All the session rooms will be equipped with a computer for PowerPoint, a data projector and an overhead projector. Presenters are also welcome to bring their laptops, which are easily plugged into the multi-media consoles. There may be some seminar rooms (i.e., for smaller workshops and business meetings) that do not have multi-media access.

Toutes les salles où se dérouleront les séances seront équipées d'un ordinateur avec PowerPoint, d'un vidéoprojecteur et d'un rétroprojecteur. Les auteurs de communications peuvent aussi apporter leur ordinateur portatif, qui pourront être branchés dans les consoles multimédia. Il se peut que certaines salles de séminaire (pour les plus petits séminaires et les réunions de travail, par exemple) n'aient pas d'accès multimédia.

Presidential Welcome Graham White

I'm honoured to welcome you to a truly unique CPSA Conference at Wilfrid Laurier University. This year – and next year in Edmonton at the University of Alberta – CPSA is 'going it alone'. Three years ago, the Board committed to a two-year experiment during which we would not be part of the Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences. The membership will have an opportunity to comment on the experiment after the Edmonton conference but whatever the decision about where to hold future conferences, I'm sure reaction to CPSA '11 will be positive.

Organizing any CPSA annual conference entails an enormous amount of work but this year the task has been especially daunting. Happily, the organizing team at Wilfrid Laurier University has been more than up to the challenge. Programme Chair Debora VanNijnatten, Local Organizer Andrea Perrella, and their colleagues David Docherty, Jason Roy and Sherry Palmer (ably assisted by Sally Rutherford and Michelle Hopkins at the CPSA Secretariat) have pulled out all the stops to give delegates a memorable experience, both in terms of the programme and the supplementary activities (receptions, special events and even keg-tapping!).

Academically, there is something for everyone (and then some). Socially, there are many opportunities to connect with old friends and to make new ones. It promises to be a great meeting and I'm delighted that you'll be part of it.

Mot de bienvenue du président Graham White

J'ai l'honneur de vous souhaiter la bienvenue à un congrès de l'ACSP tout à fait unique à la Wilfrid Laurier University. Cette année – et l'an prochain à Edmonton à l'University of Alberta -, l'ACSP fait cavalier seul. Il y a trois ans, le conseil d'administration s'est engagé à tenter, pendant deux ans, l'expérience d'un congrès de l'ACSP indépendant de celui du Congrès des sciences humaines. Les membres auront l'occasion, après le congrès d'Edmonton, de dire ce qu'ils en ont pensé. Toutefois, quelle que soit la décision sur les modalités des congrès futurs, je suis convaincu que la réaction au congrès ACSP 2011 sera positive.

L'organisation de tout congrès annuel de l'ACSP exige énormément de travail, mais la tâche a été particulièrement lourde cette année. Heureusement, l'équipe de la Wilfrid Laurier University a réussi à relever le défi de main de maître. La présidente du comité du programme, Debora VanNijnatten, l'organisateur local, Andrea Perrella, et leurs collègues David Docherty, Jason Roy et Sherry Palmer (habilement assistés par Sally Rutherford et Michelle Hopkins au secrétariat de l'ACSP) ont tout mis en œuvre pour permettre aux congressistes de vivre une expérience mémorable, comme en témoignent le programme en tant que tel et les activités connexes (réceptions, événements spéciaux et même une fête bavaroise!).

Ce congrès saura répondre à votre soif de connaissances dans les domaines les plus divers tout en vous permettant de retrouver de vieux amis et d'enrichir votre réseau. Il promet d'être marquant et je suis ravi d'y être associé.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Debora VanNijnatten, Wilfrid Laurier University

During this two-year period when the CPSA organizes its annual general meeting without the aid of Congress, the role of the Programme Chair has fundamentally changed. It has become much more closely entwined with those who are making campus-specific arrangements, including the Local Representative but also others who have taken on the new administrative and management roles necessitated by our altered circumstances. This year, the Programme Chair was part of a 'Laurier Team', including Andrea Perrella (CPSA Local Representative), David Docherty, Sherry Palmer, Jason Roy, Alicia Wilkinson and Simmerpreet Anand. Although the task of organizing CPSA 2011 was challenging – and in many ways daunting – the Laurier Team was cohesive, collegial, mutually supportive and, frankly, fun. I want to thank each of them for contributing to one of the most rewarding experiences of my professional career.

The credit for the content of the programme – which as you will see is incredibly rich, varied and stimulating – rests with this year's Programme Committee, whose members are listed at the beginning of this conference programme. These colleagues spent an incredible amount of time organizing special panels, inviting guests from near and far, fund-raising (I believe this Committee raised more external funding for the programme than ever before) and responding enthusiastically to my challenge that we should try to do things differently. They have also put up with a workload – again, given the altered circumstances of the CPSA general meeting – which was higher than usual, not least because of my many pestering emails. I am so very grateful for all the work they have put into the programme, and I'm sure you will appreciate, in each and every section, the fruits of their labours.

We are so very gifted with the people that run our Association. It was a true pleasure working with this year's CPSA President, Graham White. Graham was non-interventionist but immensely supportive, giving the Programme Committee and the Laurier Team wide latitude to define the academic and organizational parameters of the conference. Yet, he sprang into action as soon as we needed him to engage in some fancy 'stick-handling' on the problems that inevitably arose.

Every Programme Chair undoubtedly thanks Michelle Hopkins at the CPSA Secretariat. What I want to emphasize this year is that CPSA simply could not go it alone without Michelle, who has the institutional memory, efficiency and good humour to help guide our ambitious project. I owe Michelle a huge debt of gratitude for all the support she has given me over the past two years – over email, phone and in person. Further, Sally Rutherford has been an enthusiastic and effective facilitator of our experiment, brainstorming in areas where we have little or no experience, yet she has great insight.

Thus, there are many who have contributed to your conference experience this year, which we hope will be a memorable one. And, see you next year, too, in Edmonton!

REMERCIEMENTS

Debora VanNijantten, Wilfrid Laurier University

Au cours de cette période de deux ans durant laquelle l'ACSP organise son congrès annuel sans l'aide du Congrès des sciences humaines, la présidence du comité du programme n'est plus le même. Il s'agit davantage de travailler en étroite collaboration avec les personnes qui prévoient les dispositions à prendre relativement au campus hôte, ce qui inclut, le coordonnateur local, mais aussi ceux et celles qui ont accepté d'assumer les nouveaux rôles administratifs et managériaux dérivant de notre décision de procéder autrement. Cette année, la présidente du comité du programme faisait partie de « l'Équipe Laurier », regroupant Andrea Perrella (coordonnateur local et représentant de l'ACSP), David Docherty, Sherry Palmer, Jason Roy, Alicia Wilkinson et Simmerpreet Anand. La tâche d'organiser le congrès de 2011 a été remplie de défis – et, à bien des égards, fort lourde –, mais il faut dire que l'Équipe Laurier était bien soudée, animée d'un esprit de collégialité, soucieuse de se soutenir mutuellement et, très franchement, rigolote. Je tiens à remercier chacun et chacune d'avoir contribué à me faire vivre l'une des expériences les plus enrichissantes de ma carrière.

Les éloges pour le contenu du programme – qui, comme vous constaterez, est incroyablement riche, varié et stimulant – doivent être adressés au comité responsable du programme de cette année, dont les membres sont indiqués au début de ce document. Ces collègues ont consacré un nombre incalculable d'heures à organiser les tables rondes spéciales, à lancer des invitations ici et ailleurs, à recueillir des fonds (je crois que, jamais jusqu'ici, autant de fonds externes pour un programme n'avaient été réunis) et à relever le défi que je leur avais lancé, soit celui faire les choses différemment. Ils ont eu à faire face à une charge de travail plus lourde qu'à l'accoutumée – puisque notre congrès se déroulait dans des circonstances différentes -, en particulier en raison de ma longue litanie de courriels. Je les remercie de leur excellent travail dont vous apprécierez, j'en suis certaine, les fruits dans chacune des sections.

Nous avons tellement de chance de pouvoir compter sur les personnes qui dirigent de notre Association. Ce fut un réel plaisir de travailler avec le président de l'ACSP de cette année, Graham White. Graham est un non-interventionniste, mais il est toujours prêt à donner un coup de main. Il a su laisser au comité du programme et à l'Équipe Laurier toute la latitude voulue pour définir les paramètres du congrès quant au fond et à la forme, mais il passait à l'action dès que nous avions besoin de lui pour qu'il se livre à quelques « manœuvres » en vue de régler les problèmes qui ont inévitablement surgi.

Chaque président du comité du programme remercie sans aucun doute Michelle Hopkins au secrétariat de l'ACSP. Ce que je veux souligner cette année, c'est que l'ACSP ne pourrait tout simplement pas fonctionner sans Michelle, dont la mémoire institutionnelle, l'efficacité et la bonne humeur nous aident à garder notre projet ambitieux dans la bonne voie. J'ai une énorme dette de gratitude envers Michelle pour tout le soutien qu'elle m'a accordé au cours des deux dernières années – que ce soit par courriel, par téléphone ou en personne. Quant à Sally Rutherford, elle nous a, par son savoir-faire, son enthousiasme et sa grande clairvoyance, beaucoup facilité la tâche, notamment au cours des séances de remue-méninges sur des domaines où nous avons peu d'expérience, pour ne pas dire aucune.

Il y a donc de nombreuses personnes qui ont contribué à enrichir l'expérience que vous vivrez au cours du congrès de cette année, qui, nous l'espérons, sera mémorable. Au plaisir de vous voir l'an prochain à Edmonton!

Mark S. Manger (2009) Investing in Protection: The Politics of Preferential Trade Agreements between North and South. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 267 p.

Manger provides a significant and important analysis of the expansion of preferential trade agreements between the North and South. He convincingly argues that the explosive growth of these instruments can be attributed to foreign direct investment and its corresponding trade. The author skillfully demonstrates the importance and privileged nature of multi-national corporations in pursuing these global economic arrangements. The depth of the research underpinning the arguments is both impressive and compelling as Manger uses a series of rich case studies to effectively sustain his positions. The research constitutes a major contribution to the fields of international relations, international trade and public policy-making.

Manger fournit une analyse fort révélatrice de l'expansion des accords commerciaux préférentiels entre le Nord et le Sud. Il soutient de manière convaincante que la croissance explosive de ces instruments peut être attribuée aux investissements directs étrangers et au commerce connexe. L'auteur démontre habilement l'importance et le caractère privilégié des multinationales dans la poursuite de ces accords économiques globaux. L'ampleur des recherches sur lesquelles il fait reposer son argumentation est impressionnante, Manger utilisant une série d'études de cas étayées pour soutenir efficacement ses positions. Cet ouvrage constitue une contribution de taille aux domaines des relations internationales, du commerce international et des politiques publiques.

Vincent Pouliot (2010) International Security in Practice: The Politics of NATO-Russian Diplomacy. 2010. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 282 pages.

With International Security in Practice, Vincent Pouliot makes significant theoretical and substantive contributions to international relations, in general, and to the study of international security, more specifically. Pouliot articulates a "logic of practicality", building upon the work of Pierre Bourdieu to extend constructivist theorizing to develop a "theory of practice of security communities." Pouliot's application of theory to practice in his unraveling of the post-Cold War relations between Russia and NATO allies provides important insights to this period and serves as a prototype for scholars investigating the development of security communities in other historical and regional contexts. With an initial work of this scope and sophistication, Pouliot has established himself at the forefront of his field.

Avec International Security in Practice, Vincent Pouliot apporte une contribution substantielle à la théorie dans le domaine des relations internationales en général et de l'étude de la sécurité internationale en particulier. Pouliot expose une « logique de l'utilité »; s'appuyant sur les travaux de Pierre Bourdieu, il élargit la théorie constructiviste et élabore une « théorie de la pratique des communautés de sécurité ». L'application que fait Pouliot de la théorie à la pratique dans son analyse des relations après la guerre froide entre la Russie et les alliés de l'OTAN éclaire considérablement cette période et sert de prototype aux chercheurs qui se penchent sur le développement des communautés de sécurité dans d'autres contextes historiques et régionaux. Avec ce travail initial d'une telle portée et d'une telle finesse, Pouliot s'impose comme un chef de file dans son domaine.

Kim Rygiel (2010) Globalizing Citizenship. Vancouver: UBC Press, 257p.

Rygiel offers a cutting edge critical account of globalization's impact on 'citizenship'. Drawing from the works of Foucault, Arendt, and Agamben among others, the author examines citizenship not as a juridical and normative model centered on the nation-state but as an enhanced regime of government that brings together a complex configuration of power within, across, and between territorial borders. Meant to govern the mobility of individuals and populations through practices, discourses, technologies, and political subjectivities, Rygiel draws attention to how this regime has become at once internationalized, privatized, and individualized while at the same time shifting its target from controlling borders to managing populations. Through a close examination of new border control measures and detention practices in Canada, the United States, Australia, and elsewhere the author illustrates how the management of the mobility of individuals and populations increasingly operates on the terrain of 'biopolitics'; that is the 'life' and 'bodies' of citizens and non-citizens alike. Bringing her analysis full circle, the author concludes her book with an exploration of new forms of political resistance that have come to operate on this same terrain. Globalizing Citizenship is an innovative and compelling contribution to our understanding of the complex power relations that form the relationship between globalization, citizenship, and the state.

Rygiel offre un compte rendu critique, qui se distingue son avant-gardisme, au sujet de l'impact de la mondialisation sur la 'citoyenneté'. Puisant dans les travaux de Foucault, d'Arendt et d'Agamben, pour ne citer que ceux-là, l'auteure analyse la citoyenneté, non pas comme un modèle juridique et normatif centré sur l'État-nation, mais comme un régime renforcé faisant appel à une configuration complexe axée sur la notion de pouvoir à l'intérieur des frontières territoriales et entre elles. Rygiel met à la fois en lumière l'internationalisation, la privatisation et l'individualisation de ce système qui, censé régir la mobilité des personnes et des populations par le biais de pratiques, de discours, de technologies et de subjectivités politiques, a réorienté son objectif – du contrôle des frontières à la gestion des populations. À travers une analyse fouillée des nouvelles mesures de contrôle des frontières et pratiques de détention au Canada, aux États-Unis, en Australie et ailleurs, l'auteure montre comment la gestion des personnes et des populations opère de plus en plus sur le terrain de la 'biopolitique', c.-à-dire sur la 'vie' et le 'corps' des citoyens comme des non-citoyens. Bouclant la boucle, l'auteure conclut son livre par une analyse des nouvelles formes de résistance politique qui ont commencé à surgir sur le même terrain. Ouvrage novateur et convaincant, Globalizing Citizenship nous aide à mieux comprendre les relations de pouvoir complexes reliant la mondialisation, la citoyenneté et l'État.

Netina Clara Tan, Access to Power: Hegemonic Party Rule In Singapore and Taiwan

Natina Clara Tan asks the question why Singapore's People's Action Party has been successful in maintaining its hegemonic rule while Taiwan's Kuomintang has yielded to the forces of democratization. She makes a compelling argument for the importance of elite cohesion and strategic coordination of public goods and the restriction of political and civil liberties as the key variables in establishing and maintaining a hegemonic party system. Tan builds her analytical model through a combination of the historical institutional perspective and a carefully constructed comparative analysis. Using a mix of interviews, survey data and historical narrative, Tan offers a detailed examination of the decisions, practices and circumstances which have shaped the course of both parties. She has provided an insightful and provocative examination of the importance of party organization elite succession in either promoting or forestalling democratization. Her conclusion – that intra-party democracy has a deleterious impact on party cohesion – has applicability beyond the particular circumstances the two case studies.

Natina Clara Tan se demande pourquoi le People's Action Party à Singapour a réussi à conserver son pouvoir hégémonique alors que le Kuomintang à Taïwan a cédé le pas aux forces en faveur de la démocratisation. Elle fait valoir de façon convaincante l'importance de la cohésion de l'élite et de la coordination stratégique des biens communs ainsi de la restriction des libertés politiques et civiles en tant que variables clés dans l'établissement et le maintien d'un système politique hégémonique. Tan construit son modèle analytique en combinant la perspective institutionnelle historique et une analyse comparative soigneusement structurée. À l'aide d'entrevues, de données d'enquêtes et de récits historiques, Tan offre une analyse détaillée des décisions, pratiques et circonstances qui ont façonné l'évolution des deux partis. Elle fournit une description perspicace et percutante de l'importance de la succession des élites dans l'organisation des partis pour la promotion de la démocratie ou son rejet. Sa conclusion – la démocratie à l'intérieur d'un parti a un effet délétère sur la cohésion du parti – trouve des applications au-delà de ces deux études de cas.

Debra Thompson, Seeing Like a Racial State: The Census and the Politics of Race in the United States, Great Britain and Canada

An elegant analysis of the political development of racial categories and the enumeration of mixed race people in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, focussing on the last three decades of census politics. Thompson skillfully weaves the historical institutionalist, ideational and policy network literatures to develop a framework of the schematic state that is both an actor that constructs racial categories and an arena in which other interests debate the racial project alongside the state. The combination of diachronic crossnational research and within-case process tracing techniques allows Thompson to mount a persuasive challenge to conventional explanations about who gets counted and how – accounts that have been rooted in societal and legislative factors operating within national boundaries. This work makes an original contribution by illuminating how the interaction between changing transnational norms about the meaning of race, and national politics, preexisting racial projects and path dependencies, have reconstituted racial categories and approaches to racial enumeration.

Une analyse élégante de l'élaboration politique de catégories raciales et du dénombrement des personnes de race mixte au Canada, aux États-Unis et en Grande-Bretagne, mettant l'accent sur les trois dernières décennies des politiques en matière de recensement. Thompson tisse habilement les littératures sur les réseaux politiques, les idées et l'histoire des institutions en vue d'élaborer un cadre de l'État schématique, à la fois un acteur qui construit les catégories raciales et une arène dans laquelle d'autres parties intéressées débattent du projet racial à ses côtés. La combinaison de recherches transnationales diachroniques et de techniques de reconstitution de processus à l'intérieur des cas permet à Thompson de remettre en question de manière convaincante les explications classiques sur qui est dénombré et comment – des comptes rendus enracinés dans des facteurs sociétaux et législatifs à l'œuvre à l'intérieur des frontières nationales. Cet ouvrage apporte une contribution originale en expliquant comment l'interaction entre l'évolution des normes transnationales à propos de la signification de la race, les politiques nationales, les projets raciaux préexistants et le poids du passé a reconstitué des catégories raciales et des approches quant au dénombrement des personnes de race mixte.

Christophe Chowanietz, Politics in Extraordinary Time. A Study of the Reaction of Political Parties and Elites to Terrorism

This thesis proposes an original analysis of the behaviour of political parties during a crisis. Chowanietz places the issue of national and international terrorism squarely in the centre of political debate in five democratic societies, paying special attention to how political parties react in moments of instability. This thesis sets out the idea that in times of crisis, the parties set aside their partisan differences and act in solidarity. To demonstrate it, Chowanietz combines several dimensions, including an analysis of electoral behaviour, the history of terrorism and sociology. In an ambitious review of the literature, Chowanietz establishes an informative link between studies of political parties and international politics. What makes it original is how it brings together two fields most often considered unrelated. Methodologically, the thesis combines quantitative and qualitative analyses. On the one hand, Chowanietz is able to verify his hypotheses by constructing a theoretical model (the magnitude-repetition model), while on the other, he refines his analysis with an astute case study of the situation in France.

Cette thèse propose une analyse originale du comportement des partis politiques en période de crise. Chowanietz place la question du terrorisme national et international au cœur du débat politique de cinq sociétés démocratiques, s'intéressant principalement à la façon dont les formations politiques réagissent à des moments d'instabilité. Cette thèse expose l'idée qu'en temps de crise les partis se solidarisent mettant de coté leurs différences partisanes lors de moments difficiles. Afin de démontrer cette thèse, Chowanietz combine plusieurs dimensions, soit l'analyse du comportement électoral, l'histoire du terrorisme et la sociologie. Par une revue des écrits ambitieuse, Chowanietz établit une jonction éclairante entre les études sur les partis politiques et le champ de la politique internationale. L'originalité du travail consiste à rapprocher deux champs le plus souvent éloignés l'un de l'autre. Au niveau méthodologique, cette thèse combine des analyses quantitative et qualitative. D'une part, Chowanietz est en mesure de vérifier ses hypothèses par la construction d'un modèle théorique (The magnitude-repetition model). D'autre part, il raffine son analyse par une belle étude de cas de la situation en France.

Richard Johnston, Keith Banting, Will Kymlicka and Stuart Soroka, National Identity and Support for the Welfare State, Canadian Journal of Political Science / Revue canadienne de science politique 43:2 (June/juin 2010), 349-377

The article is a central piece in an issue devoted to Diversity and Democratic Politics. It develops a puzzling observation with regard to the role that national identity plays in support of the welfare state in Canada. It ends with a provocative proposition that emphasizes the importance of historical and cultural context and specificity. The article is a first rate example of handling new data in a theoretically informed and analytically rigorous manner. It has several additional strengths: impeccable scholarship anchored in many sub-fields of the discipline (political theory, quantitative methodology, theories of the state and public policy, immigration studies), relevance not only within the scholarly community but also with an eye for the larger policy debate in Canada – it is the kind of article which would be very useful to illustrate the kind of work done by political scientists.

Cet article occupe une position clé dans un numéro consacré à la diversité et aux politiques démocratiques. Il propose une observation inusitée à propos du rôle que joue l'identité nationale en faveur d'un État providence au Canada. Il se termine par une proposition provocatrice qui insiste sur l'importance du contexte historique et culturel et de sa spécificité. L'article est l'exemple par excellence de nouvelles données traitées de manière rigoureuse sur le plan de la théorie et de l'analyse. Il possède plusieurs autres qualités: recherche impeccable ancrée dans de nombreux sous-domaines de la discipline (théorie politique, méthodologie quantitative, théories au sujet de l'État et des politiques publiques, études portant sur l'immigration) et pertinence non seulement pour la communauté des chercheurs, mais aussi en regard du débat plus large sur les politiques au Canada. C'est le genre d'article qui serait très utile pour illustrer le travail des politologues.

Antoine Bilodeau, Stephen White and Neil Nevitte, The Development of Dual Loyalties: Immigrants' Integration to Canadian Regional Dynamics, Canadian Journal of Political Science / Revue canadienne de science politique 43:3 (September/septembre 2010), 515-544

This article examines an extremely important and topical issue in Canadian politics; the interplay between regionalism, dual loyalties and immigration. The authors find that new immigrants tend to develop more federally oriented loyalties than the local population of the province, although in Quebec this relationship is shaped by the immigrants' linguistic choice. This is yet another excellent article that commands impressive empirical support for a thought-provoking major question that is so central to the study and understanding of Canadian political life. A major strength of this article, compared with other recent publications on similar topics, is that it does not shy away from the complex dimensions making data analysis more difficult. A second major strength is that their work breaks new ground in showing the original situation of Québec with regards to the dual loyalties of immigrants.

Cet article porte sur un sujet d'actualité extrêmement important dans la vie politique canadienne: l'interaction entre le régionalisme, les loyautés doubles et l'immigration. Selon les auteurs, les nouveaux immigrants ont davantage tendance à développer des loyautés orientées davantage du côté fédéral que la population locale de la province, bien qu'au Québec, cette relation soit façonnée par le choix linguistique des immigrants. Voici un autre excellent article qui fournit un soutien empirique impressionnant à l'égard d'une question majeure qui donne à réfléchir et qui est si importante pour l'étude et la compréhension de la vie politique canadienne. L'un des points forts de cet article, en comparaison d'autres publications récentes sur des sujets semblables, est le fait qu'il n'esquive pas les dimensions complexes qui rendent l'analyse des données plus difficile. L'autre point fort, c'est que les auteurs vont plus au fond des choses en décrivant la situation particulière du Québec en ce qui concerne les doubles loyautés des immigrants.

Peter John Loewen and Frédéric Bastien, (In)Significant Elections? Federal By-elections in Canada, 1963-2008, Canadian Journal of Political Science / Revue canadienne de science politique 43:1 (March/mars 2010), 87-105

This is presented as a research note but it is an article in its own right. As the authors mention, we know very little about federal by-elections in a reflective, systematic way. This article is indeed very original in covering a significant gap in the literature. This is a methodologically sophisticated article from the sub-fields of electoral studies and Canadian politics. In addition, it is imaginatively written, maintaining the attention of readers who do not necessarily have the methodological know-how to follow and verify the argument. Relevant questions are clearly identified and the authors are unflinching with regards to facts. In the interpretation of their data, the authors confirm general trends but hazard a prediction with regards to even lower turnouts in future by-elections. Well-crafted piece of research, and very coherently and intelligently presented article.

Cette note de recherche mérite d'être considérée comme un article à part entière. Comme les auteurs le mentionnent, les élections partielles ont fait l'objet de très peu de réflexions systématiques. La grande originalité de cet article tient au fait qu'il vient combler cette importante lacune. Il s'agit d'un article relié aux sous-domaines des études électoralas et de la politique canadienne; il repose sur une méthodologie sophistiquée et est admirablement rédigé. Il parvient donc à retenir l'attention de lecteurs qui ne possèdent pas nécessairement le savoir méthodologique pour suivre et vérifier l'argumentation. Les questions pertinentes sont clairement identifiées et les auteurs sont sans faille pour ce qui concerne les faits. Dans l'interprétation de leurs données, ils confirment les tendances générales, mais risquent une prévision au sujet de la baisse du taux de participation aux élections partielles futures. Une recherche bien structurée et un article présenté d'une manière cohérente et intelligente.

John Borrows, Canada's Indigenous Constitution (Toronto: University of Toronto Press 2010). 427 pages.

John Borrows traces the evolution of Canada's constitution from its derivative colonial form to its contemporary form, and argues that indigenous laws and conventions both preceded and shaped the constitutional framework of the state. When read together, the common law and Aboriginal law better illuminate the principles of how to conduct and govern ourselves. The same principles that frame stare decisis and the same kinds of reasoning evident in many Supreme Court decisions require the courts and political institutions such as Parliament to take account of Aboriginal epistemological and legal approaches. Borrows' propositions are radical in their conception only insofar as Project Canada has thus far failed to incorporate the indigenous contribution that has always been part of the package. The implications of his propositions are part of the conceptual map towards a just postcolonial Canada. Students of constitutional law will especially appreciate the theoretical and jurisprudential strengths of this book.

John Borrows décrit l'évolution de la constitution canadienne depuis sa forme coloniale à sa forme contemporaine et soutient que les lois et les conventions autochtones ont à la fois précédé et façonné le cadre constitutionnel de l'État. Lorsqu'on les met en parallèle, la common law et le droit autochtone éclairent mieux les principes ayant trait à la façon de nous comporter et de nous gouverner nous-mêmes. Les mêmes principes qui encadrent le stare decisis et les mêmes types de raisonnement qui sont évidents dans les décisions de la Cour suprême exigent que les cours et les institutions politiques comme le Parlement prennent en considération les approches juridiques et épistémologiques des autochtones. Les propositions de Borrows sont radicales de par leur conception seulement dans la mesure où « Projet Canada » n'a pas réussi jusqu'ici à intégrer l'apport autochtone qui a toujours fait partie de l'ensemble. Les implications de ses propositions font partie d'un cadre conceptuel visant un Canada postcolonial juste. Les personnes qui étudient le droit constitutionnel apprécieront tout particulièrement les qualités théoriques et jurisprudentielles de cet ouvrage.

Stephen Clarkson and Stepan Wood, A Perilous Imbalance: The Globalization of Canadian Law and Governance (Vancouver: UBC Press, 2010). 347 pages.

In this book, Clarkson and Wood examine the challenges of governing globalization in the context of Canada, trying to understand both the impact of global forces on Canada and the conduct of Canadians on the global stage. Anchored throughout to an analysis of governance, law, sovereignty, and legitimacy, the authors demonstrate how globalization requires us to rethink key terms in the political order. In so doing, they have produced a magisterial account of Canada's relationship to globalization. Richly detailed yet eminently accessible, committed yet fair minded, erudite yet passionate, Clarkson and Wood argue centrally that the globalization of law and governance is characterized by severe, ever-perilous imbalances between economic and social priorities, and they conclude by sketching ways to recapture the potential of globalization as a progressive and legitimate force.

Dans ce livre, Clarkson et Wood étudient les difficultés associées à la gestion de la mondialisation dans le contexte du Canada tout en tenant de comprendre à la fois l'impact des forces mondiales sur le Canada et la conduite des Canadiens sur la scène mondiale. Effectuant fondamentalement une analyse de la gouvernance, du droit, de la souveraineté et de la légitimité, les auteurs démontrent comment la mondialisation nous oblige à repenser des termes clés dans la sphère politique. Ce faisant, ils ont produit un compte rendu magistral de la relation du Canada à la mondialisation. Foisonnant de détails et pourtant éminemment accessible, engagé mais objectif, à la fois érudit et passionné, cet ouvrage de Clarkson et de Wood fait valoir d'abord et avant tout que la mondialisation du droit et de la gouvernance est caractérisée par des déséquilibres graves et toujours risqués entre les priorités économiques et sociales. Les auteurs concluent en esquissant des façons de retrouver le potentiel de la mondialisation en tant que force progressive et légitime.

Paul Howe, Citizens Adrift: The Democratic Disengagement of Young Canadians (Vancouver: UBC Press, 2010). 338 pages.

In Citizens Adrift, Paul Howe explores a problem that every political scientist in Canada has to be thinking about: Why are younger people less interested in politics than their elders? Howe comes to the topic with an open mind, an infectious enthusiasm, and an impressive toolkit. Drawing on the research of others, generating new data of his own, and comparing Canadian results with similar countries, he examines the issue of disengagement from a number of fascinating angles. His diagnosis is at once wise, persuasive, and troubling; his prescriptions are realistic and achievable. Citizens Adrift is a model of political science that deserves a place on every scholar's reference table not just because it is accessible and intelligent, but because it will inform reflection and discussion both in class and, one hopes, on the street.

Dans Citizens Adrift, Paul Howe analyse un problème auquel pensent tous les politologues du Canada: pourquoi les jeunes s'intéressent-ils moins à la politique que leurs aînés? Howe aborde le sujet avec un esprit ouvert, un enthousiasme contagieux et une boîte à outils impressionnante. Puisant dans des recherches effectuées par d'autres, produisant de nouvelles données qui lui sont propres et comparant les résultats obtenus au Canada à ceux de pays semblables, il étudie le problème du décrochage des jeunes à partir de divers angles fascinants. Son diagnostic est nuancé, convaincant et troublant; ses prescriptions sont réalistes et réalisables. Citizens Adrift est un modèle de science politique et il mérite une place dans la bibliographie de tout chercheur et ce, non seulement parce qu'il s'agit d'un ouvrage accessible et intelligent, mais aussi parce qu'il saura alimenter nos réflexions et nos discussions en classe et, espérons-le, dans les rues.

Frédéric Boily, Le conservatisme au Québec: Retour sur une tradition oubliée. Québec: Presses de l'Université Laval, 2010. 144 pages.

Dans cet ouvrage, Frédéric Boily développe l'argument relativement novateur que même si la social-démocratie est devenue une idéologie courante au Québec depuis la Révolution tranquille, la tradition conservatrice y demeure présente. De façon originale, Boily fait la comparaison entre le conservatisme au Québec, au Canada ainsi qu'aux États-Unis. Il offre le portrait détaillé d'une province avec une riche histoire conservatrice qui continue à informer les institutions politiques et les changements sociaux. L'auteur présente un ouvrage lucide et très bien écrit, qui devrait changer la façon que l'on conçoit la politique québécoise et canadienne.

In this work, Frédéric Boily develops the relatively innovative argument that while social democracy has become accepted ideology in Québec since the Quiet Revolution, the conservative tradition is still present. Boily makes an original comparison of conservatism in Québec, Canada and the United States. He offers a detailed portrait of a province with a rich conservative history that continues to shape its political institutions and social changes. The author has produced a lucid and very well written work that should change the way we understand Quebec and Canadian politics.

Marcel Martel et Martin Pâquet, Langue et politique au Canada et au Québec: Une synthèse historique. Montréal, Boréal, 2010. 340 pages.

Cet ouvrage minutieusement documenté examine en profondeur le rôle politique central qu'a joué la langue française dans les débats publics qui ont marqué l'histoire canadienne et québécoise de 1539 à nos jours. L'étude permet notamment à ses auteurs d'identifier une série de « tendances lourdes » qui nous font comprendre que les crises linguistiques québécoises des années 1960 n'étaient sans doute pas aussi exceptionnelles qu'on a pu le penser. Martel et Pâquet offrent une analyse rigoureuse et convaincante de la question. L'attention qu'ils accordent à la langue tant comme un objet de revendication que comme un outil facilitant la mobilisation politique constitue une contribution remarquable aux écrits sur le sujet.

This meticulously documented book offers an in-depth examination of the central political role played by the French language in the public debates that have marked Canadian and Quebec history from 1539 to the present. Their study specifically enables the authors to identify a series of "major trends" showing that the Quebec linguistic crises of the 1960s were clearly not as exceptional as may have been thought. Martel and Pâquet offer a rigorous and convincing analysis of the subject. Their insights into language as both a political demand and a tool facilitating political mobilization are a remarkable contribution to the writings on this subject.

Pier-Luc Migneault, Les gouvernements minoritaires au Canada et au Québec, Québec: Les Presses de l'Université du Québec, 2010. 138 pages.

Les gouvernements minoritaires sont devenus la norme dans la politique fédérale et, dans ce livre, Pier-Luc Migneault offre aux lecteurs francophones une excellente analyse de ce phénomène. Une brève discussion des gouvernements minoritaires dans la théorie et la pratique des régimes parlementaires britanniques est suivie d'un survol de leur histoire sur la scène fédérale canadienne. Le cœur de l'ouvrage est toutefois constitué d'une minutieuse analyse quantitative de l'efficacité législative des gouvernements minoritaires au Canada et du gouvernement minoritaire québécois élu en 2007. Migneault y propose une série d'indicateurs législatifs du rendement gouvernemental et constate qu'un gouvernement minoritaire n'est pas forcément moins efficace qu'un gouvernement majoritaire.

Minority governments have become the norm in federal politics and in this book, Pier-Luc Migneault offers French-speaking readers an excellent analysis of this phenomenon. A short discussion of minority governments in theory and practice of British parliamentary regimes is followed by a survey of their history on the Canadian federal scene. The essence of the book however consists of a meticulous quantitative analysis of the legislative effectiveness of minority governments in Canada and the Quebec minority government elected in 2007. Migneault proposes a series of legislative indicators of government performance and concludes that a minority government is not necessarily less effective than a majority government.

Cheryl N. Collier, "The Disappearing Woman? Locating Gender Equality in Contemporary Child Care and Anti-Violence Policy Debates in Canada"

This paper provides a hook into methodological debates in feminist research, and Collier's focus on these two particular policy fields is wonderful, as is her adept explanation of how frame analysis can contribute to the study of public policies. The paper's contribution to our understanding of feminist movements' strategic goals and tactics, as well as governments' responses to these movements and to external pressures, are clear. Collier marshals her data efficiently in support of her claims, to produce a paper that not only contributes to the scholarship on women, gender, and public policy, but could be useful for feminists in all types of organizations (governmental, non-governmental....)

Cet article se penche sur des débats méthodologiques dans les recherches féministes. Les deux aspects des politiques que privilégie Collier sont fort intéressants tout comme son explication convaincante sur l'apport de l'analyse du cadre à l'étude des politiques publiques. La contribution de cet article à notre compréhension des buts stratégiques et des tactiques des mouvements féministes ainsi que des réponses des gouvernements à ces mouvements et à des pressions externes est claire. Collier regroupe ses données efficacement à l'appui de ses affirmations; il en résulte un article qui contribue non seulement à approfondir les connaissances sur les femmes, le genre et les politiques, mais qui peut aussi être utile aux féministes dans tous les types d'organisations (gouvernementales, non gouvernementales, etc.).

Candace Johnson, "Constructions of Maternal Citizenship and Mother Virtue"

Johnson's paper engages very thoughtfully and critically with the ideas of maternal citizenship and mother virtue. She provides a sophisticated analysis that blends philosophical debates, empirical analysis, and discussion of public policy. The paper contributes to the study of women and gender politics by redefining virtue in terms of qualities and expectations rather than divinity and nature. As such, the paper makes an important contribution to ongoing debate about the public-private divide, a perennial focus of feminist research. On contemporary policy issues, this paper highlights new and very salient problems, like the decision of the Quebec Government to fund IVF procedures for broad segments of the population (in April 2010 and not in April 2009), as well as the "medicalization" of pregnancy and the meaning of "natural" for childbirth.

L'article de Johnson traite de manière très réfléchie et critique de la citoyenneté maternelle et de la vertu maternelle. Son étude fouillée fait appel à des débats philosophiques, à l'analyse empirique et à la discussion de politiques publiques. L'article enrichit l'étude des femmes et des politiques en matière de genre en redéfinissant la vertu en termes de qualités et d'attentes plutôt qu'en termes de divinité et de nature. À ce titre, cet article fait avancer de manière importante le débat en cours sur la ligne de partage entre le public et le privé – un thème constant des recherches féministes. Au sujet des questions de politique contemporaines, cet article met en lumière des problèmes nouveaux et très importants, comme la décision du gouvernement québécois de financer la fécondation in vitro pour de larges couches de la population (en avril 2010, et non en avril 2009) ainsi que la « médicalisation » de la grossesse et la signification d'un accouchement « naturel ».

Anne Staver, “Family Reunification Policies and Diverse Family Life: A Fraught Relationship”

This paper uniquely explores family reunification policies, and does so by bringing gender together with other aspects of social life (i.e. immigration status, race, income, exclusion from family). This is a topical issue and approaches gender politics by complicating the category of woman. The paper is well-organized and substantiates the claims made through a careful study of policy. With an illuminating cross-country comparative analysis, Staver’s paper makes an important contribution to feminist theory, particularly in engaging with debates about the traditional family and the gendered and heteronormative nature of family in public policy.

Cet article explore de façon originale les politiques de réunification des familles et ce, en associant le genre à d’autres aspects de la vie sociale (c-à-d. le statut d’immigrant, la race, le revenu, l’exclusion de la famille). C’est là un sujet d’actualité et une approche des politiques en matière de genre qui complique la catégorie de la femme. Dans cet article bien structuré, les assertions sont étayées par une étude fouillée des politiques. Grâce à une analyse comparative éclairante portant sur tout le Canada, l’article de Staver apporte une contribution importante à la théorie féministe, particulièrement en s’engageant dans des débats à propos de la famille traditionnelle et la nature sexospécifique et hétéronormative de la famille dans les politiques publiques.

Melanee Thomas, “The Limits of Modernization: Gender, Generation, and Subjective Political Engagement in Canada, 1965-2008”

This paper examines a fundamental question in gender and politics research: why do engagement and confidence gaps along gender lines persist, despite large-scale changes that would predict their disappearance? Thomas makes a powerful contribution to the literature with her analyses, for she demonstrates that existing theory is inadequate to account for contemporary gender gaps in the two dimensions. As such, the paper makes a critical contribution to the literature on gender and political behaviour. Thomas’ paper is well written and logically organized, the long time period she analyzes provides a compelling basis for testing her hypotheses, and the data work is impressive.

Cet article pose une question fondamentale pour la recherche sur le genre et les politiques: pourquoi y a-t-il des écarts dans l’engagement et la confiance selon les sexes en dépit de changements importants qui laisseraient prévoir leur disparition? De par ses analyses, Thomas fait une contribution percutante à la littérature, car elle démontre que la théorie existante est inadéquate pour expliquer les écarts actuels entre les sexes dans les deux dimensions. À ce titre, cet article représente un apport critique à la littérature sur le genre et le comportement politique. L’article de Thomas est bien rédigé et structuré de manière logique. La longue période qu’elle analyse fournit une base solide pour tester ses hypothèses sans compter que les données qu’elle a réunies sont impressionnantes.

Responsibilities of chairs and discussants at the CPSA Annual Conference

The CHAIR is responsible for monitoring the entire session. The success of a session often depends upon the CHAIR's ability to restrict the time of speakers' presentations and temper the discussions from the floor in order to allow sufficient time for inter-action within the presentation. Some of the most important responsibilities of the CHAIR are to:

Open the session at the scheduled time and set the context with a few brief introductory remarks;
Introduce the participants before their presentations;
Maintain strict time limits for each speaker and discussant;
Moderate panel or floor discussions; and,
Adjourn the session in time to allow the room to clear before the next session begins.

CHAIRS are requested to report the name(s) of any no shows and the session number to the section head.

In sessions where discussants are expected to prepare comments in advance, the CHAIR has the option to drop from the programme any author not submitting a copy of his/her presentation to the appropriate discussant two weeks before the meeting.

DISCUSSANTS are to prepare, in advance, appropriate analytical or critical commentaries of the significance and contribution of the papers presented in a session. Time constraints on the length of the discussions are established by the chairs. DISCUSSANTS are under no obligation to comment on papers they have not received prior to the meeting.

Responsabilités des présidents et des commentateurs lors du Congrès annuel de l'ACSP

[Dans le présent document, le masculin est utilisé comme générique dans le seul but d'éviter d'alourdir le texte.]

Le PRÉSIDENT est responsable du bon déroulement de chaque séance. Le succès d'une séance dépend souvent de l'aptitude du PRÉSIDENT à limiter la durée des exposés et des interventions de façon à donner à chacun l'occasion de s'exprimer. Les principales responsabilités du PRÉSIDENT sont les suivantes:

ouverture de la séance à l'heure prévue et brève introduction;
présentation des participants avant leurs communications;
respect du temps imparti à chaque conférencier et commentateur;
animation des discussions; et, levée de la séance à l'heure fixée afin de libérer le local pour la séance suivante.

Les PRÉSIDENTS sont tenus de signaler toute absence d'un conférencier à une séance, en précisant le numéro de la séance au coordonnateur de la section concernée.

Pour les séances où des commentateurs sont censés préparer à l'avance leur analyse, le PRÉSIDENT peut à son gré annuler la participation de tout auteur qui n'aurait pas soumis un exemplaire de sa communication aux commentateurs, deux semaines avant la séance.

Les COMMENTATEURS doivent préparer à l'avance des commentaires analytiques ou critiques pertinents sur les communications présentées lors des séances. La durée des discussions est déterminée par le président. Les COMMENTATEURS ne sont pas tenus de commenter des communications qu'ils n'auraient pas reçues avant la séance.

Responsibilities of presenters at the CPSA Annual Conference

PRESENTERS should prepare comments outlining the major points of their papers. A good presentation is a must for a successful session.

Oral Presentation. Listed below are some guidelines for preparing an oral summary of a paper:

a) No paper should ever be read verbatim from the text. Such presentations are often not only dull but also incomplete due to time constraints imposed by the chair; an author reading from text may be cut off by the chair before reaching the most significant aspects of the presentation. Highlights may be given covering such points as purpose of the study, description of the sample, methodology, problems, major findings, conclusions, or recommendations. The amount of time devoted to each highlight may vary depending upon the author's evaluation of the importance of each area related to the paper.

b) Inexperienced extemporaneous speakers are advised to prepare a "reading text" of approximately 5-7 typed pages.

Distribution of Papers. PRESENTERS in sessions which have been assigned to discussants must forward copies of their papers to the session chair and the discussants no later than two weeks before the meeting. Failure to do this will likely result in the chair excluding the presentation from the session. Further, the discussant has no obligation to comment on the paper if it has not been previously seen. Such an action would be a loss to all attending the session.

PARTICIPANTS of round table are requested to bring copies of their papers or summaries of their projects to the sessions. Doing so will enable participants to discuss the topic more effectively.

Responsabilités des conférenciers lors du Congrès annuel de l'ACSP

[Dans le présent document, le masculin est utilisé comme générique dans le seul but d'éviter d'alourdir le texte.]

Les CONFÉRENCIERS doivent préparer un document qui regroupe les points saillants de leurs communications. Une bonne présentation constitue la base d'une séance réussie.

Présentations orales. Vous trouverez ci-dessous quelques directives qui vous aideront à préparer le résumé oral d'une communication:

a) Ne jamais lire une communication mot à mot. De telles présentations sont souvent monotones. De plus, le temps imparti étant limité, l'auteur qui lit son texte sera souvent interrompu par le président avant d'avoir atteint le point crucial de son exposé. Il est préférable de donner les grandes lignes: but de la recherche, description de l'échantillon, méthodologie, problématique, principales observations, conclusions ou recommandations. Le temps alloué à chacun de ces points peut varier selon l'importance que l'auteur leur attribue.

b) Il est conseillé à tout conférencier inexpérimenté de se préparer un texte de 5 à 7 pages dactylographiées.

Distribution des communications destinées aux commentateurs. Les CONFÉRENCIERS sont tenus de soumettre deux semaines à l'avance un exemplaire de leurs communications au président de la séance ainsi qu'aux commentateurs. Tout CONFÉRENCIER qui ne se conforme pas à cette exigence risque de voir sa communication exclue du programme. En outre, un commentateur qui n'aurait pas reçu dans les délais un exemplaire de la communication n'est pas tenu de préparer un commentaire; les personnes assistant à la séance en seraient ainsi privées.

Tout CONFÉRENCIER participant à une table ronde doit apporter avec lui des exemplaires de sa communication ou des résumés de sa recherche afin de favoriser une discussion plus fructueuse.

Responsibilities of delegates at the CPSA Conference

Delegates are asked to follow the rules set by the host university (i.e. smoking regulations), to refrain from conversing in the hallways outside of the presentations, and to refrain from leaving sessions early, that is, before all presenters have presented.

Responsabilités des congressistes lors du Congrès annuel de l'ACSP

On demande à tout congressiste d'obéir aux règlements établis par l'université hôte (p. ex. les aires de fumeurs), de ne pas discuter dans les couloirs près des salles où ont lieu les présentations et de ne pas sortir des séances tôt, avant que tous les conférenciers aient présenté leur communication.

Workshops/Ateliers

Workshops are sessions that are meant to provide an opportunity for participants to engage in fuller examination of a particular theme. All conference registrants are invited to attend workshops in their entirety or to drop in for any part.

Les ateliers visent à permettre aux participants d'approfondir un thème particulier. Toutes les personnes qui s'inscrivent au congrès sont invitées à prendre part à ces ateliers, soit du début à la fin, soit pour une partie seulement.

Workshop 1 – Teaching and Learning Politics

Organizers: Heather Smith (UNBC) / Janice Newton (York) – see N1,N2,p.56,N3,N5,N6,N9,N10,N11

We are pleased to announce the inaugural workshop for "Teaching and Learning Politics". The workshop will include a panel of excellence in teaching award winners, a series of panels/presentations as well as interactive teaching and learning sessions which address a range of broader themes found in the scholarship of teaching and learning. These include: innovative assignments related to key political science concepts such as democracy, federalism or security; reflections on pedagogy and the politics of teaching; teaching intersectionality; designing teaching dossiers; tips on teaching for new teachers; teaching millennial students; teaching philosophies; designing and implementing learning outcomes; integrating the international into our classroom; and active learning in large classrooms.

Atelier 1 – L'enseignement et l'apprentissage de la science politique

Organisatrices: Heather Smith (UNBC) / Janice Newton (York) – voir N1,N2,p.56,N3,N5,N6,N9,N10,N11

Nous avons le plaisir de lancer le premier atelier sur « L'enseignement et l'apprentissage de la science politique ». L'atelier réunira plusieurs lauréats de prix d'excellence en enseignement, une série de panels/communications et des séances interactives d'enseignement et d'apprentissage portant sur un plus vaste éventail de sujets reliés aux recherches sur l'enseignement et l'apprentissage. Par exemple: des devoirs novateurs au sujet de concepts clés en science politique, comme la démocratie, le fédéralisme, la sécurité; des réflexions sur la pédagogie et les politiques en matière d'enseignement; l'enseignement et les compétences transversales; la conception de dossiers pédagogiques; des conseils à l'intention des enseignants débutants; l'enseignement destiné aux élèves du deuxième millénaire; les philosophies de l'enseignement; la conception de résultats d'apprentissage et la mise en œuvre connexe; l'intégration de l'international dans la classe; l'apprentissage actif dans de grandes classes.

Workshop 2 – Canadian Politics: Thinking Canada with or without Quebec?

Organizer: François Rocher (Ottawa) – see A1b,A2b,A3,A5b,A6c,A9,A10b

From the aftermath of the Quiet Revolution and the early constitutional negotiations of the 1960s to the failed Meech and Charlottetown accords, Québec occupied a prominent position in research on Canadian politics. In the last 20 years, attention given to Québec in many research areas of Canadian politics seems to have progressively declined as new themes have come to the forefront: health care, Canadian foreign policy, the impact of the Charter on political institutions, social movements, globalization, the environment, etc. In this context, this workshop has a twofold objective: to assess the importance given to Québec, whether as a dependent or independent variable, in the research on Canadian politics; and, to stimulate the production of scholarly works on the place of Québec within the Canadian federation.

Themes that could be developed include:

- The ‘Québec model’ and policy-making in Canada;
- Federal-provincial relations;
- Relations with Aboriginal communities;
- Political parties and elections;
- Citizenship and identity;
- Canada’s political and constitutional future.

This workshop is supported by a grant from the Secrétariat aux affaires intergouvernementales canadiennes du Gouvernement du Québec (Programme de soutien à la recherche en matière d'affaires intergouvernementales et d'identité québécoise).

Atelier 2 – Politique canadienne – Penser le Canada avec ou sans le Québec?

Organisateur: François Rocher (Ottawa) – voir A1b,A2b,A3b,A5b,A6c,A9,A10b

Dans la foulée de la Révolution tranquille et de la saga constitutionnelle qui a marqué la fin des années 1960 jusqu'à l'échec des tentatives de modifications constitutionnelles de Meech et de Charlottetown, le Québec occupait une place importante dans les analyses et les travaux en politique canadienne. Depuis 20 ans, il semblerait que l'attention accordée au Québec, dans les travaux scientifiques, ait progressivement décliné dans certains domaines de recherche alors qu'il a pu se maintenir dans d'autres. De nouveaux thèmes retiennent désormais davantage l'attention des chercheurs: la mondialisation, l'environnement, les mouvements sociaux, l'impact de la Charte sur les institutions politiques, la santé, la politique étrangère canadienne, etc. L'objectif de cet atelier est double: prendre la mesure de l'attention accordée au Québec, comme variables dépendante ou indépendante, dans les recherches en politique canadienne; encourager la diffusion de travaux portant sur la place qu'occupe le Québec au sein de la fédération canadienne. Différents thèmes peuvent être abordés, notamment:

- le développement des politiques publiques au Canada et la prise en compte du « modèle québécois »;
- les relations fédérales-provinciales;
- les politiques vis-à-vis les Autochtones;
- partis politiques et élections;
- identité et citoyenneté;
- l'avenir politique et constitutionnel du Canada.

Cet atelier bénéficie d'une subvention du Secrétariat aux affaires intergouvernementales canadiennes du Gouvernement du Québec (Programme de soutien à la recherche en matière d'affaires intergouvernementales et d'identité québécoise).

Workshop 3 – Comparative Politics: Studying Chinese Politics in an International Age:

Implications for Scholars in the PRC and Canada – see p.44

Organizers: Kimberly Manning (Concordia) / André Lecours (Ottawa)

Over the last few years the number of scholars studying Chinese politics within Canada has expanded rapidly. At the same time, the discipline of political science within the People's Republic has diversified, internationalized, and indigenized. At this workshop we bring together scholars based in Canada and China (as well as those interested in the relations between the two countries) to present our current scholarship and exchange views on our shared field of study. The panels and roundtables in the workshop will address a range of issues including: political processes related to China's globalization (domestic or international), emerging developments in China's on-going project of economic and political reform, and the internationalization of political science in both China and Canada. We will focus especially on the relationship between academic research and the forging of government policy in China and Canada.

The workshop will consist of a one-day session prior to the commencement of the conference (May 15, 2011) and will follow with a series of panels running through the conference itself.

Atelier 3 – Politique comparée – L'étude de la politique chinoise à l'ère de la mondialisation: les implications pour les chercheurs en RPC et au Canada – voir p.44

Organisateurs: Kimberly Manning (Concordia) / André Lecours (Ottawa)

Au cours des dernières années, le nombre de chercheurs qui étudient la politique chinoise au Canada augmente rapidement. Parallèlement, la discipline de la science politique en République populaire de Chine fait l'objet d'une diversification, d'une internationalisation et d'une indigénisation. Grâce à cet atelier, nous espérons réunir des chercheurs du Canada et de la Chine (ainsi que ceux qui s'intéressent aux relations entre les deux pays) qui pourraient ainsi présenter leurs travaux et en discuter ensemble.

Les panels et tables rondes porteront sur un vaste éventail de sujets, dont les processus politiques reliés à la mondialisation de la Chine (à l'intérieur même du pays comme sur la scène internationale), l'évolution récente du projet actuel de réforme économique et politique de la Chine et l'internationalisation de la science politique tant en Chine qu'au Canada. Nous nous concentrerons surtout sur la relation entre la recherche universitaire et l'élaboration des politiques gouvernementales en Chine et au Canada.

L'atelier se déroulera sur une journée; il aura lieu avant le début du congrès (le 15 mai 2010) et sera suivi d'une série de panels tout au long du congrès lui-même.

Workshop 4 – International Relations: The Future of Peacebuilding: Haiti, Afghanistan, and Beyond – see C9e,C10e,C11e

Organizers: Timothy Donais (WLU, CPSA/ISA-Canada) / Samantha Arnold (Winnipeg, ISA-Canada)

It is increasingly argued that contemporary peacebuilding is in crisis. In recent years, the empirical record of international efforts to shepherd war-torn societies from open conflict to sustainable peace has been poor, and while the theoretical challenge to the dominant liberal peacebuilding model has been gaining strength in recent years, it remains unclear what, if anything, can replace it. The workshop will explore the contemporary state of, and future prospects for, post-conflict peacebuilding through three interlinked panels, drawing both on Canadian experiences and on cases in which Canada has been deeply involved.

The first panel will focus on Haiti, on lessons learned from recent peacebuilding experience there and on the prospects for a more stable peace emerging in the wake of the January 2010 earthquake. Panel two will focus on Afghanistan, and on the possibilities for reversing a deteriorating political and security situation in that country through a more coherent and consistent focus on peacebuilding. The final panel will explore official Canadian policies and perspectives on peacebuilding, particularly in light of Canada's extensive involvement in efforts to bring peace and stability to both Haiti and Afghanistan. Panels and roundtable discussions will focus on cross-cutting themes including: the balance between military and civilian roles in peacebuilding contexts; the viability of 'peacebuilding through statebuilding'; the role, and meanings, of local ownership in peacebuilding processes; and the political economy dimensions of peacebuilding.

Atelier 4 – Relations internationales – L’avenir des efforts de consolidation de la paix: Haïti,

Afghanistan et au-delà – voir C9e,C10e,C11e

Organisateurs: Timothy Donais (WLU, AÉI-Canada/ACSP) / Samantha Arnold (Winnipeg, AÉI-Canada)

On entend de plus en plus dire que la consolidation de la paix est en crise de nos jours. Au cours des dernières années, le dossier des efforts internationaux déployés pour guider des sociétés déchirées par la guerre vers une paix durable laisse à désirer et si la remise en question, sur le plan théorique, du modèle libéral dominant de consolidation de la paix prend de l’ampleur ces dernières années, la solution de rechange, s’il en existe une, n’est pas claire. Cet atelier explorera l’état actuel des efforts de consolidation de la paix à la suite d’un conflit et les perspectives d’avenir en la matière. Pour ce faire, trois panels interreliés seront organisés; ils s’appuieront à la fois sur des expériences canadiennes et sur des situations dans lesquelles le Canada est impliqué à fond.

Le premier panel sera axé sur Haïti, notamment sur les leçons tirées de l’expérience récente de consolidation de la paix dans ce pays et les perspectives d’une paix plus stable au lendemain du tremblement de terre de janvier 2010. Le deuxième panel portera sur l’Afghanistan et sur les possibilités de renverser une situation politique et un climat d’insécurité en pleine détérioration grâce à des efforts plus cohérents axés sur la consolidation de la paix. Le dernier panel explorera les politiques officielles du Canada et les perspectives d’avenir connexes, surtout à la lumière de l’important rôle que joue le Canada dans les efforts visant à apporter paix et stabilité tant en Haïti qu’en Afghanistan. Les discussions sous forme de panels et de tables rondes porteront essentiellement sur des thèmes transversaux, comme l’équilibre entre les rôles des militaires et des citoyens dans les efforts de consolidation de la paix, la viabilité de la « consolidation de la paix par la reconstruction de l’État », le rôle et les significations de l’appropriation locale des processus de consolidation de la paix et la consolidation de la paix dans ses rapports avec l’économie politique.

Workshop 5 – International Relations: Canada’s Northern Policy: Themes, Tensions, and Contradictions – see C10d,C11d

Organizers: Samantha Arnold (Winnipeg, ISA-Canada) / Timothy Donais (WLU, CPSA/ISA-Canada)

As the Cold War was coming to a close, Canada worked quickly to institutionalise the vision of the Arctic as a cooperative and demilitarised space called for by President Mikhail Gorbachev in his famous Murmansk speech in 1987. Advanced in this context, Canada’s work to establish the Arctic Council was not simply understood to have been a Canadian initiative; it, and other multilateral undertakings in the region, have been characterized as reflecting a particularly Canadian vision of the Arctic, expressed through the idea that cooperative partnership with indigenous northern peoples represented a specifically ‘Canadian and Northern’ contribution to circumpolar governance. This more than anything else has become the basis of Canada’s claims to be well-suited to assume a leadership role in the development of a cooperative, inclusive, and rule-based regime in the north.

Canada’s northern foreign policy statements reveal the extent to which this ‘partnership’ with northern indigenous peoples has become, rhetorically at least, the animating principle of Canada’s engagements in the north. Contradictions are not difficult to find, however. At the same time that Canada actively cultivates an image of region as a cooperative space, Canadian policy is also animated by an image of ‘our north’ under siege. Another contradiction between Canada’s stated agenda in the north and the actions it undertakes can be seen in the Government’s failure to fully implement the Nunavut Land Claims Agreement. Still other tensions are evident in the Canadian enthusiasm for meetings of the ‘Arctic 5’ (the 5 coastal states) to discuss key northern issues, by-passing not only indigenous partners, but also the Arctic Council and the broader international community.

The Workshop will feature two panels exploring these issues. The first panel examines the various ways in which ‘security’ in the Arctic is framed, and how it fits within the broader context of Canadian security policy. The second panel provides an opportunity to critically evaluate the actual and potential accomplishments and failings of Canada's self-proclaimed leadership role and engagement with circumpolar neighbours in the north.

Atelier 5 – Relations internationales – Le Canada et sa politique du Nord: thèmes, tensions et contradictions – voir C10d,C11d

Organisateurs: Samantha Arnold (Winnipeg, AÉI-Canada) / Timothy Donais (WLU, AÉI-Canada/ACSP)

Vers la fin de la guerre froide, le Canada s'est rapidement employé à institutionnaliser la vision de l'Arctique souhaitée par le président Mikhaïl Gorbachev dans son célèbre discours à Murmansk en 1987, à savoir celle d'un espace coopératif et démilitarisé. Dans un tel contexte, les efforts du Canada en vue de mettre sur pied le Conseil de l'Arctique n'ont pas été considérés comme une simple initiative canadienne; ces efforts et d'autres activités multilatérales dans la région ont été vus comme l'expression d'une vision particulièrement canadienne de l'Arctique dans la mesure où elle repose sur l'idée qu'un partenariat avec les populations autochtones du Nord représentait une contribution spécifiquement « canadienne » à la gouvernance de l'Arctique circumpolaire. C'est cela plus que toute autre chose qui est devenue la base des prétentions du Canada selon lesquelles il est bien placé pour assumer un rôle de leader dans l'élaboration d'un système coopératif, inclusif et fondé sur des règles dans le Nord.

Les énoncés de politique étrangère du Canada au sujet du Nord révèlent dans quelle mesure ce « partenariat » avec les populations autochtones du Nord est devenu, sur le plan de la rhétorique du moins, le principe qui inspire les engagements du Canada dans le Nord. Des contradictions ne sont pas toutefois difficiles à trouver. Le Canada cultive activement une certaine image de la région, celle d'un espace de coopération, mais la politique canadienne est également animée par une image de 'notre Nord' assiégié. Autre contradiction entre le programme explicite du Canada à l'égard du Nord et les actions entreprises: le gouvernement ne réussit pas à mettre en œuvre pleinement l'Accord sur les revendications territoriales du Nunavut. D'autres tensions aussi manifestes sont soulevées par l'enthousiasme du Canada pour la tenue de rencontres de l'« Arctic 5 » (les cinq États côtiers) en vue de permettre la discussion de questions clés ayant trait au Nord, mais en court-circuitant non seulement les partenaires autochtones, mais aussi le Conseil de l'Arctique et la communauté internationale dans son ensemble.

L'atelier comprendra deux panels sur ces questions. Le premier panel porte sur les différentes façons dont la « sécurité » dans l'Arctique est conçue et la politique canadienne en matière de sécurité. Le deuxième panel offre l'occasion d'évaluer d'une manière éclairée les réalisations et les faiblesses réelles et potentielles du Canada dans le rôle de leadership qu'il s'est donné et ses relations avec ses voisins dans la région circumpolaire.

Workshop 6 – Political Behaviour/Sociology: Public Opinion

Organizer: Laura Stephenson (UWO) – see E9a,E10a

Public opinion can have a significant impact on politics. Whether it be the fate of a scandal-ridden MP, the success of a controversial piece of legislation, or the progress of bilateral negotiations, the mood of the public cannot be taken for granted or ignored. Yet, there are limits to what we know about public opinion. This workshop is intended to showcase papers that provide insight into the nature, development and consequences of public opinion.

Atelier 6 – Comportement/sociologie politique – L'opinion publique

Organisatrice: Laura Stephenson (UWO) – voir E9a,E10a

L'opinion publique peut avoir un impact important sur la politique. Qu'il s'agisse du sort d'un député plongé dans un scandale, du succès d'une mesure législative controversée ou du progrès de négociations bilatérales, on ne peut être sûr de l'humeur du public ni ne pas en tenir compte. Or, il y a pourtant des limites à ce que nous savons au sujet de l'opinion publique au Canada. Cet atelier regroupera des communications qui éclairent la nature, l'évolution et les conséquences de l'opinion publique.

Workshop 7 – Political Economy: What Does Political Economy offer a World in Crisis? The Economy/The Environment/Social Reproduction & Labour

Organizer: Marjorie Griffin Cohen (SFU) – see F1,F2,F3

The global economic crisis and the challenges that arise from the current tendency to destroy the environment are recognized as twin and competing issues of contemporary political economy. Less prominent, but equally significant are the issues affecting social reproduction and labour that arise from attempts to deal with economic and environmental problems. The most recent attempts to find solutions to the financial crisis and climate change tend to ignore their social impacts and do almost nothing to change the current inequalities that relate to class, gender, race, and other categories associated with the disadvantaged in the world.

This workshop will discuss and debate contemporary approaches to political economy. In addition to providing analyses for the reasons for system failure, the workshop will debate what approaches would lead to a synchronization of solutions so that each separate sphere (i.e., economy, politics, environment, and the social) are not treated independently and in isolation from each other – not only in Canada, but also from a global perspective.

Atelier 7 – Économie politique – Qu’offre l’économie politique à un monde en crise? L’économie / l’environnement social / la reproduction sociale et la main-d’œuvre

Organisatrice: Marjorie Griffin Cohen (SFU) – voir F1,F2,F3

La crise économique mondiale et les problèmes découlant de la tendance actuelle à détruire l'environnement sont reconnus comme deux enjeux connexes de l'économie politique contemporaine. À cela s'ajoutent les problèmes, moins évidents mais tout aussi importants, affectant la reproduction sociale et la main-d'œuvre et découlant des tentatives entreprises pour faire face aux problèmes économiques et environnementaux. Les initiatives toutes récentes pour essayer de trouver des solutions à la crise financière et aux changements climatiques ont tendance à ne pas tenir compte des impacts sociaux et ne font presque rien pour changer les inégalités actuelles reliées à la classe sociale, au sexe, à la race et à d'autres catégories associées aux défavorisés de la planète.

Dans cet atelier, nous discuterons et débattons des approches contemporaines en économie politique. En plus des analyses des raisons des échecs systémiques observés, il y aura des débats à propos des approches les plus susceptibles de fournir des solutions synchronisées afin que chaque sphère distincte (c.-à-d. l'économie, la politique, l'environnement et la dimension sociale) ne soit pas traitée séparément et en marge des autres – et ce, non seulement au Canada, mais aussi à l'échelle mondiale.

Workshop 8 – Political Theory: Global Justice and Global Governance

Organizers: Colin Farrelly (Queen's) / Loren King (WLU) – see G2b,G3b,G5b,G6b,G9b,G10b,G11b, G12

This workshop explores the themes of global justice and global governance. What obligations and duties do we have to non-nationals? Which principles and (existing or possible) global institutions are best suited to address the diverse concerns that arise in the world today? And which historical figures in the canon of political theory (e.g. Aristotle, Hobbes, Kant, etc.) offer ideas and concepts that can help us address the challenges of today's interdependent and complex world?

Over the course of the workshop we will examine these themes, and related issues, from all areas of political theory: normative analysis, history of political thought, applied theory. From cosmopolitanism and nationalism, to concerns of global health, immigration and international institutions, we aim to bring theory to bear on practical concerns that arise in an era of globalization.

Atelier 8 – Théorie politique – Justice internationale et gouvernance mondiale

Organisateurs: Colin Farrelly (Queen's) / Loren King (WLU) – voir G2b,G3b,G5b,G6b,G9b,G10b,G11b, G12

Cet atelier explore les thèmes de la justice internationale et de la gouvernance mondiale. Quels devoirs et obligations avons-nous envers les non-ressortissants? Quels principes et institutions internationales (actuelles ou éventuelles) conviennent le mieux pour faire face aux divers sujets de préoccupation qui surgissent dans le monde de nos jours? Et quelles figures historiques dans le canon de la théorie politique (par ex., Aristote, Hobbes, Kant, etc.) prônent des idées et des concepts qui nous aident à relever les défis que pose le monde complexe et interdépendant d'aujourd'hui?

Au cours de l'atelier, nous nous pencherons sur ces thèmes et des questions connexes du point de vue de tous les secteurs de la théorie politique: la théorie normative, l'histoire de la pensée politique et la théorie pratique. Qu'il s'agisse du cosmopolitisme, du nationalisme ou des questions reliées à la situation sanitaire dans le monde, à l'immigration et aux institutions internationales, nous visons à relier la théorie aux considérations pratiques qui surgissent en cette ère de la mondialisation.

Workshop 9 – Public Administration: International/Development Studies and Public Administration

Organizer: Carolyn Johns (Ryerson) – see J9,J10,p.91

In the past decade the growing scholarly interest in international/development studies has challenged the traditional comparative focus of public administration and the traditional boundaries of public administration theory and research. This workshop will focus on the research frontiers presented at the growing interface of these two interdisciplinary fields and the challenges of integrating international/development studies with public administration in terms of theory, research, teaching, and practice. It will examine the central role of the administrative state and public administration in international relations/development, the implications for those whose traditional focus has been on Canadian and comparative public administration, the influence of international organizations and global social movements, and more current topics related to the global financial crisis, public sector reform, capacity and democratic administration.

Atelier 9 – Administration publique – Études internationales/études sur le développement et administration publique

Organisatrice: Carolyn Johns (Ryerson) – voir J9,J10,p.91

Au cours de la dernière décennie, l'intérêt grandissant des chercheurs pour les études internationales et les études sur le développement remet en question l'approche comparative traditionnelle de l'administration publique et les frontières traditionnelles entre la théorie et la pratique eu égard à l'administration publique. Cet atelier portera essentiellement sur les frontières de la recherche à l'articulation de plus en plus grande de ces deux champs interdisciplinaires et sur les défis associés à l'intégration des études internationales et des études sur le développement à l'administration publique en termes de théorie, de recherche, d'enseignement et de pratique. Nous examinerons le rôle central de l'administration publique dans les relations internationales et le développement, les implications pour les chercheurs privilégiant surtout l'administration canadienne et les comparaisons entre les administrations publiques, l'influence des organisations internationales et des mouvements sociaux à l'échelle de la planète ainsi que sujets qui sont davantage d'actualité, comme la crise économique mondiale, la réforme du secteur public, les capacités et l'administration démocratique.

Workshop 10 – Law and Public Policy: The Transnational Dimensions of Domestic Public Policy

Organizer: Gerard Boychuk (Waterloo) – see K9a,K9b,K9c,K10a,K10b,K10c,K11a,K11b,K11c,K12

The workshop considers the transnational dimensions of public policy and policy-making across a range of policy areas including, most notably, social governance, policy responses to the global financial crisis, health policy, and immigration/migration and refugee policy. In doing so, the workshop considers the cross-national flows of policy ideas (especially in policy paradigm development) as well as the policy influence of international organizations, cross-national networks, and transnational civil society actors. The workshop lunch speaker presentacion will feature Professor Nicola Yeates (Open University) who will speak on Globalizing Social Policy: Reflections on Two Decades of Debate.

Atelier 10 – Analyse de politiques – Les dimensions transnationales des politiques publiques nationales

Organisateur: Gerard Boychuk (Waterloo) – voir K9a,K9b,K9c,K10a,K10b,K10c,K11a,K11b,K11c,K12

Cet atelier porte sur les dimensions transnationales des politiques publiques et de l'élaboration des politiques dans un éventail de secteurs, notamment la gouvernance sociale, les réponses politiques à la crise financière mondiale, les politiques en matière de santé ainsi que les politiques concernant l'immigration/migration et les réfugiés. Ce faisant, l'atelier étudie la circulation d'un pays à l'autre des idées au sujet des politiques (voire surtout le développement d'un paradigme de l'ordre public) ainsi que l'influence des politiques des organisations internationales, les réseaux transnationaux et les intervenants transnationaux dans la société civile. À l'heure du lunch, le P' Nicola Yeates (Open University) présentera un exposé sur la mondialisation des politiques sociales et ses réflexions sur deux décennies de débats.

Workshop 11 – Women, Gender, and Politics: Feminism and Institutions: Theory, Practice and Power

Organizer: Cheryl Collier (Windsor) – voir L5,L6a

Until recently, gender and politics scholars in Canada and elsewhere largely ignored the impact on women's politics of state architectures and institutions. However, several international networks, including the Feminism and Institutionalism International Network (FIIN) and the Feminist International Network on State Architectures (FINSA), have emerged, linking scholars whose work focuses on formal institutions as well as on the informal institutional practices, ideas and norms that structure political life. In 2009, the journal Politics and Gender published critical perspectives papers on "feminist institutionalism" (vol. 5, 2) exploring intersections between feminism and theories of institutionalism. Publications have also appeared in 2010 which explore federalism and multilevel governance from a gendered perspective.

This workshop will focus on this increasingly influential area of feminist political research by encouraging scholars engaged in the field to propose papers which examine the potential and limits of institutionalism as an approach to the study of gender and politics. Panels and roundtables will consider why and how specific state structures and institutional arrangements and norms affect interactions between gender and politics; and/or assess how gender-focused research will expand the boundaries of "mainstream" institutional scholarship.

Atelier 11 – Femmes, genre et politique – Le féminisme et les institutions: théorie, pratique et pouvoir

Organisatrice: Cheryl Collier (Windsor) – voir L5,L6a

Jusqu'à récemment, les universitaires effectuant des recherches sur les genres et la politique au Canada et ailleurs ont fait peu de cas de l'impact des architectures étatiques et des institutions sur la politique et les femmes. Or, plusieurs réseaux internationaux, incluant le Feminism and Institutionalism International Network (FIIN) et le Feminist International Network on State Architectures (FINSA), ont vu le jour, reliant ainsi des universitaires dont les travaux portent surtout sur les institutions officielles et sur les pratiques, idées et normes institutionnelles informelles qui structurent la vie politique. En 2009, la revue Politics and Gender a publié des articles présentant des points de vue critiques sur l'« institutionnalisme féministe » (vol. 5, 2), articles explorant les intersections entre le féminisme et les théories de l'institutionnalisme. Ont également paru en 2010 des publications qui explorent le fédéralisme et la gouvernance multiniveau du point de vue des rapports entre les hommes et les femmes.

Cet atelier portera essentiellement sur l'influence grandissante de la recherche féministe en science politique. Dans cet esprit, nous invitons les universitaires à l'œuvre dans ce domaine à soumettre des projets de communication qui examinent le potentiel et les limites de l'institutionnalisme en tant qu'approche de l'étude du genre et de la politique. Les panels et les tables rondes porteront sur pourquoi et comment des structures étatiques ainsi que des normes et arrangements institutionnels affectent les interactions entre les genres et la politique et/ou évalueront comment la recherche tenant compte des genres repoussera les frontières de la recherche institutionnelle classique.

Workshop 12 – Women, Gender and Politics and Political Behaviour: Quantitative Analysis of Women, Gender and Politics

Organizers: Laura Stephenson (UWO) / Cheryl Collier (Windsor) – see E3

The study of women, gender and politics fits into many of the traditional fields in political science and incorporates a variety of methods both qualitative (a predominant choice in the field according to a 2006 study by Childs and Krook) and quantitative. We have learned much about how gender influences political decisions, how representative our institutions are, and how one's gender can lead to notable cleavages in opinion. In each of these cases and in a growing number of others, the use of quantitative analysis has been a significant and valuable tool for illuminating the extent of inequities, imbalances and progress. While certainly not the only approach that can be used to investigate the role of gender in societal relations, quantitative methodology provides a unique way of addressing and analyzing the issues, either alone or in conjunction with qualitative approaches.

This workshop will highlight the work of scholars who employ quantitative approaches to address current women, gender and politics research questions. Given the numerical advantage women have in societies (particularly in Canada as 52% of the population), and the plethora of survey data that is available, this workshop is intended to facilitate a dialogue about how to best utilize these methods, the feminist challenges associated with their incorporation into this type of research, and the various benefits associated with their use in opening up new spaces for women, gender and politics research to speak to the larger political science discipline.

Atelier 12 – Femme, genre et politique et Politique/comportement politique – Femme, genre et politique: analyse quantitative

Organisatrices: Laura Stephenson (UWO) / Cheryl Collier (Windsor) – voir E3

L'étude des femmes, du genre et de la politique a sa place dans de nombreux domaines de la science politique et incorpore tout un éventail de méthodes tant qualitatives (un choix prédominant selon l'étude réalisée en 2006 par Childs et Krook) que quantitatives. Nous avons de beaucoup parfait nos connaissances sur les influences des genres sur les décisions politiques, sur le degré de représentativité de nos institutions et sur les différences remarquables dans les opinions que peut entraîner le sexe d'une personne. Dans chacun de ces cas et dans un nombre grandissant d'autres cas, l'utilisation d'une analyse quantitative s'est révélée un outil précieux pour mettre en relief l'importance des inégalités, des déséquilibres et des progrès. Bien qu'il ne s'agisse certainement pas de la seule approche qui puisse être employée pour étudier le rôle du genre dans les relations au sein de la société, la méthodologie quantitative fournit un mode d'analyse unique en son genre, qu'elle soit utilisée seule ou de concert avec des approches qualitatives.

Cet atelier mettra en lumière le travail des universitaires qui ont recours à des approches quantitatives dans leurs analyses portant sur les femmes, le genre et la politique. Étant donné l'avantage numérique des femmes dans diverses sociétés (particulièrement au Canada, où elles représentent 52 % de la population) et la pléthore des données de sondage disponibles, cet atelier contribuera à promouvoir un dialogue sur les meilleures façons d'utiliser ces méthodes, sur les défis féministes associés à leur intégration dans ce type de recherche et sur les divers avantages dérivés de leur utilisation en vue d'ouvrir de nouveaux espaces pour les recherches sur les femmes, le genre et la politique au sein de la science politique.

Workshop 13 – Race, Ethnicity, Indigenous Peoples and Politics: The State, Indigenous self-determination and the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

Organizer: Ravi De Costa (York) – see M1,M2

It has now been three years since the overwhelming endorsement of the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIPS) by the General Assembly of the United Nations. Canada's endorsement of the Declaration was made in November 2010. In these two panels, we examine the politics of the Declaration, weighing its significance to Aboriginal politics and policy in Canada in the coming years. We hope to have a sustained consideration of the importance of the document to the aspirations of Indigenous communities, as well as its potential role in changing the landscape for state policy-making on Indigenous issues. Particular papers will focus on comparative accounts of developments in countries that have endorsed UNDRIPS and debates about Indigenous rights more broadly; political opposition to UNDRIPS in Canada; and the challenges of implementing the Declaration.

Organisateur: Ravi De Costa (York) – voir M1,M2

Trois ans se sont écoulés depuis l'aval donné massivement à la Déclaration des Nations Unies sur les droits des peuples autochtones (DNUDPA) par l'Assemblée générale des Nations Unies. Le Canada, lui, a donné son avis en novembre 2010. Dans ces deux panels, nous analyserons la dimension politique de la Déclaration, notamment sa portée par rapport aux politiques autochtones et aux politiques canadiennes dans les années à venir. Nous voulons réfléchir ensemble à l'importance de ce document pour les aspirations des communautés autochtones et à son rôle potentiel dans l'évolution du contexte dans lequel s'élaborent les politiques du gouvernement sur les questions autochtones. Des communications porteront sur la suite des événements dans divers pays ayant souscrit à la DNUDPA et sur les débats au sujet des droits des autochtones en général, sur l'opposition politique à la DNUDPA au Canada et sur les défis que pose la mise en œuvre de la Déclaration.

There was no business arising.

5. Report: President

Professor Banting reminded those in attendance that his report was attached to the agenda.

Ethics

Professor Banting informed the membership that the Board had accepted the report and recommendations of the Ethics Committee, i.e. that CPSA adopt an aspirational model for addressing issues brought to the Board but one without sanctions. He pointed out that President-elect White would be establishing a committee to determine how best to put the recommendations in to a useable format. He thanked the Ethics Committee for their work on a report and recommendations to CPSA, Avigail Eisenberg, Caroline Dick and Jocelyn McClure.

Diversity

President Banting also thanked the members of the Diversity Task force, particularly Yasmeen Abu-Laban and Richard Johnston for their work on the Departmental and individual surveys. He informed the membership that the Departmental survey report would be translated and posted to the website. He informed the membership that he had asked Professor Martin Papillon to join the Task force and Professor Papillon accepted the challenge.

Trust Fund

In relation to the Trust Fund, President Banting informed the membership that the Trust Fund had been drawn to a close according to the original terms of the Fund. It has been reconstituted as a Development Fund and retains charitable status. He formally thanked Professor Peter Meekison, in absentia, for his 20 year commitment to the Trust Fund.

Additionally, President Banting thanked:

- the Executive Committee and the outgoing Board members; their wisdom always appreciated;
- Stuart Soroka and his committee for the development of an excellent 2010 programmed
- the prize jury members for their work;
- the Nominating Committee for their assistance in managing the election and Miriam Smith for overseeing the vote count; and
- the staff, Michelle Hopkins and Sally Rutherford.

6. Report: Nominating Committee

Professor Banting presented the membership of the newly elected board members.

Newly elected Board members:

Graduate Student:

Professor Banting again thanked the nominating committee: William Coleman (McMaster), Guy Laforest (Laval) and Linda Trimble (Alberta) and encouraged members to submit completed nominations for the 2011 election.

7. Introduction of President Graham White

Professor Banting introduced Professor White and presented him with the presidential cup.

Professor White introduced the President-Elect, Professor Reeta Tremblay (Memorial) and asked her to join the Executive at the front of the room.

Professor White also introduced Professor Christine Rothmayr as the Secretary-Treasurer for the 2010-2011 year and thanked Professor Eric Montpetit for his hard work for CPSA-ACSP over the past 5 years and presented him with a plaque.

8. Report: Secretary-Treasurer

Professor Montpetit made reference to the financial report attached to the agenda. He informed the membership that the modest 2009-2010 surplus will stand CPSA in good stead to make the move to a stand-alone conference in 2011.

He then called for the following motions:

MOTION CARRIED

That the following proposed increase in CJPS institutional fees for be recommended to the 2010 AGM:

From:

2010 Institutions print and electronic: £79/US$127

Dr. Williams thanked the CPSA members for encouraging their students to apply to the Program.

11. Report: Canadian Journal of Political Science

Professor Csaba Nikolenyi, Editor, gave his report for 2009-2010:

- Submissions were up 11%;
- Turnaround time has increased as the submissions increase;
- There is reviewer fatigue and therefore, a need for assistance in helping to identify new reviewers;
- The Journal did create a new section for Race Ethnicity, Indigenous Peoples and Politics and because of the timing related to submission, review and printing articles will appear in the coming issues.

Professor White then presented plaques to André Lecours – Assistant Editor 2006-2009 and Julian Schofield – Book Review Editor 2006-2009 for their work with the Journal .

12. Report: 2010 Conference

Professor Stuart Soroka reported the following:

- a) The attendance at the conference was higher than expected at approximately 850 attendees;
- b) Mebs Kanji deserved thanks for having put together a great team and for his excellent work in managing the conference logistics;
- c) Section chairs had performed beyond expectation in developing solid sessions often with additional outside resource.

13. Other Business

Professor White responded to a question on the future of CPSA annual conferences being held in conjunction with Congress by reminding the membership that a referendum will be held after the CPSA conference in 2012. He also reminded participants that the 2013 meeting would be held in conjunction with Congress for logistical reasons no matter the outcome of the referendum.

14. Adjournment

MOTION

That the meeting be adjourned.

5. Rapport du président

Le P^r Banting rappelle aux personnes présentes que son rapport est joint à l'ordre du jour.

Déontologie

Le P^r Banting informe les membres que le conseil d'administration a accepté le rapport et les recommandations du Comité sur la déontologie – à savoir que l'ACSP adopte un modèle axé sur la promotion d'un idéal, sans sanction, lorsque le conseil d'administration est confronté à des problèmes. Il indique le président désigné, le P^r White, va mettre sur pied un comité pour déterminer quelle est la meilleure façon de concrétiser ces recommandations. Il remercie ensuite les membres du Comité de déontologie – Avigail Eisenberg, Caroline Dick et Jocelyn McClure – pour leur travail et leurs recommandations.

Diversité

Le P^r Banting remercie également les membres du Groupe de travail sur la diversité, notamment Yasmeen Abu-Laban et Richard Johnston, pour leur travail relié aux sondages à l'intention des départements et des membres de l'ACSP. Il informe ensuite les membres que le rapport au sujet du sondage envoyé aux départements allait être traduit et publié sur le site Web de l'ACSP. Il annonce également aux membres qu'il avait demandé au P^r Martin Papillon s'il acceptait de se joindre à ce groupe de travail et que le P^r Papillon s'était dit prêt à relever le défi.

Fonds de fiducie

Le P^r Banting informe les membres que la date à laquelle la fin du Fonds de fiducie de l'ACSP avait été prévue dès l'origine avait été atteinte. Ce fonds est devenu un Fonds de développement, ayant lui aussi un statut d'organisme de bienfaisance. Il a remercié en bonne et due forme le P^r Peter Meekison, en l'absence de l'intéressé, pour les vingt ans qu'il a consacrés à la promotion du Fonds de fiducie.

Le P^r Banting remercie ensuite:

- pour leur grande sagesse, le bureau de direction et les membres du conseil d'administration dont le mandat est terminé;
- Stuart Soroka et son comité, qui ont mis au point un excellent programme pour le congrès de 2010;

7. Présentation du président Graham White

Le P^r Banting présente son successeur, le P^r White, et lui remet ensuite le symbole du poste qu'il occupe, la Coupe présidentielle.

À titre de président, le P^r White remet alors au P^r Banting le certificat présidentiel et le remercie, au nom du conseil d'administration et des membres, pour tout son travail.

Le P^r Montpetit invite les membres à consulter le rapport financier joint à l'ordre du jour. Il informe les membres que le modeste surplus pour l'exercice 2009-2010 sera utile pour organiser le congrès indépendant de 2011.

Il a ensuite soumis les propositions suivantes:

- e) Le PSI va remettre sur pied son conseil consultatif en 2010 en vue de développer des liens plus solides avec tous ses partisans et donateurs.

M. Williams remercie les membres qui encouragent les étudiants à proposer leur candidature.

11. Rapport au sujet de la Revue canadienne de science politique

Le P^r Csaba Nikolenyi, directeur de la revue, présente son rapport pour la période 2009-2010:

- Le nombre de manuscrits soumis a augmenté de 11%.
- Le délai d'exécution s'est accru avec l'augmentation du nombre de manuscrits.
- On note une lassitude chez les évaluateurs actuels; il faut trouver un moyen d'identifier de nouveaux arbitres.
- La revue a créé une nouvelle section, Race, ethnicité, peuples autochtones et politique. Il faut du temps pour recevoir les manuscrits, les évaluer et les imprimer; des articles paraîtront dans les prochains numéros.

Le P^r White remet ensuite deux plaques, l'une à André Lecours, directeur adjoint de 2006 à 2009, et l'autre à Julian Schofield, responsable des recensions pour la même période, et souligne leur excellent travail.

12. Rapport au sujet du congrès de 2010

Le P^r Stuart Soroka présente le rapport suivant:

- a) Les inscriptions – environ 850 – ont dépassé les attentes.
- b) Mebs Kanji mérite des remerciements pour l'équipe formidable qu'il a mise sur pied et pour son excellente gestion logistique.
- c) Les présidents des diverses sections ont eux aussi dépassé les attentes en organisant des sessions fort intéressantes, souvent sans l'apport de ressources externes.

13. Autres questions

Le P^r White répond à une question au sujet de l'avenir des congrès annuels de l'ACSP organisés dans le cadre du Congrès des sciences humaines en rappelant aux membres qu'un référendum aura lieu au congrès de l'ACSP en 2012. Il rappelle également aux participants que le congrès de 2013 aura lieu dans le cadre du Congrès des sciences humaines pour des raisons logistiques, peu importe le résultat du référendum.

14. Levée de l'assemblée

PROPOSITION

ADOPTÉE

Que l'assemblée générale soit levée.

President's Report
Graham White

It has been a busy, challenging and – most importantly – successful year for the Canadian Political Science Association. The Association continues to enjoy healthy and stable membership numbers and a balanced budget. The 2010 annual conference at Concordia was a great success and the conference this year at Wilfrid Laurier in Waterloo promises great things as well.

The Association's core activities continue to be strong and well managed. The Canadian Journal of Political Science goes from strength to strength, in no small measure due to the efforts of the editorial teams. On the French-language side, Co-editor Nicole Bernier and Book Review Editor Linda Cardinal continue their fine work. Changes are unfolding in the English-language editorial team. After five years at the helm, Csaba Nikolenyi has tendered his resignation in order to take on the Chairship of the Concordia Department. Our thanks and congratulations to Csaba. Happily, Jim Kelly, who has been serving as Assistant Editor, has agreed to step in as English Co-editor and Francesca Scala continues as English-language Book Review Editor. In short the Journal remains in good, experienced hands. At the time of writing the status of the assistant editorship was uncertain.

As of July 1, 2012 the term of the English-language editorial team at Concordia will end. Having shepherded the Journal through two three-year terms, the Concordia team has indicated that they will not be seeking another. Accordingly, the search is on for a new English-language editorial team. A search committee is in place and a formal call for proposals went out in February to all English-language departments as well as to all bilingual departments. We hope to have identified a new English-language home for the Journal by the Fall.

Both the Parliamentary Internship Programme (PIP) and the Ontario Legislature Internship Programme (OLIP) continue to prosper under the capable direction of Garth Williams (PIP) and Henry Jacek (OLIP). Each programme gives ten bright, committed university graduates a marvelous opportunity to see parliamentary politics from both government and opposition perspectives while contributing their skills to the elected members fortunate enough to have interns serving in their offices. Both programmes continue to enjoy strong support from parliamentary/legislative staff and members; as can be seen from the directors' reports, enthusiasm and financial support from sponsors remains high.

The annual CPSA-organized meeting of Political Science Chairs took place in Toronto in January. Nearly 40 chairs attended. A new format, focusing on important themes such as mentoring of new faculty and changes to SSHRC's granting programmes, proved highly successful.

The other ongoing core CPSA activity is the annual conference. The major departure from past practice in this year's conference warrants special attention in the reporting of additional Association developments:

The Annual Conference

This year – and next, as described below – CPSA will not be meeting as part of the Congress of Humanities and Social Sciences. Instead, the Association accepted the invitation of the Department at Wilfrid Laurier to host the conference. This is part of a two-year experiment on 'going it alone' authorized by the Board three years ago and discussed extensively at the Annual General Meeting in 2009.

Meeting separately from Congress has afforded the Programme Committee and the local organizers substantial flexibility and access to prime campus locations for sessions and events. Programme Chair Debora VanNijnatten and her team have put together a wonderful programme featuring 13 workshops, the usual number and range of sessions, a series of special events including a second plenary. The annual dinner at the Concordia Club promises to be great fun from the opening keg-tapping ceremony to the after-dinner dancing.

Organizing any CPSA conference is a huge task, calling for a tremendous commitment of time and energy, not to mention a high level of organizational skill plus knowledge of the profession and its members. This year the challenge has been especially daunting since CPSA is responsible for many of the tasks that Congress usually undertakes: arranging accommodation, finding day care, organizing the book fair, setting up an on-line registration process, and much more. The Laurier organizing team has risen to the occasion and then some. Local Coordinator Andrea Perrella and his colleagues David Docherty, Jason Roy and Sherry Palmer (ably assisted by Sally Rutherford and Michelle Hopkins at the CPSA Secretariat) have done a superlative job in putting together a conference that combines top-notch academic sessions and great social events. Kudos to all.

Next year, CPSA will be meeting in Edmonton at the University of Alberta. The organizing team has been hard at work for some time. Programme Chair Yasmeen Abu-Laban has put together a terrific Programme Committee and Local Organizer Judith Garber is well into the planning for a series of special events – including celebrations of CPSA's centennial (of which more below). It will be a great conference; mark your calendars now: June 13-15.

Following the Edmonton conference, Association members will have the opportunity to assess the experiment and to offer their views on whether CPSA should continue to 'go it alone' or return to Congress. Given the lead time necessary to organize a stand-alone conference (should that be outcome of the consultation with the membership), the Board has decided that in 2013 we will meet with Congress in Victoria. The following year, 2014, the International Political Science Association will be holding its World Congress in Montreal in July and CPSA will have to decide whether to schedule our meetings during or around the IPSA meetings, as we did previously when IPSA met in Canada.

The Profession

CPSA continues to move forward on a range of issues that directly affect the discipline and profession of political science.

The Diversity Task Force is nearing the end of its work. In addition to conducting a survey of diversity practices in Canadian political science departments it surveyed the membership of the Association in order to develop a profile of the discipline and understand members' experiences and perceptions of diversity issues. The Task Force – Yasmeen Abu-Laban (Alberta), Richard Johnston (UBC), Joanna Everitt (UNB-SJ), David Rayside (Toronto) and Martin Papillon (Ottawa) – will be submitting its final report shortly.

Last year the Board reviewed the report of the Committee on Professional Ethics and the views of members who offered comments after the report was posted on the CPSA web site. With some minor changes, the Board endorsed the committee's recommendations, which involved establishing a Standing Committee on Ethics which would, among other things, develop a statement of ethics for the profession and advise the Board on ways to inform and educate the membership about ethical issues. The Standing Committee is not empowered to investigate or review individual complaints about ethical breaches. The Standing Committee on Ethics comprises Ian Greene (York), Catherine Frost (McMaster) and Caroline Andrew (Ottawa).

In planning for the Laurier and Edmonton conferences, it became evident that CPSA lacks an explicit policy about what could generally be labeled 'sponsorship'. The point was not whether CPSA should accept donations from sponsors, since it already does so in various ways. For example, PIP and OLIP are heavily dependent on funding from sponsors; organizers of workshops at the annual conference often solicit funding from a range of institutions; and publishers, both academic and commercial, have donated funds for book prizes. Instead, the issue was that the Association has no formal or informal policy or guidelines as to what sort of donations are acceptable and under what circumstances. In order to fill this gap, an ad hoc Committee on Sponsorship was created to advise the Board on an appropriate policy. Members of this committee are Robert Young (UWO), Frances Abele (Carleton), Janice Newton (York) and Patrick Fournier (Montreal).

A good many CPSA members are employed in government, the volunteer sector or the private sector. Some of these, but by no means all, are part-time or sessional instructors at colleges and universities. Substantial numbers of those with graduate political science degrees pursue careers outside of academia yet wish to remain engaged in the profession. Accordingly, the Association created an ad hoc committee to report to the Board on ways that the Association could better serve the needs of (for want of a better term) 'non-academics' and on ways that CPSA could take advantage of the talents and experiences of its non-academic members. The committee consists of Leslie Seidle (Institute for Research on Public Policy), Craig McFadyen (Government of Ontario), Danny Lepage (Government of Canada) and Stephanie Irlbacher-Fox (Fox Consulting).

The Standing Committee on Ethics as well as the two ad hoc committees advised the membership of their mandates and sought information and suggestions through notices sent to all CPSA members and through notices on POLCAN.

CPSA Centennial

2012 marks the 100th anniversary of the Canadian Political Science Association. Planning is underway for special events at the Edmonton conference to celebrate the occasion but we also hope to be able to recognize this milestone in other ways as well. Suggestions are welcome.

CPSA Representation Role

The Association continues to actively represent the discipline of political science and the professional interests of Canadian political scientists on a range of issues, most notably:

SSHRC Granting Programmes. Major changes are underway in the way that SSHRC organizes, funds and adjudicates its research grants. CPSA made a submission last Spring in response to SSHRC's discussion paper on its new 'architecture'. Some, but not all, of CPSA's concerns were addressed in the first major round of changes last Fall and the Association maintains a watching brief on developments as the changes continue to unfold.

Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences. The Federation released an important discussion paper, Framing Our Direction 2010-12 last year as part of a strategic planning exercise. Led by CPSA Representative to the Federation (and Federation Board member) Tony Porter, the Association submitted a brief setting out ideas for improving the effectiveness of CFHSS in general and on issues of particular concern to political scientists.

Research Ethics. The final version of the second edition of the Tri-Council Policy Statement (TCPS) which governs research ethics was released in November. The new policy departs in significant ways from its predecessor. CPSA was actively involved in the process leading to the new policy; the final version incorporates a number of important improvements the Association had advocated. Although TCPS is now in place, much will depend on how it is implemented. CPSA continues to monitor this critical issue.

CPSA maintains links with a number of important national and international organizations. In addition to Tony Porter's involvement with CFHSS, Les Pal is the representative of the Association and of the Société québécoise de science politique to IPSA and serves on its Executive Committee. Thanks to both for their work on our behalf.

A Final Word of Thanks

I've been honoured to serve as President of CPSA. Although it can be demanding, my load has been immeasurably lightened by the assistance and support of a great many people. At the CPSA Secretariat, Sally Rutherford and Michelle Hopkins are not only consummate professionals – really they are the ones who keep the Association running smoothly – but they also are a joy to work with. The Executive Committee – Keith Banting, Reeta Tremblay, Christine Rothmayr Allison and Genevieve Fuji Johnson – have been wonderfully supportive throughout the year. Together with Sally and Michelle they have saved me from any number of errors and provided invaluable (and quick!) advice. Special thanks to Christine for agreeing to step in to take over as Secretary-Treasurer when Eric Montpetit resigned to become Chair at Montreal and to Keith who, as Past President, never looked over my shoulder or told me what to do but was always available with sage advice when I asked. The members of the Board continue to prove themselves great colleagues; my thanks to each and every one.

Mention has already been made of the contributions of colleagues such as Henry Jacek, Garth Williams, Les Pal and Tony Porter. So too the members of the various task forces and committees noted above have given freely and effectively of their time and talents. I'd be remiss in not extending my thanks to the members of the Nominating Committee, whose work is so essential to the continued organizational strength of the Association: Ian Stewart (Acadia), François Rocher (Ottawa) and Lisa Young (Calgary).

My predecessors warned me that perhaps the most difficult part of the job would be rounding up members for the many committees and prize juries that shoulder so much of the Association's work. In one sense they were right; it took a fair bit of time and energy. In another sense, however, they neglected to mention the upside: discovering the enormous good will towards CPSA among so many of the Association's leading (and busy) members who agreed to take on what were often quite onerous responsibilities. On CPSA's behalf, I thank them and all the others who have made my year as President such an enjoyable experience.

Rapport du président Graham White

Ce fut une année chargée, stimulante et – surtout – fructueuse pour l'Association canadienne de science politique. Notre effectif demeure nombreux et stable et notre budget est équilibré. Le congrès annuel de 2010 à Concordia a remporté un franc succès et le congrès de cette année à la Wilfrid Laurier University à Waterloo est aussi très prometteur.

Les activités principales de l'Association continuent à être bien gérées et à susciter beaucoup d'intérêt. La Revue canadienne de science politique n'a cessé de s'étoffer et ce, dans une large mesure, grâce aux efforts des équipes de rédaction. Du côté francophone, la codirectrice Nicole Bernier et Linda Cardinal, responsable des recensions, continuent leur excellent travail. Des changements sont en cours pour ce qui est de l'équipe de rédaction anglophone. À la barre depuis cinq ans, Csaba Nikolenyi a remis sa démission afin de prendre la direction du département de science politique à Concordia. Nous adressons nos remerciements et nos félicitations à Csaba. Heureusement, Jim Kelly, directeur adjoint, a accepté de le remplacer au poste de codirecteur anglophone et Francesca Scala continuera à être la responsable des recensions du côté anglophone. En somme, la Revue demeure entre bonnes mains. Au moment où j'écris ces lignes, le statut du poste de directeur adjoint est incertain.

Le 1^{er} juillet 2012, le mandat de l'équipe de rédaction anglophone à Concordia prendra fin. Après avoir assumé la responsabilité de la Revue au cours de deux mandats de trois ans, l'équipe de Concordia a indiqué qu'elle ne briguerait pas un autre mandat. Il faut donc trouver une nouvelle équipe de rédaction anglophone. Un comité de recherche a été mis sur pied et un appel de propositions en bonne et due forme a été lancé en février à tous les départements anglophones ainsi qu'à tous les départements bilingues. Nous espérons annoncer d'ici l'automne les résultats de cette recherche.

Le Programme de stage parlementaire (PSP) tout comme le Programme de stages à l'Assemblée législative de l'Ontario (PSALO) poursuivent leur essor sous l'habile direction de Garth Williams (PSP) et de Henry Jacek (PSALO). Chaque programme donne à dix étudiants diplômés à la fois brillants et dynamiques une occasion en or de suivre l'activité parlementaire du parti au pouvoir et de l'opposition tout en apportant leurs compétences aux députés qui ont la chance d'avoir ces stagiaires dans leurs bureaux. Les deux programmes continuent à jouir d'un très grand soutien de la part des députés et du personnel du Parlement et de l'Assemblée législative. Comme on peut le constater à la lecture des rapports des deux directeurs, l'enthousiasme et le soutien financier des commanditaires demeurent au rendez-vous!

La réunion annuelle des directeurs et directrices de département de science politique organisée par l'ACSP a eu lieu à Toronto en janvier. Près de quarante personnes y sont assisté. La nouvelle formule, axée sur des thèmes importants comme les nouveaux professeurs et le mentorat ainsi que les changements apportés aux programmes de subvention du CRSH, a connu un grand succès.

L'autre activité centrale de l'ACSP est le congrès annuel. La rupture avec la pratique établie pour ce qui est du congrès de cette année mérite une attention particulière dans le présent rapport.

Le congrès annuel

Cette année – et l'an prochain, comme il est décrit plus bas –, le congrès de l'ACSP ne fera pas partie du Congrès des sciences humaines. L'Association a plutôt accepté l'invitation du département de science politique de Wilfrid Laurier à tenir le congrès à cette université. Rappelons que le conseil d'administration a autorisé l'ACSP à faire ainsi cavalier seul pendant deux ans et que la question a été amplement discutée lors de l'assemblée générale annuelle de 2009.

Le fait d'avoir un congrès distinct a donné au comité du programme et aux organisateurs locaux une énorme souplesse et un accès à des sites de choix sur le campus pour les séances et les événements. La présidente du comité du programme, Debora VanNijnatten, et son équipe ont préparé un excellent menu comprenant 13 ateliers, une série de séances comparable en termes de nombre et de variété à ce qui s'est fait dans le passé et un ensemble d'événements spéciaux, dont une deuxième plénière. Le dîner annuel au Concordia Club promet d'être fort amusant, depuis l'ouverture à la bavaroise jusqu'à la danse en fin de soirée.

La mise sur pied de tout congrès annuel de l'ACSP est une lourde tâche, qui exige énormément de temps et d'énergie, sans oublier de très grandes compétences organisationnelles ainsi que la connaissance de la profession et de ses membres. Cette année, le défi a été particulièrement redoutable puisque l'ACSP est responsable d'un grand nombre des volets incombant habituellement aux organisateurs du Congrès des sciences humaines: prendre les mesures nécessaires pour l'hébergement, trouver des ressources pour une garderie, organiser le salon du livre et mettre en place un processus d'inscription en ligne, pour ne citer que ces exemples. L'équipe de Laurier s'est sans contredit montrée à la hauteur de la tâche. Le coordonnateur local, Andrea Perrella, et ses collègues, David Docherty, Jason Roy et Sherry Palmer (habilement assistés par Sally Rutherford et Michelle Hopkins au secrétariat de l'ACSP) ont fait un travail exceptionnel, comme en témoignent les séances de tout premier ordre et les activités sociales fort intéressantes qui sont au programme. Félicitations à tous!

L'an prochain, le congrès de l'ACSP aura lieu à Edmonton à l'University of Alberta. Les responsables de ce congrès se sont attelés à la tâche depuis un certain temps déjà. La présidente du comité du programme, Yasmeen Abu-Laban, a réuni une équipe du tonnerre et l'organisatrice locale, Judith Garber, est déjà bien avancée dans la planification d'une série d'événements spéciaux – dont les célébrations marquant le centenaire de l'ACSP (voir plus bas). Ce sera un excellent congrès. N'oubliez pas d'indiquer dès maintenant les dates dans votre agenda: 13 au 15 juin 2012.

Après le congrès à Edmonton, les membres de l'Association auront l'occasion d'évaluer l'expérience et de dire s'ils estiment que l'ACSP devrait continuer à faire cavalier seul ou revenir avec le Congrès des sciences humaines. Étant donné le délai que requiert l'organisation d'un congrès indépendant (si tel était le résultat de la consultation menée auprès des membres), le conseil d'administration a décidé qu'en 2013, notre congrès ferait partie du Congrès des sciences humaines à Victoria. L'année suivante, en 2014, l'Association internationale de science politique tiendra son congrès mondial à Montréal en juillet et nous devrons décider si nous allons tenir notre congrès pendant ou à peu près à la même période que le congrès de l'AISP, comme nous l'avions fait lorsque l'AISP s'est réunie au Canada dans le passé.

La profession

L'ACSP continue à avancer sur des sujets qui ont un effet direct sur notre discipline et la profession de politologue.

Le Comité sur la diversité achève son travail. Il a mené un sondage auprès des départements de science politique au Canada sur leurs pratiques en matière de diversité et un sondage auprès des membres de l'Association en vue de mettre au point un profil de la discipline et de comprendre les expériences et les perceptions des membres quant aux questions touchant à la diversité. Ce comité – Yasmeen Abu-Laban (Alberta), Richard Johnston (UBC), Joanna Everitt (UNB-SJ), David Rayside (Toronto) et Martin Papillon (Ottawa) – soumettra son rapport final sous peu.

L'an passé, le conseil d'administration a pris connaissance du rapport du Comité sur la déontologie ainsi que des opinions des membres qui ont envoyé des commentaires après la publication de ce rapport sur le site Web de l'ACSP. Mis à part quelques changements mineurs, le conseil d'administration a donné son aval aux recommandations du comité, dont celle ayant trait à la mise sur pied d'un Comité permanent sur la déontologie devant, entre autres, élaborer un énoncé quant à l'éthique professionnelle et guider le conseil d'administration sur des façons d'informer et d'éduquer les membres au sujet des questions d'éthique. Le Comité permanent sur la déontologie n'est pas habilité à examiner des plaintes individuelles au sujet de manquements à l'éthique ou à y donner suite. Le Comité permanent sur la déontologie est composé de Ian Greene (York), Catherine Frost (McMaster) et Caroline Andrew (Ottawa).

Lors de la planification des congrès à Waterloo et à Edmonton, il est apparu évident qu'il nous manquait une politique explicite sur ce que l'ACSP pourrait globalement appeler une « commandite ». Il s'agissait de déterminer si l'ACSP devrait accepter des dons de la part de commanditaires puisqu'elle le fait déjà de bien des façons. Le PSP et le PSALO, par exemple, dépendent fortement des fonds offerts par des commanditaires, les organisateurs des ateliers au congrès annuel sollicitent souvent des fonds de divers établissements et les maisons d'édition, tant universitaires que commerciales, ont donné des fonds pour les prix accordés à des ouvrages. La question soulevée était que l'Association n'avait aucune politique ou directive formelle ou informelle quant au type de dons et aux circonstances jugées acceptables. Pour combler cette lacune, un Comité spécial sur les commandites a été créé en vue de recommander au conseil d'administration une politique appropriée. Les membres de ce comité sont Robert Young (UWO), Frances Abele (Carleton), Janice Newton (York) et Patrick Fournier (Montréal).

Un bon nombre des membres de l'ACSP travaillent pour le gouvernement, le secteur bénévole ou le secteur privé. Certains, mais certainement pas tous, sont des chargés de cours à temps partiel dans des collèges et des universités. Un nombre important de ceux et celles qui détiennent un diplôme en science politique poursuivent des carrières en dehors du monde de l'enseignement et souhaitent pourtant rester engagés dans la profession. C'est pourquoi l'Association a créé un comité spécial ayant pour mandat d'indiquer au conseil d'administration comment l'Association pourrait mieux répondre aux besoins des « membres hors des universités » (faute d'un meilleur terme) et mieux tirer profit de leurs talents et expériences. Ce comité regroupe Leslie Seidle (Institut de recherche en politiques publiques), Craig McFadyen (Gouvernement de l'Ontario), Danny Lepage (Gouvernement du Canada) et Stephanie Irlbacher-Fox (Fox Consulting).

Le Comité permanent sur la déontologie ainsi que les deux comités spéciaux ont fait part de leurs mandats aux membres de l'ACSP et demandé des informations et des suggestions par le biais d'avis envoyés à tous ces membres, notamment sur POLCAN.

Le centenaire de l'ACSP

L'Association canadienne de science politique célébrera son 100^e anniversaire en 2012. La planification d'événements spéciaux lors du congrès d'Edmonton est déjà en cours, mais nous souhaitons aussi marquer ce jalon important d'autres façons. Vos suggestions sont les bienvenues.

Le rôle de porte-parole de l'ACSP

L'Association continue à représenter activement la science politique et les intérêts professionnels des politologues canadiens dans tout un éventail de domaines.

Programmes de subventions du CRSH: Des changements majeurs sont en train d'être apportés à la façon dont le CRSH structure, finance et distribue ses subventions de recherche. L'ACSP a présenté une réponse le printemps dernier au document de consultation du CRSH au sujet de sa nouvelle « architecture ». Une partie, et non la totalité, des préoccupations de l'ACSP ont été prises en compte dans la première série importante de changements l'automne dernier et l'Association continue à suivre de près l'évolution de ce dossier.

Fédération canadienne des sciences humaines. La Fédération a publié l'an dernier un important document de consultation intitulé Définir nos orientations 2010-2012 dans le cadre d'un exercice de planification stratégique. Sous la direction de Tony Porter, représentant de l'ACSP auprès de la Fédération (et membre du conseil d'administration de la Fédération), l'Association a soumis un mémoire regroupant des idées pour améliorer l'efficacité de la FCSH en général et traitant de questions particulièrement préoccupantes pour les politologues.

Éthique de la recherche. La version finale de la 2^e édition de l'Énoncé de politique des trois Conseils (EPTC) qui régit l'éthique des projets de recherche a été publiée en novembre. La nouvelle politique s'écarte de manière significative de la version précédente. L'ACSP s'est impliquée activement dans le processus menant à la nouvelle politique; la version finale incorpore plusieurs des améliorations importantes que l'Association avait préconisées. Bien que l'EPTC soit maintenant en place, la manière dont il est mis en œuvre sera déterminante. L'ACSP continue à surveiller cette question cruciale.

L'ACSP maintient un lien avec plusieurs organisations nationales et internationales importantes. Outre les rapports entretenus par Tony Porter avec la FCSH, Les Pal est le représentant de l'ACSP et de la Société québécoise de science politique à l'AISP et est membre de son comité de direction. Merci à tous les deux pour le travail qu'ils font en notre nom.

Remerciements

Ce fut un honneur d'être le président de l'ACSP. Bien que la tâche puisse être exigeante, elle fut immensément allégée grâce à l'aide et au soutien de nombreuses personnes. Sally Rutherford et Michelle Hopkins, au secrétariat de l'ACSP, sont non seulement des professionnelles accomplies – ce sont vraiment elles qui voient au bon fonctionnement de l'Association -, mais aussi des personnes avec qui c'est un plaisir de travailler. Le Comité de direction – Keith Banting, Reeta Tremblay, Christine Rothmayr Allison et Genevieve Fuji Johnson – m'ont merveilleusement épaulé tout au long de l'année. De concert avec Sally et Michelle, ils m'ont fait éviter plusieurs erreurs et prodigué des conseils précieux (dès que j'en avais besoin). Je remercie tout spécialement Christine pour avoir accepté de remplacer Éric Montpetit, notre secrétaire-trésorier, qui a donné sa démission lorsqu'il est devenu le directeur du département de science politique à l'Université de Montréal, ainsi que Keith, notre président sortant, qui n'a jamais regardé par-dessus mon épaule ou ne m'a jamais dit quoi faire, mais qui a toujours été prêt à me faire profiter de ses sages conseils lorsque je me m'adressais à lui. Les membres du conseil d'administration continuent à s'avérer d'excellents collègues; je remercie chacun d'entre eux.

Nous avons déjà mentionné le travail précieux de collègues comme Henry Jacek, Garth Williams, Les Pal et Tony Porter. L'apport en termes de temps et de talents des membres des divers groupes de travail et comités décrits plus haut mérite aussi d'être souligné. Je m'en voudrais de ne pas remercier les membres du Comité des candidatures, dont le travail est si essentiel pour continuer à assurer la force de notre organisation: Ian Stewart (Acadia), François Rocher (Ottawa) et Lisa Young (Calgary).

Mes prédécesseurs m'avaient averti que l'aspect probablement le plus difficile de mon travail serait le recrutement des membres des nombreux comités et jurys quiassument une si grande partie des tâches dont doit s'acquitter l'Association. D'une certaine manière, ils avaient raison; ce genre de recrutement prend pas mal de temps et d'énergie. Ils avaient toutefois omis de me parler d'un aspect positif: la découverte de toute la bonne volonté d'un si grand nombre des membres les plus en vue (et déjà très occupés) de l'ACSP qui ont accepté d'assumer des responsabilités souvent lourdes. Au nom de l'ACSP, je remercie ces personnes et toutes les autres grâce auxquelles mon année en tant que président s'est avérée une expérience fort agréable.

Ontario Legislature Internship Programme

Director's Report 2010-2011

Henry Jacek, Academic Director

Introduction

This is my seventh year as Academic Director of the Ontario Legislature Internship Programme (OLIP). I could not do this job unless I had a capable and wise Programme Assistant. I am fortunate to have an outstanding person in this position in Eithne Whaley, a former intern in the British House of Commons, now in her eighth year with the Programme.

Also on our management team are two excellent employees of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, coordinators Lorraine Luski and Anne Stokes. Lorraine is now in her seventh year as a programme Coordinator. Lorraine, a Research Officer with Research and Information Services, is a former intern herself from the 1983-1984 year. Anne is Deputy Clerk of Journals and Procedural Research and is now completing her fourth year as Programme Coordinator. Finally I thank Dr. Catherine Frost, an Associate Professor of Political Science at McMaster University, for her help in the intern selection process. Catherine was an intern in 1990-1991.

Every Friday, the management team has a two hour meeting with the ten interns. I think I can speak for all 14 of us and say this is the most enjoyable time of the week as we discuss the legislative events of the week, the recent experiences of the interns and the plans for future OLIP activities. As well, we discuss the research projects of the interns, the fruit of which are the papers the interns present at this Annual Meeting of the Canadian Political Science Association.

We are now in our third year of our ten intern cohort. While we are happy to provide two more bright young university graduates the experience of our Programme, the increased financial cost, especially in intern education, is an added strain for us. We hope to maintain the rich experience of recent years, but for that to continue, we will need more sponsor support.

Intern Educational Activities: Orientation

The core of the intern programme is the placements with two members of the Legislative Assembly, one with the government side and one on the opposition side. But just as important are our educational activities. The intern experience begins with the September orientation. Most exciting for the interns are meetings with the three party leaders, Premier Dalton McGuinty, Leader of the Official Opposition Tim Hudak and Leader of the Third Party, Andrea Horwath.

In order of our interns to understand the practises of the Legislature, the key Assembly staff provide a wealth of information. At the top of the list is Clerk Deborah Deller. Her meeting with the interns is supplemented by meetings with Deputy Clerk Todd Decker, Clerk of Journals and Procedural Research Lisa Freedman, Clerk of Committees Tonia Grannum, a former OLIP coordinator, and Sergeant-At-Arms Dennis Clark.

Two very important individuals who meet with the interns are his Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, David Onley and the Speaker, Steve Peters, a great supporter of the Programme. Also exciting for the interns are the meetings with the Independent Officers of the Legislative Assembly. These include Auditor General Jim McCarter, Environmental Commissioner Gord Miller, Ombudsman Andre Marin, Deputy Chief Electoral Officer Loren Wells, Information and Privacy Commissioner Dr. Ann Cavoukian and Assistant Commissioners Ken Anderson and Brian Beamish.

A special group of people who impart a great wealth of information and wisdom to the interns are OLIP's Honorary Interns. These include Director of Broadcast and Recording Service Arleigh Holder, Toronto Star columnist Jim Coyle, CBC Radio Producer and Newsreader Robert Fisher, Graham Murray of G.P. Murray Research Limited and Supervisor, Circulation and News Services, Legislative Library Toni Ariganello.

Alumni also help to introduce the new interns to Ontario legislative life. We owe special thanks to the Community Manager of the Ontario Government (Cabinet Office) Meghan Warby, Chief of Staff to the Premier Christ Morley, Senior Policy Advisor (Mining) to the Minister of Northern Development, Mining and Forestry Jon Fears, Advisor on Legislative Affairs and Issues Manager to the Minister of Northern Development, Mining and Forestry Leslie de Muelles, 2009-2010 interns Paul Dilanni, Matthew Gray, Aviva Levy and Jonathan Trentadue, Special Advisor (Issues and Policy) to NDP Leader Andrea Horwath Dan O'Brien and Information and Research Coordinator (The Cabinet Office) Emma Stanley-Cochrane.

During orientation many of our sponsors meet with interns. These include Ryan Clarke of Advocacy Solutions, Chris May of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, Ted Wigdor of the Certified General Accountants of Ontario, Craig Brockwell of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, Dr. Alex Barron of the Churchill Society for the Advancement of Parliamentary Democracy, Mark Smithies of Novartis Pharmaceuticals, Cheryl Fullerton of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers Association, Kathleen Waters of LawPRO, Sheena Weir of the Law Society of Upper Canada, Ralph Palumbo of the Insurance Bureau of Canada and Matthew Thornton (OLIP Alumni) of the Ontario Real Estate Association.

Intern Educational Activities away from the Legislative Assembly

A great deal of intern education occurs away from the Legislative Assembly, the interns have already had great visits with the government and legislative officials in Ottawa, Quebec City and the Northwest Territories. In Ottawa, the interns met with Senator Bob Runciman, a former Ontario MPP and cabinet minister, MP Mike Chong, Deputy NDP Leader Thomas Mulcair, former Premier Bob Rae, House of Commons Speaker Milliken, Deputy Clerk Marc Bosc of the House of Commons, Deputy Auditor General John Wiersema, Associate Secretary to the Cabinet and Deputy Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs Janice Charette and Principal Clerk to the Senate Charles Robert.

During the intern visit to the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories in February, the interns met with the Honourable George Tuccari, the Premier of the Northwest Territories, the Honourable Floyd Roland and the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, the Honourable Paul Delorey. Interesting talks on the governance process were provided by Tim Mercer, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly and Alan Cash, Secretary to Cabinet. The interns also learned about aboriginal affairs and intergovernmental relations, and they learned about municipal affairs from his Worship, Mayor Gordon Van Tigham of Yellowknife.

For the remainder of the year, the educational activities will focus on the intern research papers. The highlight of the intern educational experience is the week-long meetings with government and parliamentary officials in Westminster at the end of June. In the recent past, the interns have met with the past cabinet ministers from the Major, Blair and Brown governments. The educational value of these meetings cannot be overstated. Usually, the most exciting meetings occur at 10 Downing Street before a tour of the British Prime Minister's residence. Also, important are the chief constitutional officers at the Wales Office, Gwydyr House, at the Northern Ireland Office, 11 Millbank and the Scotland Office, Dover House. We also meet with Canadian Officials at the Canadian High Commission, as well as CBC and BBC journalists such as Managing Editor Ann MacMillan. This year, the interns look forward to the Canada Day celebrations in Trafalgar Square.

Fundraising

By and far, this activity consumes most of my time and energy. While a few sponsors make timely payments most require numerous follow-up communications from Eithne Whaley and myself. These sponsorships are crucial if the educational component of the Programme is to be maintained. We are pleased to note that we now have two lead sponsors, the Insurance Brokers Association of Ontario and Vale. A Lead Sponsor is defined as an organization or individual that contributes $10,000 or more per year. We are also pleased to announce that Barrick Gold and Royal Bank Canada are new sponsors.

MPP Placements

The interns began their first term placements on October 12th and their second placements on February 22nd. Listed below in this report is this years placements. We are grateful to the twenty MPPs who provide a major learning experience for the interns. Over 40 MPPs expressed an interest in participating in this year's programme. There is nothing more pleasing than watching these bright, well educated young adults learn so much, so quickly, over the course of the ten months. They arrive in September knowing very little about the legislative process. Yet by the end of June, the interns seem to know everything and everybody. In the latter half of their internship, they teach me more than I can teach them.

Programme de stage à l'Assemblée législative de l'Ontario

Rapport du directeur 2010-2011

Henry Jacek, Directeur académique

Introduction

Je viens de remplir mon septième mandat à titre de directeur du Programme de stage de l'Assemblée législative de l'Ontario (PSALO). Il m'aurait été impossible de m'acquitter de ma tâche sans la présence d'une adjointe efficace et de bon conseil. Cette personne extraordinaire est Eithne Whaley, une ancienne stagiaire de la Chambre des communes britannique, qui travaille depuis huit ans au sein du programme.

Deux excellentes employées de l'Assemblée législative de l'Ontario font également partie de notre équipe de gestion ; ce sont les coordonnatrices Lorraine Luski et Anne Stokes. Lorraine occupe le poste de coordonnatrice du programme depuis sept ans. Agente de recherche au sein des Services de recherches de l'Assemblée législative, elle est elle-même une ancienne stagiaire (1983-1984). Anne est greffière adjointe à la Direction des publications parlementaires et des recherches en procédures; elle est coordonnatrice du PSALO depuis quatre ans. Je me dois de remercier également Catherine Frost, Ph. D., professeure agrégée de science politique à la McMaster University pour son aide dans la sélection des stagiaires. Catherine a été stagiaire en 1990-1991.

Chaque vendredi, l'équipe de gestion participe à une réunion de deux heures avec les dix stagiaires. Je pense exprimer le sentiment de tous – c'est-à-dire les 14 d'entre nous – en disant que c'est le moment le plus agréable de la semaine. Nous en profitons pour discuter des événements de la semaine à l'Assemblée législative, des expériences récentes des stagiaires et des activités futures du PSALO. Nous parlons aussi des projets de recherche des stagiaires, dont les résultats sont les communications présentées à ce congrès annuel de l'Association canadienne de science politique.

Nous sommes maintenant dans la troisième année de notre cohorte de dix stagiaires. Bien que nous soyons ravis d'offrir à deux autres jeunes diplômés brillants un stage dans notre programme, la hausse des coûts, notamment au chapitre de la formation des stagiaires, obèrent nos finances. Nous espérons maintenir la qualité des stages de ces dernières années, mais, pour qu'il en soit ainsi, nous aurons besoin du soutien de plus de commanditaires.

Les activités de formation des stagiaires: le volet orientation

L'un des volets essentiels du PSALO est le stage effectué par nos participants auprès de deux membres de l'Assemblée législative, l'un du côté du parti au pouvoir et l'autre du côté de l'opposition. Nos activités de formation sont toutefois tout aussi importantes. Le stage commence par une orientation en septembre. Les rencontres avec les trois chefs de parti – le premier ministre Dalton McGuinty, Tim Hudak, chef de l'Opposition officielle, et Andrea Horwath, chef du tiers parti, figurent parmi les moments forts que vivent nos stagiaires.

Afin que nos stagiaires comprennent les pratiques de l'Assemblée législative, les membres clés du personnel de l'Assemblée leur fournissent une foule de renseignements. La greffière Deborah Deller figure au sommet de la liste. Sa rencontre avec les stagiaires est complétée par des réunions avec Todd Decker, greffier adjoint, Lisa Freedman, greffière à la Direction des publications parlementaires et des recherches en procédures, et Tonia Grannum, greffière des comités et ancienne coordonnatrice du PSALO, ainsi que le sergent d'armes Dennis Clark.

Deux personnes très importantes viennent également rencontrer les stagiaires ; ce sont l'honorable David Onley, lieutenant-gouverneur de l'Ontario, et Steve Peters, le président de l'Assemblée législative de l'Ontario et un grand partisan de notre programme. Les rencontres avec les fonctionnaires indépendants de l'Assemblée législative sont également très aimées des stagiaires. Parmi eux figurent le vérificateur général Jim McCarter, le commissaire à l'environnement Gord Miller, l'ombudsman André Marin, Loren Wells, directrice générale adjointe des élections, Ann Cavoukian, Ph. D., commissaire à l'information et à la protection de la vie privée, ainsi que les commissaires adjoints, Ken Anderson et Brian Beamish.

Les stagiaires profitent en outre des vastes connaissances et des sages conseils des stagiaires honoraires du PSALO. Il s'agit d'Arleigh Holder, directeur du Service de télédiffusion et d'enregistrement, de Jim Coyle, chroniqueur au Toronto Star, de Robert Fisher, journaliste et réalisateur d'émissions radio à la CBC, de Graham Murray de G.P. Murray Research Limited et de Toni Arganello, superviseur des Services de diffusion et des nouvelles de la Bibliothèque de l'Assemblée législative.

Des anciens aident également à initier les nouveaux stagiaires à la vie législative en Ontario. Nous devons un merci spécial à Meghan Warby, gestionnaire de services communautaires du gouvernement de l'Ontario (Cabinet du premier ministre), à Christ Morley, chef du Cabinet du premier ministre, à Jon Feairs, conseiller principal en politiques (mines) au bureau du ministre du Développement du Nord, des Mines et des Forêts, à Leslie de Meulles, conseillère en affaires législatives et gestionnaire des enjeux au bureau du ministre du Développement du Nord, des Mines et des Forêts, aux stagiaires Paul Dilanni, Matthew Gray, Aviva Levy et Jonathan Trentadue des années 2009-2010, à Dan O'Brien, conseiller spécial (enjeux et politiques) auprès de Andrea Horwath, chef du NPD, et à Emma Stanley-Cochrane, coordonnatrice des recherches (Cabinet du premier ministre).

Au cours de l'orientation, bon nombre de nos commanditaires ont rencontré les stagiaires. Mentionnons Ryan Clarke d'Advocacy Solutions, Chris May de l'Institut des comptables agréés de l'Ontario, Ted Wigdor de Certified General Accountants of Ontario, Craig Brockwell de la Fédération des enseignantes/enseignants des écoles secondaires de l'Ontario, Alex Barron, Ph. D., de la Churchill Society for the Advancement of Parliamentary Democracy, Mark Smithies de Novartis Pharma Canada, Cheryl Fullerton de l'Association des enseignantes et des enseignants catholiques anglo-ontariens, Kathleen Waters de LawPRO, Sheena Weir du Barreau du Haut-Canada, Ralph Palumbo du Bureau d'assurance du Canada et Matthew Thornton (ancien stagiaire du PSALO) de l'Ontario Real Estate Association.

Les activités de formation des stagiaires en dehors de l'Assemblée législative

Plusieurs activités de formation se déroulent en dehors de l'Assemblée législative. C'est ainsi que les stagiaires ont bien profité de leurs rencontres avec des responsables gouvernementaux à Ottawa, à Québec et dans les Territoires du Nord-Ouest. À Ottawa, les stagiaires ont rencontré le sénateur Bob Runciman, anciens député provincial et ministre de l'Ontario, le député Mike Chong, le député et chef adjoint du NPD Thomas Mulcair, l'ancien premier ministre Bob Rae, le président de la Chambre des communes du Canada Peter Milliken, le greffier adjoint de la Chambre des communes Marc Bosc, le sous-vérificateur général John Wiersema, la secrétaire associée du Cabinet et sous-ministre des Affaires intergouvernementales Janice Charette et le greffier principal du Sénat Charles Robert.

Lors de leur visite à l'Assemblée législative des Territoires du Nord-Ouest en février, les stagiaires ont rencontré l'honorable George Tuccari, le premier ministre des Territoires du Nord-Ouest, l'honorable Floyd Roland et le président de l'Assemblée législative, l'honorable Paul Delorey. Des exposés intéressants sur le processus de gouvernance ont été présentés par Tim Mercer, greffier de l'Assemblée législative, et Alan Cash, secrétaire du Cabinet. Les stagiaires se sont également familiarisés avec les affaires autochtones et les relations intergouvernementales et le maire de Yellowknife, Gordon Van Tigham, les a entretenus au sujet des affaires municipales.

Pour le reste de l'année, les activités de formation seront axées sur les travaux de recherche des stagiaires. Le point culminant de la formation des stagiaires demeure la semaine de rencontres avec des députés et des fonctionnaires à Westminster à la fin de juin. Dans un passé récent, les stagiaires ont rencontré d'anciens ministres des gouvernements Major, Blair et Brown. La valeur pédagogique de ces rencontres ne saurait être surestimée. Habituellement, les rencontres les plus exaltantes ont lieu au 10 Downing Street avant une visite de la résidence du premier ministre britannique. Les principaux responsables en matière de constitution du Wales Office basé à la Gwydyr House, du Northern Ireland Office, au Millbank 11, et du Scotland Office, dans la Dover House, suscitent également beaucoup d'intérêt chez nos stagiaires. Nous rencontrons aussi des fonctionnaires canadiens au Haut-Commissariat du Canada ainsi que des journalistes de la CBC et de la BBC, comme la directrice de rédaction Ann MacMillan. Cette année, les stagiaires ont hâte aux célébrations de la Fête du Canada à Trafalgar Square.

Les collectes de fonds

Il s'agit certainement de l'activité à laquelle je consacre le plus de temps et d'énergie. Si quelques commanditaires font des versements à point nommé, il faut pour la plupart qu'Ellen Whaley et moi effectuions de nombreux suivis. Ces commandites sont d'une importance cruciale pour le maintien du volet éducatif de notre programme. Nous notons avec plaisir que nous avons maintenant deux grands commanditaires, l'Insurance Brokers Association of Ontario et Vale. Nous entendons par « grand commanditaire » une organisation ou un particulier qui verse 10 000 $ ou plus par année. Nous sommes également heureux d'annoncer que Barrick Gold et la Banque Royale du Canada se sont ajoutés récemment à la liste de nos commanditaires.

Les stages auprès des députés

Les participants ont commencé leur premier stage le 12 octobre et leur second, le 22 février. Vous trouverez ci-dessous de plus amples détails là-dessus. Nous sommes reconnaissants envers les vingt députés qui, en accueillant ces stagiaires dans leurs bureaux, leur permettent de vivre une expérience d'apprentissage très importante. Plus de 40 députés avaient indiqué qu'ils souhaitaient participer au programme cette année. Il n'y a rien de plus plaisant que de voir ces jeunes adultes brillants et bien éduqués apprendre tellement et si rapidement au cours des dix mois. Ils arrivent en septembre sachant très peu de choses à propos du processus législatif. Mais à la fin de juin, ils semblent connaître tout et tout le monde. Durant la seconde moitié de leur stage, ils m'en apprennent plus que ce je peux leur enseigner.

Parliamentary Internship Programme
2010-11 Annual Report
Garth Williams, Director

2010-11 Parliamentary Interns

In Memorium

Dr. Jean-Pierre Gaboury passed away on Thursday, March 17, 2011.

Jean-Pierre was the longest-serving Director of the Parliamentary Internship Programme, having fulfilled this role on two occasions from 1975-77 and 2002-08. He was the heart and soul of the Programme for many years, a true friend and mentor to all interns, a kind, erudite and honourable man. He cared deeply for the interns and alumni, friends and sponsors, MPs and others whom he brought into the PIP "family." In his last years as Director, Jean-Pierre worked with former interns to update the website and trace alumni through the years, two thoughtful and prescient steps that have laid an important foundation for the years ahead.

He is sorely missed.

Introduction

The 2010-11 intern year has been one of accomplishment and consolidation: building on major initiatives introduced last year by the Programme and our Alumni Association. It has been marked, also, by the energies of a remarkable group of interns (who share some of their experience through blog extracts in the attached Annex I) and, of course, the 2011 Federal Election. These themes run through the following report on Programme activities, budget and governance issues described below.

Please note the recommendation of the Advisory Board, for decision by the CPSA Board, on page 8.

Programme Activities

Intern activities focused on the three fundamental objectives of the Programme:

1. Support democracy by providing qualified assistants to Members of Parliament
2. Enrich the education of young Canadians through a unique work-study experience
3. Raise public awareness and understanding of Parliament

1. Supporting democracy: Offering tangible assistance to MPs

The 41st Class of Parliamentary Interns are a wonderfully positive and engaging group with five women and five men, from six different provinces including a former Deputy Minister's Award winner for excellence in policy development, a former freelance journalist and a CBC Radio host and producer, a Frontier College teacher-labourer, a university valedictorian, a varsity athlete, a SSHRC Fellowship winner as well as a former Parliamentary Page and a Parliamentary Guide.

After two weeks of orientation including sessions with procedural and policy experts, sponsors and former interns, the Interns interviewed over fifty Members of Parliament who had applied to the Programme. Their first allocation with Members of Parliament began on Monday, October 4, 2010 and their second allocation on Monday, January 24, 2011.

When the 2011 Federal Election was called, interns began a third allocation, with friends and sponsors of the Programme, on Wednesday, April 6, 2011. During this period, interns have been engaged in election tracking and media monitoring, public affairs as well as policy research and development.

2. An enriching educational experience

Seminar and Research Papers

Interns participated in an 11-week seminar in the fall and winter 2010 focused on the interaction of parliamentary institutions, government and Canadian political culture. Discussion was based on a short list of summer readings and a weekly reading list developed by the Director and the intern group. The seminar aims to provide a space for interns to reflect on their experience and the role of Parliament in Canadian society.

In the winter and spring, 2011, the academic focus of the Programme turns to the preparation of the interns' research papers. This year, thanks to the generosity of BMO Financial Group and the timing of the 2011 Federal Election (which forced the Programme to postpone the 41st Annual Alumni Dinner, sponsored each year by BMO Financial Group), has made it possible for five interns to present papers at the 83rd CPSA Annual Conference in Waterloo on May 18, 2011.

- Laura Bennett: Is Anyone Representing Women? An analysis of campaign websites during the 2011 Canadian federal election
- Mackenzie Grisdale: Heckling in the House of Commons
- Fraser Harland: Codifying Constitutional Conventions: The Case for a Canadian Cabinet Manual
- Lynn Matte: The Art of Neutrality: An Examination of the Role of Parliamentary Committee Chair
- Stephen Middleton: An Obstructionist Senate: Fact or Fabrication?

David Docherty kindly agreed to serve as a discussant for this session.

"Brown Bag Lunch" Speakers' Series

The "Brown Bag Lunch" Speakers' Series allows the interns to supplement their educational experience through informal discussions with policy makers and politicians from across Canada and abroad. In the past year, the Interns have met with, among others, His Excellency the Right Honourable David Johnston, the Right Honourable Paul Martin, the Honourable Grant Mitchell (former Intern), the Honourable Roméo Dallaire, the Honourable Michael Fortier, Preston Manning, Peter Mansbridge and Chantal Hébert among others.

Study Tours / Exchanges

Comparative study tours to provincial legislatures and democratic assemblies outside Canada give interns further perspective, and insight, into democratic government and the function of political institutions. In 2010-11, Interns undertook study tours to the following legislatures:

- National Assembly of Québec, November 14-18, 2010
- European Parliament, January 9-15, 2011
- United Kingdom Parliament, January 16-22, 2011
- National Assembly for Wales, January 19-20, 2011
- United States Congress, March 27-April 1, 2011
- Legislative Assembly of Nunavut, May 29-June 3, 2011

In addition, the PIP receives delegations from internship programs in a number of provinces each year. This year, the Programme hosted interns from the following provinces:

- National Assembly of Québec: November 2-5, 2010
- Legislative Assembly of Ontario: December 1-3, 2010
- Legislative Assembly of Manitoba: February 7-11, 2011
- Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan: February 27-March 4, 2011

- United States Congress: May 14-20, 2011

3. Contributing to Public Knowledge of Parliament

Sharing the intern experience with young Canadians

Last year, an effort was made to introduce a public education and outreach component to the Programme. Interns met with students at A.Y. Jackson Secondary School to share something of their enthusiasm for Parliament and their experience as staffers on Parliament Hill. They also participated in the Chair Leaders event, organized by the Canadian Paraplegic Association, raising awareness of the Programme and its objectives through media coverage of this popular non-partisan activity on Parliament Hill.

To expand on these initiatives, this year's interns met with one hundred High School students from across Canada participating in Politics Week, in Ottawa, February 27th – March 5th, 2011, in the Encounters with Canada program.

Interns: Simon Letendre, Mackenzie Grisdale, Hanna Button, Bradley Vis and Laura Bennett at Encounters with Canada (February, 2011)

In addition, discussions were begun with the Forum for Young Canadians to secure a second opportunity for Interns to speak to a national high school audience. Unfortunately, however, the 2011 Federal Election resulted in plans with both the Canadian Paraplegic Association and the Forum for Young Canadians being cancelled.

PIP Research Forum: Politics and Parliamentary Institutions:

One advantage of the timing of the 2011 Federal Election is that it has made it possible to organize, in cooperation with the Institute on Governance (IOG) and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC), a unique forum for presenting Interns' research papers to an academic and professional audience in Ottawa. In June 2011, the IOG will host the first PIP Research Forum. All ten Interns have agreed to present their papers; while the IOG will invite the Programme's sponsors and friends, alumni and public servants as well as faculty and graduate students from departments of political science in the Ottawa area.

PIP Alumni Speakers' Series

In the past two years, the Alumni Association has updated its contact database and launched a lunchtime speakers' series in Ottawa. The luncheons are held at the Rideau Club, with sponsorship kindly provided by Peter Harder (Intern 1975-76), and bring together former interns, sponsors, friends and Members of Parliament. Last year, speakers included Peter Harder, former Deputy Minister, DFAIT (Intern 1975-76) and Brian Lee Crowley, Founder, Macdonald-Laurier Institute (Intern 1976-77). This year, the series has featured:

- Honourable Grant Mitchell, Senator (Intern 1974-75)
- His Excellency, David Jacobson, Ambassador of the United States

- Honourable Maxime Bernier, PC, MP
- Jeffrey Simpson, National Affairs Columnist, Globe and Mail (Intern 1972-73)
- Honourable Hugh Segal, Senator

The Alumni Association would like to thank both the Canadian Medical Association and CGA Canada for each sponsoring a luncheon this year.

Budget and Governance

Budget Summary

Over the past three years, the Programme has managed to attract six new sponsors (four at level III and two at level II) and two new friends while reorienting the Annual Alumni Dinner as a fundraising event. At the same time, it faced, as a result of the economic crisis, a reduced contribution from one sponsor (moving from level II to level III) and the withdrawal of one other (level III).

The new contributions allowed the Programme to offer new activities while continuing to provide the academic experience, comparative study tours and unique work experience for which it is known. To do this, the Programme had to assume additional costs for an increased intern stipend, an increased honorarium for the Director and increased travel costs for comparative study-tours.

Despite these increased pressures, the support of sponsors and friends has allowed the Programme to add approximately $30,000 over the past three years to the reserve fund, bringing the total reserve fund to approximately one third of annual operating costs or close to $140,000. At its meeting on February 17, 2011, the Finance Sub-Committee recommended that, to be prudent, this amount should be increased to approximately half of operating costs.

Next year, as a result of increasing costs recommended by the Advisory Board (see below) it is expected that the annual balance will be zero unless additional sponsorship can be secured. However, there appears to be little risk of falling into deficit.

Advisory Board

Perhaps the most important innovation in the past year has been the organization of a permanent Advisory Board to encourage good governance, facilitate communication with and between stakeholder groups and provide their collective advice and assistance to the Director on strategic issues and key activities.

A number of years ago, the CPSA created the possibility of establishing an Advisory Board within the organizational structure of the Programme. The Board was established at a Special Meeting of all stakeholders on June 11, 2010. The first call for nominations was issued on October 22, 2010, and closed on November 3, 2010. The election of representatives from all stakeholder groups opened that day and closed on November 17, 2010.

The first meeting of the Advisory Board was held on December 3, 2010. At that time, the Board established a Finance Committee to review sponsorship and funding for the Programme and an Annual Dinner Committee to assist in the organization of the Dinner and to develop it as a source of funding for the Programme. At the same time, the Board was apprised of short, medium and long-term issues facing the Programme (as described in the PIP Semi-Annual Update presented to the CPSA Board on December 4, 2010).

Since that time, the sub-committees and the full Advisory Board have met a number of times in order to prepare the following recommendations for the CPSA Board.

Short Term Issues: Personnel

This year marks the end of the mandate of the current director and, most likely, will also bring the retirement of the Programme Administrator, Joanne Cartwright, from the House of Commons.

- (a) Director: The CPSA offered a second term to the current director at the CPSA Board meeting on December 4, 2010, on the understanding that compensation would be reviewed. The Finance Cub-Committee of the Advisory Board recommended, at its meeting on February 17, 2011, that the Director's honorarium be raised to twice the stipend of current interns or $44,000 per year.

This recommendation was discussed and endorsed by the Advisory Board on February 18, 2011 and is submitted for consideration by the CPSA Board at its meeting, May 18, 2011.

- (b) Administrator: At the Advisory Board meeting on February 17, 2011, the Administrator confirmed her intentions to retire in December 2011. Arrangements have been made with the House of Commons for Programme involvement in the selection of a replacement. However, her departure will mean an important loss in corporate memory and capacity that will be felt by interns, the director, CPSA and all stakeholders.

The announcement, by the current Speaker of the House of Commons, that he would not stand for election in 2011, raised a third short-term concern for the Programme. To ensure a smooth transition for the Programme to a new Speaker, it was agreed, at the Advisory Board meeting in February 17, 2011, that a small delegation of stakeholders meet with the Clerk of the House prior to the election of a new Speaker to provide her with current information on the Programme and its relationship with the Speaker and the House of Commons.

Medium and Longer Term Issues: Programme Development

While the Programme is well placed to face funding issues in the short term, it is constantly required to demonstrate value to all stakeholders and to renew and add support. The most important medium-term financial pressures come from the need to address the cost of comparative study tours, the level of compensation for the Programme Director and the value of the Interns' Stipend.

Closely related to these financial pressures are communications issues involving the need to demonstrate value to all stakeholders throughout the year, create additional value through current and new Programme activities and articulate clearly the benefits of sponsorship for current and prospective stakeholders.

- (a) Annual Dinner: At meetings of the Annual Dinner Sub-Committee on January 17, 2011, and the Finance Sub-Committee on February 17, 2011, endorsed by the Advisory Board on February 18, 2011, it was recommended that the Programme aim to make the Annual Dinner a "flagship" event for the Programme by nominating an honorary president of the event, to assist in attracting event sponsors, and inviting a former Prime Minister to address the Parliamentary community, at the Dinner, in each of the next five years.
- (b) Finance: At a meeting of the Finance Sub-Committee on January 17, 2011, it was agreed that two members of the Committee (Martin Lavoie and Carole Theauvette) identify and seek the advice of business development experts regarding ways to address the medium and long-term financial, and other, issues facing the Programme. Meetings have been held and recommendations will be discussed at the next Finance Sub-Committee meeting.

The Year Ahead

In the year ahead, the Programme will continue to work through the Advisory Board and its sub-committees to develop the Annual Dinner as a flagship event and adopt a more strategic approach to medium and longer term financial and programme issues. In the short term, it will be a priority to pursue additional financial support and manage the transition to a new Speaker and, in particular, a new Administrator in order to ensure the continuing quality of the Programme.

Already, the 2011-12 Interns have been chosen with the help of the Selection Committee:

- Mme Marie-Danielle Vachon, Deputy Principal Clerk, House of Commons
- Dr. Martin Papillon, Department of Political Science, University of Ottawa
- Ms. Rhea Laube, Graduate Student, University of Ottawa

Orientation: Mark Dance

It's the end of a long day and the rain pounds down outside the doors of Centre Block. Most of the interns have already dispersed, but Simon and I instead decide to kill some time while the storm subsides. We leave the Rotunda behind us and stroll through the high, vaulted corridors. We pass through the intricately carved entryway to the Library of Parliament. The guard glances at our fresh security passes. He nods. We grab newspapers and plop down on a couple of comfy, red couches.

After a while, my attention drifts away from the paper in my hands and my eyes wander up the walls towards the high, conical ceiling. I think about the history all around me and the depth below my feet. "This is amazing," I whisper to Simon after a while. He smiles. "I know," he replies. This is where we work. And we're starting to figure out what that means...

Working for the Bloc: Bradley Vis

Never in my wildest political dreams did I ever consider working for the Bloc Quebecois, but here I am!

When I was accepted into PIP I had a hunch that a placement with the Bloc would be the most wild and extreme political experience a British Columbian could have in Ottawa. I was right! Although politics doesn't scare me very often – working for the Bloc definitely did. I can confidently say that I am no longer scared of the Bloc. In fact, the party has been incredibly accepting and sympathetic to my presence and goals with the programme. During my first week, for example, Mr. Bouchard brought me to caucus to meet the entire party! He has also kept me hard at work with his committee preparation, projects, advocacy work and even speech writing. After spending some time in the office I can now see why other Members of Parliament voted him the best representative in the House of Commons!

Federal Election: Lynn Matte

There is a federal election underway in Canada and the Parliamentary Interns are now dutifully off of the Hill working with some of our programme sponsors for the duration. Although not something most applicants are thinking of when applying to spend 10 months working on Parliament Hill, the opportunity to waltz into the offices of places like Bombardier, the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, RBC and the Canadian Federation of Municipalities, just to name a few, and be given insider access and work to do is a bit of rush... While we are now working off the Hill, we are all closely monitoring the election campaign. Although I've voted in numerous federal elections, it has never seemed quite as personal as this one. Many of the men and women vying to represent Canadians and maintain their seats in Parliament are not strangers known only via sound bites and newspaper articles, they are people that we have had chance to sit down with to discuss topics such as how they ended up in politics, what fuels their passion for the work that they do, and how they negotiate their role within a political party with their mandate to represent an electorate that didn't unanimously vote them in....

Canadian Journal of Political Science
 End-of-year report on the Canadian Journal of Political Science (English)
 April 22, 2011
 Prepared by Csaba Nikolenyi (English Co-Editor)

This is the fifth annual report prepared on behalf of the English editorial team based at Concordia University. Our operation continues to be funded by generous contributions from the Canadian Political Science Association and Concordia's Faculty of Arts and Science in the amount of $10,000 per annum respectively.

Between January 1, 2010 and December 31, 2010 the English editorial team received a total of 115 new manuscripts (105 original studies, 6 field reviews and 4 research notes), including Dr. Keith Banting's presidential address. The editorial team is pleased to note that 2010 was the third year in a row that the Journal received over 100 new manuscripts. The number of English manuscripts published in the four volumes of the calendar year was 32 including the presidential address. Of these, 25% (8 out of 32) were published by female first authors.

The average number of days from submission to first decision was reduced in all three manuscript categories: 88.2 days for original studies (vs. 134.9 days last year); 69.8 days for field reviews (vs. 88 days last year); and 48 days for research notes (vs. 69 days last year).

During the course of the year, we issued 761 reviewer invitations to 409 individual reviewers (up from 617 last year). Unfortunately, reviewer fatigue remains a major problem: of the 761 reviewer invitations only 308 were accepted and completed. However, once an agreement was secured it took the average reviewer 35.4 days (down from 37.4 days last year) to complete an assessment.

Tables 1 through 4 provide detailed information about our authors and reviewers. Table 1 shows that the Journal continues to maintain its strong international exposure: 32% of all newly received manuscripts in 2010 came from abroad, up slightly from 2009. Within Canada, the Journal continues to receive most of manuscripts from Ontario, followed by Quebec.

Table 2 shows the distribution of subfields in which the Journal published articles throughout the year. The Journal continues to be an important outlet for scholarship in the area of Canadian politics: 25% of the manuscripts published in 2010 were in the fields of Canadian politics and institutions, followed by Political Theory, and Political Behaviour (9.4% each). The number of articles published in the field of Comparative Politics has increased considerably to 37.5% (vs. 9.4% in 2009).

Table 3 provides information about the distribution of editorial decisions in 2010. The rejection rate continued to increase and reached 65.21% of all newly submitted manuscripts (vs. 57.3% in 2009) while Revise and Resubmit decisions accounted for 30% (vs. 34.7% in 2009) of all decisions. In 2010, 5 manuscripts were rejected after having been revised and we made 36 offers of acceptance. The latter decisions were made on manuscripts that had been initially submitted in 2009.

The gender balance among authors of newly submitted manuscripts shows slight change over last year's numbers. In 2010, only 22 of all new manuscripts were submitted by female authors, down from 32 in 2009.

Rapport de fin d'année au sujet de la Revue canadienne de science politique
 Le 30 avril 2011
 Préparé par Csaba Nikolenyi (codirecteur anglophone)

Voici le cinquième rapport annuel préparé au nom de l'équipe de rédaction anglophone basée à l'Université Concordia. Nous continuons à bénéficier du généreux appui financier de l'Association canadienne de science politique et de la Faculté des arts et des sciences de Concordia, qui nous versent chacune 10 000 $ par année

Entre le 1^{er} janvier 2010 et le 31 décembre 2010, l'équipe de rédaction anglophone a reçu 115 nouveaux manuscrits (105 recherches originales, 6 études sur le terrain et 4 notes de recherche), incluant l'allocution du président, le P^r Keith Banting. L'équipe de rédaction constate avec plaisir que, pour la troisième année consécutive, plus de 100 nouveaux manuscrits ont été soumis à la revue. Le nombre de manuscrits anglais publiés dans les quatre volumes au cours de l'année civile a été de 32, en incluant l'allocution du président. Parmi eux, le quart (8 sur 32) avaient comme premier auteur une femme.

Le nombre moyen de jours entre la réception du document et la prise d'une première décision à son sujet a diminué pour les trois catégories de manuscrit: 88,2 jours pour les recherches originales (contre 134,9 jours l'année précédente), 69,8 jours pour les études sur le terrain (contre 88 l'année précédente) et 48 jours pour les notes de recherche (contre 69 jours l'année précédente).

Au cours de l'année, nous avons lancé 761 invitations – à comparer à 617 l'année précédente – à des évaluateurs potentiels (409 personnes en tout). Malheureusement, le recrutement des évaluateurs demeure un problème: seulement 308 invitations ont été acceptées et ont donné lieu à une évaluation. Par contre, une fois que la personne avait accepté, il lui fallait en moyenne 35,4 jours (contre 37,4 jours l'année précédente) pour effectuer son évaluation.

Les tableaux 1 à 4 1 à 4 fournissent des renseignements détaillés au sujet des auteurs et des évaluateurs. Le tableau 1 montre que la revue continue à avoir une forte visibilité à l'échelle internationale ; 32 % des nouveaux manuscrits en 2010 ont été soumis par des auteurs résidant à l'étranger, ce qui représente une légère augmentation par rapport à 2009. Pour ce qui est du Canada, la majorité des nouveaux manuscrits continue à provenir d'abord de l'Ontario, puis du Québec.

Le tableau 2 présente la répartition des sous-domaines dans lesquels la revue publie des articles tout au long de l'année. La revue continue à être une importante plate-forme pour les travaux de recherche traitant des diverses facettes de la politique canadienne: 25 % des manuscrits publiés en 2010 s'inscrivaient dans les domaines de la politique et des institutions canadiennes. Viennent ensuite les domaines de la théorie politique et comportement politique (9,4 % chacun). Le nombre d'articles publiés relevant de la politique comparée a nettement augmenté pour s'établir à 37,5 % (contre 9,4 % en 2009).

Le tableau 3 fournit des renseignements sur la répartition des décisions prises au sujet des nouveaux manuscrits que nous avons reçus en 2010. Le taux de rejet des nouveaux manuscrits soumis continue à augmenter et a atteint 65,2 % (contre 57,3 % en 2009) alors que la décision « À réviser et à resoumettre » représentait 30 % (contre 34,7 % en 2009). En 2010, cinq manuscrits ont été rejettés après avoir été révisés et il y eu 36 offres d'acceptation et ce, au sujet de manuscrits d'abord soumis en 2009.

La proportion hommes-femmes chez les auteurs de nouveaux manuscrits a légèrement changé par rapport à l'année précédente. En 2010, seulement 22 de tous les nouveaux manuscrits soumis provenaient de femmes (contre 32 en 2009).

Rapport annuel 2010-2011

Equipe francophone

Nicole F. Bernier, Codirectrice

Linda Cardinal, Responsable des recensions

Nicole F. Bernier (codirectrice) et Linda Cardinal (responsable des recensions) sont entrées en fonctions en juin 2009.

Le présent rapport fait état des manuscrits ayant été soumis pour publication éventuelle dans les pages de la Revue canadienne de science politique entre le 11 avril 2010 et le 21 mars 2011. Au total, vingt (20) textes ont été proposés. Ce nombre représente une augmentation de quatre (4) par rapport à 2009-2010; d'un (1) par rapport à 2008-2009; une diminution de deux (2) par rapport à 2007-2008; une augmentation de quatre (4) par rapport à 2006-2007; une diminution de sept (7) par rapport à 2005-2006; un nombre égal (0) à 2004-2005 et une augmentation de quatre (4) par rapport à 2003-2004. (Voir le Tableau 1).

Au cours de la période couverte par ce rapport, trois (3) textes ont été acceptés pour publication; sept (7) textes ont été rejetés par les évaluateuses/eurs et quatre (4) textes ont été rejetés par la codirectrice en consultation avec les conseillers de la Revue. Au moment de rédiger le présent rapport, trois (3) textes étaient sous révision pour une éventuelle re-soumission et six (6) textes étaient sous évaluation.

Cette année, le domaine « Relations internationales » est celui qui a attiré le plus grand nombre de propositions (5); suivi de Théorie/Pensée politique (4); Politique comparée (pays industrialisés) (3); Comportement politique/sociologie (3); Politique comparée (pays en émergence) (2); Politique canadienne (1); Politique locale et urbaine (1); Droit et analyse de politiques (1). Aucun manuscrit n'a été soumis dans les autres domaines. Un (1) des textes acceptés pour publication concernent le domaine Comportement politique/Sociologie; un autre Droit et analyse de politiques et un autre Relations internationales. Enfin, suite à des efforts pour accroître la visibilité internationale de la Revue (recrutement de conseillers à l'étranger, recours accru à des évaluateurs étrangers, concertation avec CUP pour augmenter la visibilité dans les forums francophones à l'étranger), cinq (5) des vingt (20) textes soumis pour publication cette année proviennent de l'extérieur du Canada (Suisse (1), France (3), États-Unis (1)).

Le tableau 3 indique que huit recensions en français ont été publiées dans le numéro 4 (43-4) de 2010 et 27 dans les trois premiers numéros de 2011 (44-1, 44-2, 44-3). Ce nombre s'explique, entre autres parce que le volume 44-1 contient neuf recensions et qu'un auteur a aussi recensé deux ouvrages dans le même texte.

Les domaines dans lesquels se situent les recensions sont aussi détaillés dans le tableau 3. Les données de 2009 et de 2010 sont présentées pour fin de comparaison. Le tiers des recensions en 2009 se situe dans le domaine de la « théorie, philosophie et pensée politique » (34 %). En 2010, ce sont les recensions dans le domaine de l'administration publique, le droit et l'analyse des politiques qui sont les plus nombreuses. En 2011, les trois numéros parus ou à paraître comprennent une majorité de recensions dans le domaine de la pensée politique, à l'instar de l'année 2009.

L'histoire politique est le deuxième domaine en importance en 2011, suivi du domaine des relations internationales et celui de l'administration publique, droit et analyse de politiques qui comprennent le même nombre de recensions. Nous constatons que les recensions dans le domaine de la politique canadienne ne sont pas très nombreuses ainsi que celles dans le domaine des femmes et de la politique.

Finalement, sont présentés, au tableau 4, la distribution des auteurs des recensions selon le genre et selon les années. Comparativement à 2010, on peut remarquer une nette amélioration de la proportion de femmes ayant rédigé des recensions. Ainsi leur pourcentage est passé de 24 % en 2010 à 35 % en 2011 (incluant le dernier numéro de 2010).

Nicole F. Bernier (Co-Editor) and Linda Cardinal (Book Review Editor) assumed their positions in June 2009.

This report looks at the manuscripts submitted for publication in the pages of the Canadian Journal of Political Science between April 11, 2010 and March 21, 2011. A total of twenty (20) text were submitted, an increase of four (4) over 2009-2010; one (1) more than in 2008-2009; two (2) fewer than in 2007-2008; four (4) more than in 2006-2007; seven (7) fewer than in 2005-2006; the same number as in 2004-2005 and four (4) more than in 2003-2004 (see Table 1).

³ Comprend les données pour le dernier numéro de 2010 et les trois premiers numéros de 2011.

⁴ Données pour les trois premiers numéros de 2010.

During the period covered by this report, three (3) texts were accepted for publication; seven (7) texts were rejected by the reviewers and four (4) texts were rejected by the co-editor in consultation with the Review's advisors. At the time of writing this report, three (3) texts were undergoing revision for later resubmission and six (6) texts were being evaluated.

This year, "International Relations" was the field that attracted the most submissions (5), followed by theory/political thought (4); comparative politics (industrialized countries) (3); political behaviour/sociology (3); comparative politics (emerging countries) (2); Canadian politics (1); local and urban politics (1); law and political analysis (1). No manuscripts were submitted in the other fields. One (1) of the texts accepted for publication was in the field of political behaviour/sociology; another in law and political analysis and a third in international relations. Finally, as the result of efforts to increase the international visibility of the Review (recruiting advisors abroad, greater use of foreign reviewers, collaboration with CUP to increase visibility in French-language forums abroad), five (5) of the twenty (20) texts submitted for publication this year came from outside Canada (Switzerland (1), France (3), United States (1)).

Table 3 shows that eight reviews in French were published in issue 4 of 2010 (43-4) and 27 in the first three issues of 2011 (44-1, 44-2, 44-3). This number is due in part to the fact that issue 44-1 contains nine reviews and one author reviewed two works in the same text.

The fields covered by the books reviewed are also detailed in Table 3. The 2009 and 2010 data appear for comparison purposes. One third of the 2009 reviews were in the field of "theory, philosophy and political thought" (34%). In 2010, reviews in the area of public administration, law and political analysis were the most numerous. In 2011, the three issues already or about to be published include a majority of reviews in the field of political thought, as in 2009.

Political history was the second largest field in 2011, followed by international relations and public administration, law and political analysis, which accounted for the same number of reviews. We note that there are not many reviews of books about Canadian politics, nor about women and politics.

Finally, shown in Table 4 is the breakdown of authors of reviews by gender and year. Compared to 2010, there has been a noticeable improvement in the proportion of women reviewers, whose percentage rose from 24% in 2010 to 35% in 2011 (including the last issue of 2010).
