minutes

President Dwivedi noted that there was no business arising and it was agreed to move to the next item.

Newfoundland	56%
Nova Scotia	46%
P.E.I.	40%
Alberta	38%
Saskatchewan	36%
B.C.	34%
Ontario	29%
N.B.	24%
Québec	22%
Manitoba	19%

5. Report: The President of the Nominating Committee

President Dwivedi, in his additional role as President of the Nominating Committee, reminded the meeting that, for the 1987 election, its members, in addition to himself, had been Professors Donald Carmichael (Alberta), Marsha Chandler (U of T) and Roch Denis (Montréal). He now invited the election Scrutineer, Past-President Frederick C. Engelmann (Alberta), to report on the results.

Professor Dwivedi thanked Professor Engelmann.

6. Report: The President

Professor Dwivedi referred the meeting to his Annual Report in "The Bulletin". It, together with the additional verbal elements concerning his function as head of the Nominating Committee, would constitute the sum of his Report.

MOTION: CARRIED
Douglas S. Verney (York)/Lloyd Brown-John (Windsor)

That the President's Report be received as presented.

Professor Dwivedi expressed himself as greatly privileged to have been able to serve his scholarly community over the last year. He thanked the membership warmly.

7. Introduction of President John C. Courtney (Saskatchewan)

Wishing him very well indeed, Professor O.P. Dwivedi introduced incoming President, John C. Courtney (Saskatchewan) and who now assumed the Chair.

8. The Report of The Secretary-Treasurer

Secretary-Treasurer Jean-Pierre Gaboury said that he would wish to underline three elements of his report:

- (a) The Financial Report
- (b) Sqsp-CPSA relations
- (c) SSHRCC evaluation of the Association

(a) MOTION CARRIED
Caroline Andrew (Ottawa) / Grace Skogstad (U of T)

That the Financial Report be approved.

MOTION: CARRIED
Henry Jacek (McMaster)/Caroline Andrew (Ottawa)

That McCay - Duff and Company (Ottawa) be continued as Association auditors for 1988.

(b) Professor Gaboury reported that the Liaison Committee had met as usual over the year and that it had dealt with the ongoing matters of business between the two associations. There were no special issues at the moment.

Professor Courtney took the opportunity to introduce, to the warm applause of the meeting, Professor Gérald Bernier (Montréal), the new President of La Société québécoise de science politique.

(c) Professor Gaboury noted that the Association had just experienced its first three-year evaluation by the SSHRCC and that the process had gone well.

MOTION: CARRIED
Jean-Pierre Gaboury (Ottawa)/Teresa Harnstone-Rakowska (Carleton)

That the Report of the Secretary-Treasurer be received.

9. Report: THE CANADIAN JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Professor Robert Boardman now made his final report on behalf of the Editorial Board. He referred to the complete version in "The Bulletin" underlining the fact that concerns about balance were best served by the submission of manuscripts in subfields of the discipline, and stressing the open invitation to all scholarly interests within the discipline. He noted the new, improved paper on which THE JOURNAL was being printed, and concluded this part of his presentation by thanking most warmly all those who had acted as assessors. THE JOURNAL WAS in debt to their responsive and effective work.

MOTION: CARRIED
Robert Boardman (Dalhousie)/Frederick C. Engelmann
(Alberta)

That the Report of THE CANADIAN JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE be received.

Professor Boardman introduced his successor, Professor Ronald Manser (U of T), and noted the names of the latter's colleagues: Professors Sylvia Bashevkin (U of T) and William Coleman (McMaster). He told the meeting that there was also change on the French-language side, Professor Lucille Beaudry and Stéphan Dion being the new team there.

President Courtney expressed to Professor Boardman and to his colleagues, Professors Herman Bakvis (Dalhousie) and Grace Skogstad (U of T) the deep thanks and appreciation of their colleagues, complimenting them on the quality of THE JOURNAL under their leadership.

10. Report: The Parliamentary Internship Programme

PIP Director, Professor Conrad Winn (Carleton), referred those present to the Programme's report in "The Bulletin". He said that he would wish to add his thanks to the CPSA staff, to Professor Caroline Andrew and to Professor Marsha Chandler who had not been named in the report but who had all, in their various capacities, contributed to the Programme's year. Questions and/or comments were invited.

Professor Douglas V. Verney (York) rose. Given, he said, another impression, which seemed to be developing in articles such as the recent one in "The Globe and Mail", that the PIP was the creation of the House of Commons, he wished to make the point that his memory of events prompted him to say that it was probably well for us to remind the institutional memory that it was The Canadian Political Science Association and The Donneur Foundation which had persuaded The House into becoming involved. Professor Courtney thanked Professor Verney for raising this point.

MOTION: CARRIED
Conrad Winn (Carleton)/ Andrew Cooper (Waterloo)

That the Report of the PIP Director be received.

11. Report: The Ontario Legislature Internship Programme

Acting Director Graham White presented the OLIP Report. He said that OLIP continued to be a great success and he knew that the Association would want him to underline the credit that should go to The Speaker of the Assembly, The Board of Internal Economy, the private sector sponsors and - last, but certainly not least - the members of the Legislature who continued to be eager to have interns working for them.

Professor White now reported on an element of OLIP that had been decided too late for inclusion in the written Report. The Committee of 94, a women's organization concerned with the participation of women in the political process, had approached the Legislature - which had in turn approached the Programme - to offer special funding earmarked to permit exceptional women to become familiar with the workings of the legislative process. The OLIP Management Committee had recommended involvement for at least a trial period.

The first participant is a native person with very little formal education but who has a remarkable record of work in her community. The appointment was felt to be very much in line with the Board's approval in principle of Professor Frederick J. Fletcher's proposals for expanding the programme (see Minutes, June 1986) over the near future to encourage persons with varied academic backgrounds (journalism, law, etc.).

Professor White underlined the point that the OLIP is national in scope, accepting and encouraging applications from across the country. Not at all a 'closed shop', the programme is keenly aware of the benefit of having this broadest possible participation.

MOTION: CARRIED
Graham White (U of T)/Marsha Chandler (U of T)

That the Report of the OLIP Director be received.

Professor Courtney expressed to Professor White the Association's gratitude to him for having taken on the OLIP Acting Directorship for the year of Professor Fletcher's sabbatical. Professor Fletcher would now return for what was officially the final year of his second term.

12. Report: "The Bulletin"

The new Editor of "The Bulletin" noted to the assembly the changed format of the newsletter. He asked members to look at the editorial note to see the way in which the "Bulletin" year would proceed. He spoke particularly of his efforts to broaden the network of newsletter contacts across the country and noted the greater input of French language text, to balance the representativeness of the publication. Professor Gagnon made an open invitation to the membership to enter into closer communication with the Association's newsletter.

MOTION: CARRIED
Teresa Harmstone-Rakowska (Carleton)/ Henry Jacek (McMaster)

That the oral report of the Editor of "The Bulletin" be received.

13. Report: The Chairman of the 1987 Programme Committee

Professor V. Seymour Wilson (Carleton), 1987 Programme Chairman, rose to make a report to the AGM. He began by offering his congratulations and good wishes to his successor, Professor and Chairman Marsha Chandler (U of T).

Being Programme Chairperson, said Professor Wilson, had been quite an experience! It would have been, indeed, an impossible task without his extraordinary Committee. He read their names into the record: Marsha Chandler, George Breckenridge, Scott Bennett, Richard Phidd, Carl Baar, Simon McInnes, Patrick Kyba, E. (Terry) Fowler, Sylvia Bashevkin, Thomas Darby, Ashok Kapur, Stephen McBride, Henry Habib, Kim Wossal, William Coleman, O.P. Dwivedi - who was both President and shared with him the responsibility for special sessions - and the many other individuals, including the CPSA staff, who had pitched in to make all things possible!

Professor Wilson said that the count could not be considered final yet, but that the figures he had indicated that there had been 418 participants - 18% of whom were women - across fully 129 sessions, with 8 plenaries and special sessions to enrich the "mix". He noted, too, that of the 51 departments and sub-departments on the CPSA's official list, only 4 were not represented in the Programme. Professor Wilson noted that he was still collecting the data on session attendance but that that had seemed to range from a maximum of 75 to 2 which were not attended by other than the participants. The Programme Chairman said that he was particularly proud of the Plenary Session which had a very exciting currency and was rich in scholarly content thanks to the excellent people who had participated.

Professor Wilson moved a vote of thanks for the warm hospitality that everyone had enjoyed and for the excellence of the arrangements, to: President Alvin Lee, McMaster University; Professor Sydney Emberley and the Learned's Secretariat; and to Professor Michael Atkinson and The Department of Political Science. He wished McMaster very well indeed as it begins the first year of its second century.

Professor Wilson moved special thanks to Professor George Breckenridge who had been wonderful in his role as local representative: wise, resourceful, patient - and all of the good things that this key role demanded.

Professor Courtney expressed the thanks of the Association to Professor Wilson for what could only be described as one of the great programmes. Again, warm applause seconded Professor Courtney's remarks. Professor Courtney also noted to the meeting Professor Wilson's appointment as Editor of the journal of The Institute of Public Administration of Canada. Congratulations were offered. He now invited Professor Chandler to say a few words.

Professor Chandler thanked Professor Wilson for having included her in his Programme. He had been, she said, a good teacher; the experience had been rich and varied and he would definitely be a hard act to follow. She named her Committee to the meeting, introducing them insofar as they were present and referred members to the September JOURNAL and the CALL FOR PAPERS. In the meantime, she invited - urged, she underlined - offers of participation, suggestions of any kind, and so on. She concluded by providing the dates of the Windsor meetings.

Professor Stephen Clarkson rose to say that he found that the compact Programme set-up had worked very well and that the whole thing had had an air of discipline that he complimented. He said that he regretted the lack of a means of disseminating the papers before the meetings. He had been, he said, one of the inventors of the labels system and hoped that consideration would be given to circulating authors' addresses and postal codes with The Preliminary Programme.

Professor Courtney thanked Professor Clarkson for his comments and said that he shared the frustration on the papers front and appreciated the suggestion. Professor Wilson said that one suggestion might be that, papergivers in most cases being housed in Canadian departments of political science, they could be addressed directly there.

14. Other business

(i) Professor Courtney told the Board that the SSHRCC Report: "Focus on Priorities" had just reached the Association and that there was a three-week turnaround time for any response that the Association would wish to make. Professor Courtney said that this was not an easy time for the SSHRCC. There was simply no new money. Cuts were inevitably around the corner. The Council was looking for help in ranking them. It was important for the Association to have a strong input.

Professor Courtney told the meeting that under the circumstances the Board had named a Committee located in one place and made up of Professors Frederick C. Engelmann, J. Peter Meekison and Allan Tupper, all of whom were, in various capacities, ongoing close observers of SSHRCC affairs. The Board, said Professor Courtney, was in their debt for having agreed to act under the difficult time constraints involved and the membership could have every confidence that they would represent our view very effectively and very thoroughly.

Copies of "Focus on Priorities" would be available at members' universities by the time of their return from these meetings. Members were invited to contact Professor Engelmann (He furnished his telephone number to the meeting), or Professor Courtney, who would be pleased to pass members views on to the Committee.

(ii) Professor Courtney noted to the assembly the presence among them of distinguished guests from India, The United States and Australia. Members welcomed these observers with their applause.

15. Adjournment

The meeting was adjourned.

POLITICAL SCIENCE AND THE ELECTRONIC MAIL REVOLUTION

If you use a word processor for writing your papers, but don't routinely exchange papers with other political scientists through electronic mail, you may be interested in this column.

Most university computing centres in Canada are linked to at least one electronic mail network, such as "bitnet", "netnorth" or "CDNnet". These networks are linked to each other, so that you can now send electronic mail messages, or whole "files" (such as files containing your papers) to colleagues at other universities in Canada, the U.S., Europe, and many other parts of the world.

All you need is an account on your university's mainframe computer. You will send and receive electronic mail from this account. Sending and receiving messages or files is simpler than addressing an old-fashioned Canada Post envelope. The staff in your local computing centre can explain the procedure at your university. Some universities will charge you a nominal amount for using electronic mail — usually just a fraction of the cost of postage for the same amount of material. At other universities, the authorities have decided that electronic mail is so inexpensive that it is not worth charging for it.

If you write your papers on a personal computer at home, you can probably take a diskette (with your paper on it) to your university's computing centre where you can "upload" it into your mainframe account. Then the paper can be sent to your colleagues through the electronic mail network. Alternatively, you would probably find it much more convenient to purchase a telephone modem for about $150 so that you can transfer files directly from your personal computer to the university's mainframe, and vice versa.

In 1985, when I moved from the University of Lethbridge to York University, I was still working on several collaborative projects with colleagues in Lethbridge and Calgary. I investigated electronic mail as a way of continuing the collaboration. Although I have occasionally been frustrated by changes in electronic mail software, by and large this solution has worked so well that I often forget that my collaborators are 2500 miles away instead of in the next office. We exchange drafts of papers and edit each others' work just like we used to do when I was in Lethbridge, with no time delay caused by Canada Post. On average, it takes about 15 minutes to receive an electronic file from across the continent.

It is the hope of the editors of the Bulletin that within a few years, most political scientists in Canada will exchange their papers with each other through electronic mail before the annual Learned Societies conference. Not only will this method save us all time and money, but we will have the opportunity to read a good many more papers before the conference than we do now.

In order to make this hope a reality, we need to develop a common word processing protocol. The most popular word processing software for personal computers in Canada is "Wordperfect." It is possible to transfer Wordperfect files on the electronic mail networks by following a few simple procedures. First, transfer your Wordperfect files from your personal computer to your mainframe account using a "binary" file transfer process. (Your local computing centre will explain how to accomplish this.) This file can be then be sent on the networks, and received by other colleagues with mainframe accounts. Those receiving binary Wordperfect files will have to "download" the files into their personal computers before they can read them. If you try to read the files from the mainframe, all you will see is "computer garble." Such files will make sense only to others with Wordperfect software.

If two colleagues wish to exchange papers, but do not use the same word processing software, there are a variety of solutions:

1. Software is available for "translating" files produced with one software package into other packages. For example, Wordperfect sells software which will translate Wordstar files into Wordperfect.
2. Wordperfect and many other software packages allow you to "save" your files as "dos" or "ascii" files. These files can be transferred electronically, and can be read on mainframe accounts or with various different editing and word processing software. The disadvantage of this technique is that most often, the "hidden codes" which some software packages use — like Wordperfect and Wordstar — to mark footnotes¹, underlining, bold print or headings, get lost in the transfer. Thus, using this method, the bodies of your papers can be transferred to anyone with a mainframe account, no matter what software they use, but much of the formatting, often including footnotes, cannot be transferred. (Some readers, no doubt, will be delighted to receive papers em without footnotes!)
3. Most of the mainframe word processing packages, such as "Waterloo Script", or "Scribe", employ a "two-file" system. The working file, or "manuscript" file, contains imbedded word processing commands. When the "manuscript" file is processed by the computer, the imbedded commands are executed, and the output is sent to a "printer" file. This printer file can be transferred electronically and read by users of a variety of systems. The disadvantage of this procedure is that the printer files often contain distracting printer commands in the margins, and bolded phrases appear twice or three times. But at least the footnotes come through, and the papers are fairly easy to read.

4. Use the same procedure as in solution 3 above, but transfer the "manuscript" file instead of the "printer" file via electronic mail. Even if the person receiving the file does not have your word processing package, it should be possible for that person to process the file through a program which will "translate" the manuscript file into the receiver's word processing format. For example, if anyone wants to change "Scribe" into "Script" or vice versa, let me know via electronic mail (my address is below), and I will send you the program I have developed for this purpose.

Obviously, the more we standardize our software, the easier it will be for us to communicate through electronic mail. Over the next few months, I will be contacting all political science departments for information about what word processing systems are being used, and how actively electronic mail is being used. I will report on what I learn in the next issue of the Bulletin.

If you have any suggestions about how we can promote the use of electronic mail to advance political science research, please send me an electronic mail message. My electronic mail address is YFPS0013 at YORKVM1 (bitnet or net-north). Alternatively, you can contact the Canadian Political Science Association at the following electronic mail address: CPSCC at UOTTAWA.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE INTERNSHIP PROGRAMME

STAGES PARLEMENTAIRES A L'ASSEMBLEE LEGISLATIVE DE L'ONTARIO

Annual Report 1988

As 1987-88 is my final term as Director of the OLIP, this annual report is somewhat longer than its predecessors. In addition to the usual items, I wish to acknowledge the assistance of many people who have contributed to the success of the Programme since I took over in 1981. Let me turn first to the routine items:

1. The Programme continues to receive its primary funding from the Ontario Legislative Assembly. At its meeting in April, 1988, the Assembly's Board of Internal Economy authorized a grant of $153,000 to the Association in support of the Programme, an increase of 11.3%. The Assembly grant covers the stipends for eight interns and related administrative costs, plus funds for an annual constituency visit. The increase for 1988-89 has enabled us to raise the stipend to $14,000 (or $1400 per month), a sum that is barely adequate, given Toronto rents. External donations continue to pay for exchange visits and seminars.

2. Private sector grants for 1987-88 have reached a new high, with some 18 donors contributing more than $30,000, with some funds still to come (see financial statement for details to date). Bell Canada continues to be our major sponsor but almost all sponsors renewed their commitments for 1987-88 and a dozen new donors were added. In addition, fourteen former interns contributed more than $1,000 as a part of a new fund-raising effort that should provide a continuing source of donations in the future. We have also received assistance and advice from a number of organizations. Deserving special mention are S. A. Murray Consulting, the Churchill Society for the Advancement of Parliamentary Democracy, and the Ontario Public Service Employees Union.

3. The Programme was host in 1987-88 to a ninth intern, sponsored by the Committee of '94, a group committed to increasing the representation of women in legislative bodies. The position was set aside for a mature woman interested in entering the political process. The formal education requirements of the Programme were waived for this position but all other selection criteria applied. The Committee of '94 raised the funds for the position and participated in the selection of the intern. The position has been renewed for 1988-89, for a final year. It is expected that in during the next year, the Committee of '94 will either create a parallel programme or regularize its participation in OLIP through a full-scale agreement with the CPSA and the Assembly.

4. The Programme was administered in 1987-88 by myself, a Deputy Director, Dr. Graham White, of the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto, and three Co-ordinators at the Legislature: Douglas Arnott of the Clerk's Office (a former intern), John Eichmanis, a political scientist employed by the Legislative Research Service, and Ellen Schoenberger, Director of Human Resources for the Assembly.

5. My successor as Director will be Graham White, who served as Acting Director during my research leave last year. A former intern, he has been Deputy Director since 1984 and was Legislative Co-ordinator for two years prior to that while working as Committee Clerk at the Assembly. He has published widely on Ontario politics and legislatures and is highly qualified for the post.

6. In 1987-88, the Ontario interns visited Parliament, the Quebec National Assembly, the California State Legislature, and the Legislatures of Alberta and B.C. In addition, they travelled to Washington, D.C. for briefings on free trade and Canadian-American relations, with special emphasis on Ontario. Each of these visits has involved three (or more) intensive days of seminars with senior public officials, journalists, academics, and others with specialized knowledge of the legislature and its political environment. The Ontario interns have also hosted the Parliamentary interns, as well as interns from B.C. at Queen's Park. In addition, the interns have had an active programme of seminars, seeing a wide range of public officials and interest group representatives, as well as Assembly officials and politicians. By June 30, they will have had more than 50 such seminars, not including the seminars on the exchange visits. The interns also attended a number of party gatherings, involving all three parties, and various events sponsored by unions and other groups. Nevertheless, their major activity has remained the day-to-day work for the MPPs, most of whom make an active effort to include their interns in a full range of legislative activities.

7. The assignments for 1987-88 were:

Bohdana Dutka, Winnipeg, Man. B.A.(Hons.), Pol. St., University of Manitoba, 1985; M.Sc., International Development, University of Sussex, 1987
Floyd Laughren (NDP, Nickel Belt)

Bob Runciman (PC, Leeds-Grenville)
Brad Nixon (L, York Mills)

8. The selection committee for 1987-88 consisted of the Director, Douglas Arnott and Ellen Schoenberger from the Legislature, a serving intern (Bohdana Dutka) and two CPSA representatives (Professors Graham White, University of Toronto, and Sandra Burt, University of Waterloo). More than 70 completed applications were received (down slightly from 1987) representing a wide range of institutions in Ontario and across the country. The quality of applications was very high. On the academic side, nearly 40% of the applicants had A averages and more than three-quarters had averages of B+ or better.

9. The following have accepted internships for 1988-89:

Paul Davidson, Toronto, Ont. B.A.(Hons.), Hist. and Pol. Sci., Trent University, 1986; M.A., Hist., Queen's University, 1988

Laura Farquarson, Toronto, Ont. B.A. (Hons.), I.R., University of Toronto, 1987

Ashley Newman, Toronto, Ont. B.A. (Hons.), Hist. and Pol. Sci., University of Toronto, 1988

Christopher Schnarr, Brampton, Ont. B.A. Pol. Sci., Carleton University, 1988

Brian Wylenko, Winnipeg, Man. B.A. (Hons.), Pol. St., University of Manitoba, 1987; M.A., Comparative Pol., University of Essex, 1988

Gemma Zecchini, Hamilton, Ont. B.A. (Hons.), Hist., McMaster University, 1982; M.A., Hist., McMaster, 1983; M.A., Journalism, University of Western Ontario, 1988

The selection process for the Committee of '94 intern is still in progress.

10. In 1987-88, the Programme continued to benefit from the enthusiastic support of the MPPs and officials of the Assembly. Among those deserving special thanks are the Hon. Hugh Edighoffer, Speaker of the Ontario Legislative Assembly, Mr. Claude DesRosiers, Clerk of the House, and Mr. Thomas Stelling, Sergeant-at-Arms. The Programme also received noteworthy assistance from the Clerk's Office at the Assembly and from York University, which donated office space and other services. The support from our private sponsors has been invaluable. I would like to express my personal gratitude to Graham White, Sandra Burt, Phyllis Feldman, the Programme secretary, Douglas Arnott, John Eichmanis and Ellen Schoenberger for their fine work, as well as to Joan Pond and the CPSA staff for their support. The interns themselves also deserve special mention for their organizational and fund-raising efforts, which have been exceptional this year.

Finally, I would like to review briefly the accomplishments of the past seven years, especially since I can take only "ministerial" credit for most of them. The following changes are worthy of note:

(1) applications have risen from 43 in 1980 to an average of over 100 in the past few years;

(2) the number of academic seminars has increased from fewer than 20 to more than 50;

(3) the number of private sponsors has increased from none in 1980-81 to more than 20 (if one includes donors of services) in 1987-88;

(4) exchange visits have increased from three to six.

These quantitative changes reflect improvements in publicity and profile, better procedures for handling applications and fund-raising, and the development of a manual of administration for interns. More important, these accomplishments reflect a collegial commitment on the part of each class of interns to leave the Programme better than they found it. I am very proud of the the collegial atmosphere that my colleagues and I have been able to foster. The interns play a major role in the operation of the Programme.

In addition to those acknowledged above, I wish to express my appreciation to the more than 60 interns with whom I have worked, including those in 1980-81 who helped me get started, and a number of others who have made special contributions. These include Robert Williams (University of Waterloo), Richard Price (University of Windsor) and Carolyn Andrew (University of Ottawa) who served as CPSA representatives on the Selection and Policy Committees. The former Speaker of the Assembly, John Turner, and the former Director of Administration, Robert Fleming, who was made an Honourary Legislative Intern in 1987, made valuable contributions to the Programme. The scores of MPPs who supervised interns and the many colleagues who recommended qualified applicants to the Programme also deserve recognition, even though it is not possible to name them individually.

The task of serving the CPSA by administering OLIP has been a privilege. I am happy to pass on the responsibilities and the pleasures of directing the Programme to Graham White, who has been my greatest source of support during my two terms in office. I hope to be able to assist him in future.
