

Brock University

The Department Scene:

Hevina Dashwood was granted tenure and promoted to the rank of Associate Professor. Matthew Hennigar accepted a second one-year appointment for 2004-2005. David Whorley resigned his position in the Department in order to accept a post with the Government of Canada. Jackie Dix retired from her position of many years as Departmental Seminar Coordinator. She and David will be missed.

A team of external reviewers, consisting of Thomas Hueglin (Political Science, Wilfrid Laurier University), Andrew Sancton (Political Science, University of Western Ontario), and Lewis Soroka (Economics, Brock University), was invited to conduct an academic review of the Department. Their report provides useful advice to both the Department and the University administration on several matters.

The Department's web pages have been completely redesigned, and can be consulted at <http://www.brocku.ca/politicalscience>.

Members' Activities:

Leah Bradshaw will be participating in a political theory workshop on "Citizenship and Technology" at the CPSA meetings in Winnipeg in June. She will be on sabbatical leave from January to June, 2005, and will be working on a book on tyranny.

Charles Burton spoke to the Canadian Institute of International Affairs on "China's New Global Role and the Rumours of War" at the National Arts Centre, Ottawa, in April. He also participated in a policy seminar with the Dalai Lama in Ottawa during April. He gave a series of lectures in Chinese (10 hours worth) on "Comparing the Chinese and Canadian Political Cultures" at Wuhan University in May, and also spoke at Hebei Normal University and People's University in Beijing thereafter. He will be on sabbatical leave from July to December, 2004, and will be working on a book manuscript, North Korea and the New World Order. His most recent publication is Charles Burton, Kristiana Powell, Thomas Kwasi Tiekou, with Edward Ansah Akuffo, "The African Union's Standby Force: Canadian Foreign and Defence Policy Options," Canadian Foreign Policy vol. 11, no. 1 (Fall 2004), pp. 47-80.

Terry Carroll is presenting a paper, co-authored with Barbara Wake Carroll (McMaster), titled "Civil Society, Democracy, and Development" at the CPSA meetings in Winnipeg in June. He will be on sabbatical leave from July 2004 to June 2005, carrying out research on "Democracy, Development and Inequality in Ethnically Divided Societies". This project involves spending several months doing interviews in each of Botswana, Ghana and Mauritius. His most recent publication, co-authored with Barbara Wake Carroll (McMaster), is "The Rapid Emergence of Civil Society in Botswana", Commonwealth and Comparative Politics 42:3 (forthcoming November 2004).

Hevina Dashwood presented a paper at the International Studies Association (ISA) conference in Montreal in March on "Norms Dissemination and Corporate Social Responsibility: An Assessment of Global Processes and the Global Mining Initiative".

Matthew Hennigar was awarded an Internal SSHRC Seed Grant for a project examining the Canadian federal government's attempts to influence, through legal argument, the Supreme Court of Canada's interpretation of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. His most recent publication is "Expanding the 'Dialogue' Debate: Canadian Federal Government Responses to Lower Court Charter Decisions", Canadian Journal of Political Science 37:1 (March 2004), 3-23. He also presented a paper titled "The Politics of Avoidance: The Canadian Government's Litigation Strategy in Sexual Orientation Cases" at the Southern Political Science Association meetings in New Orleans in January.

Ken Kernaghan is to receive the award for teaching excellence for the Faculty of Social Sciences, Brock University, for 2003-2004. He was Chair of the federal government Task Force on the Disclosure of Wrongdoing, which reported to the minister at the end of January. Legislation based on their report was introduced in Parliament (Bill C-25), and referred to committee.

Dan Madar will be on sabbatical leave from January to June, 2005.

Garth Stevenson presented a paper at the Midwest Political Science Association in Chicago on April 15, 2004 entitled "The Rise of Separatist Nationalism in Liberal Democratic States: Two Case Studies." His book, Unfulfilled Union: Canadian Federalism and National Unity, has just been republished in a fourth edition with a new introduction, this time by McGill-Queen's University Press.

Livianna Tossutti's recent publications include "Does Voluntarism Encourage Young Newcomers to Participate in Politics?: assessing the potential of individual and group-based forms of unpaid service", Canadian Ethnic Studies/études ethniques au Canada (2003) 35 (3): 1-15; and "A Tradition of Social Capital in Minority Communities", Canadian Diversity/Diversité Canadienne (Spring 2003) 2 (1): 17-9. She also presented two conference papers in October 2003: "Ethno-cultural Voluntarism and the Road to Political Representation and Participation," to the 17th Biennial Conference of the Canadian Ethnic Studies Association, Banff; and "Participation of Newcomers and Minorities in Canadian Political Processes," in the Policy Workshop, National Settlement Conference, Calgary.

University College of Cape Breton

The Department Scene:

Andrew Molloy concludes his two-year term as chair. David Johnson will be the new chair for a two-year term beginning 1 July 2004. Brian Howe has recently been promoted to the rank of full professor. The department is in the process of hiring a new 12-month position in International Relations and an 8-month sabbatical replacement position. The 12-month position may be turned into a probationary, tenure track position in 2005.

Department member activities:

Dr. Lee-Anne Broadhead's teaching and research have continued to focus on international relations with a primary emphasis on political economy/globalization and the environment. A recent paper brought these themes together: "The Gender Dimension to the Search for Global Justice" Canadian Woman Studies/les cahiers de la femme Vol 21/22: 4/1 (2002). In addition to this work, Lee-Anne has begun working on the social and political implications of nanotechnology (along with Dr. Sean Howard, adjunct professor in the department) specifically in the areas of environment and militarism. Lee-Anne and Sean presented a paper at the 53rd Pugwash Conference on Science and World Affairs in the summer of 2003 entitled: "Pausing on the Brink: Assessing the Security and Environmental Dangers of Nanotechnology." Subsequent to that presentation, they published a short piece, "The Heart of Darkness" in Resurgence Number 221 (Nov/Dec 2003). Lee-Anne is also a collaborator in a Canadian Institute for Health Research and Institute for Aboriginal Peoples Health (CIHR/IAPH) research project, Integrative Health and Healing, that brings together health and university researchers and Mi'kmaq communities in Atlantic Canada. She was appointed Director of UCCB's Centre for International Studies in July 2003.

Jim Guy will be going on sabbatical to complete work on the 6th edition of People Politics and Government for Pearson Education. This popular introductory text, now in its 20th year of production, is used in 28 Canadian universities and 3 U.S. universities. Jim has completed two contributions on Political Science and Taxation for the Encyclopedia of Politics: Left and Right, which is published by Golson Books in New York. The text is scheduled for publication in 2005. An updated contribution to Canada, The New Millennium Series, on "Parliamentary Government in Canada" is to be published this year. Jim is considering doing a single authored text on Canadian government with Pearson Education.

Brian Howe has had a new book (co-authored with Professor Katherine Covell) Empowering Children: Children's Rights Education as a Pathway to Citizenship approved for publication by the University of Toronto Press. It is due for release in January 2005. He also has published the articles "Child Poverty in Canada and the Rights of the Child", Human Rights Quarterly 25 (Fall 2003), 1067-1087, and "Prenatal Care and the Rights of the Child", Children's Legal Rights Journal 22:3 (Fall 2002), 2-13, and book reviews of David Herring, The Public Family in Perspectives on Political Science 33:2 (Spring 2004), 120, and William Boyce, A Seat at the Table: Persons with Disabilities and Policy Making in Canadian Public Policy 28:3 (Fall 2002), 487-488. He also presented the paper "Children's Rights Education as Citizenship Education," at the Fourth Annual International Conference of the Citizenship Education Research Network, Dalhousie University, June 2002, and received a research grant from Canadian Heritage for children's rights education, Spring 2003, and a SSHRC-CURA Award: Phase I (with Professor Katherine Covell) for a study of the implementation of the new Youth Criminal Justice Act, Spring 2003.

David Johnson and Andrew Molloy have recently been awarded a 3-year, $71,000 SSHRC Standard Research Grant to critically assess issues surrounding federal public service renewal. The full title of the project is: "The Federal Public Service Confronts Inter-Generational Change: New Professionals, New Public Management, and New Leadership in an Evolving Bureaucracy".

David Johnson has a forthcoming article for the IPAC Executive Styles' Project. "The Power of One: Premierial Leadership in Nova Scotia", in Michael Howlett, Chris Dunn, Keith Brownsey, eds., Executive Styles in Canada: Cabinet Decision-Making Structures and Practices at the Federal and Provincial Levels (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, forthcoming). David is co-editor, with Susan Hodgett and Steve Royal, both of Queen's University, Belfast, of Doing Development Differently, to be published by Fernwood Press. David was recently retained by the federal Privy Council Office and the Department of Justice to serve as an expert witness in litigation respecting the constitutionality of federal electoral boundaries in New Brunswick (Carmel Raiche et al. v. The Queen).

Andrew Molloy is Director for the Centre for Research on Employment and Work (CREW) at UCCB. Andrew is currently organizing a conference for the spring of 2005. He published a book review of Greg McElligott, Beyond Service: State Workers, Public Policy and the Prospects for Democratic Administration for Labour/Le Travail. A paper was presented on "Viewing Voters and Building Boundaries: A Critical Analysis of Electoral Distribution Law and Practice in Canada," (with David Johnson) at the Squaring the Circle: The Courts in Democratic Canada Conference, Mount Allison University in March of 2003. A paper on "Local Coal Industries in a Global Market: Change and Transition in the Cape Breton and Queensland Coal Fields" was presented to the North Atlantic Forum (NAF) Conference, University College of Cape Breton in June of 2003.

Carleton University

The Department of Political Science at Carleton University has continued to strengthen its reputation not only as one of the leading political science departments in Canada but also as an internationally recognized unit. We have made ten full or cross-listed tenure-track appointments in the last five years across all areas of political science, allowing us to continue adding to our key teaching and research strengths.

Appointments and Promotions:

We were pleased to welcome no less than six new colleagues in 2003-4. In global political economy, Randall Germain joined us from the Department of International Politics at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth. The author of The International Organization of Credit (Cambridge, 1997), he is currently finishing a British ESRC-funded project on global financial governance.

Brian Schmidt joined us from SUNY-Albany. He has also previously taught at Aberystwyth, and is the author of The Political Discourse of Anarchy: A Disciplinary History of International Relations (SUNY Press: 1998). Brian brings outstanding strengths in IR theory to the department and will further establish us as a leading centre of international relations research both in Canada and internationally.

In public policy, Vandna Bhatia joined us from McMaster, where she is completing her Ph.D with William Coleman. Her work on health policy reform has already appeared in the Canadian Journal of Political Science and we are very pleased to have her as part of our longstanding strength in public policy.

Jeff Sahadeo is cross-appointed with the Department of Political Science and Carleton's Centre for European and Russian Studies (EURUS). Jeff was previously at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville but is very glad to return home to Canada. His expertise in Russia and Central Asia reaffirms Carleton's commitment to area studies.

Additionally, Mark Wolfgram (Ph D, Wisconsin-Madison) accepted a two year term appointment with us in European politics. Mark's work on German political identity has appeared in several journals and books and he is teaching courses in European and comparative/industrial politics. Finally, Keith Child (Ph D, Queen's) joined us for a one-year appointment, teaching courses in African and comparative/developing politics, which is also his area of research.

We are also pleased to announce that Jonathan Malloy and Edward Osei-Kwadwo Prempeh have both been granted tenure after completing their probationary appointments.

Teaching and Research News:

Mira Sucharov received a $15 000 Teaching Achievement Award from Carleton for excellence in her field. Mira has become one of our outstanding teachers since joining the department in 2001, and she plans to use her award to develop and improve ways of teaching in the controversial area of Middle East politics. As well, William Walters was invited to be a Visiting Fellow in the Department of History and Civilization at the European University Institute in Florence for the spring term.

The Department did well in the 2003-4 SSHRC competition, winning three new grants all in the broad field of Canadian politics. Both Radha Jhappan and Jonathan Malloy received individual grants, for research on child pornography policy and "Canadian Evangelical Christians, Political Institutions and Political Opportunities" respectively.

As well, François Rocher was awarded a SSHRC grant as principal investigator for "Transformations des politiques publiques d'immigration, d'intégration et de citoyenneté et de la demande sociale des minorités racisées au Québec et au Canada" along with Micheline Labelle (UQAM) and Rachad Antonius (UQAM). This is the latest of three related research grants François has received. He is also a co-investigator for "Nationalisme majoritaire et diversité culturelle" with a team led by Alain-G. Gagnon (McGill) and a co-investigator for "Observatoire international sur le racisme et les discriminations" with a team led by Micheline Labelle (UQAM). Congratulations, François!

Publications:

Members of the Department continue to publish widely in a variety of media. We are pleased that our research is widely disseminated, both through the most respected refereed journals and university presses along with other more widely distributed publications. We are strongly committed both to the highest standards of scholarship and to research that is accessible and makes a difference, and we are very pleased at our ability to achieve both goals.

Recent books by department faculty include:

- Randall Germain (with Michael Kerry), eds. The Idea of Global Civil Society: politics and ethics in a globalizing era (Routledge:2004.)
- Jonathan Malloy, Between Colliding Worlds: The Ambiguous Existence of Government Agencies for Aboriginal and Women's Policy (University of Toronto Press: IPAC Series in Public Management and Governance, 2003).
- Waller R. Newell, The Code of Man: Love, Courage, Pride, Family, Country (Harper-Collins: New York, 2003)
- François Rocher (with Alain-G. Gagnon and Montserat Guibernau), eds., The Conditions of Diversity in Multinational Democracies (Montréal: Institute for Research on Public Policy, 2003)
- François Rocher and Miriam Smith, eds., New Trends in Canadian Federalism, Second Edition, (Peterborough, Broadview Press, 2003).
- Harald Von Reikhoff (with Natalie Mychajlyszyn), The Evolution of Civil-Military Relations in East Central Europe and the Former Soviet Union (Greenwood: Westport, Conn, 2004)
- Glen Williams and Michael Whittington, eds., Canadian Politics in the 21st Century, Toronto: Thomson Nelson, 2004. (With chapters by Jon Pammett, Miriam Smith, Radha Jhappan and Laura Macdonald)

Articles and Chapters:

Here is a selection of recent articles and book chapters published by members of the Department:

- Christina Gabriel and Laura Macdonald, "Beyond the Continentalist/Nationalist Divide: Politics in a North America 'Without Borders'," in Wallace Clement and Leah F. Vosko, editors, Changing Canada: Political Economy as Transformation, Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2003.
- Randall Germain, "Globalizing Accountability within the International Organization of Credit: financial governance and the public sphere", Global Society, Vol. 18, no. 3 (July 2004).
- Laura Macdonald (with Susan Franceschet), "Hard Times for Citizenship: Women's Movement in Chile and Mexico", Citizenship Studies, Vol. 8, no. 1, March 2004, pp.3-23.
- Laura Macdonald, "Gender and Canadian Trade Policy: Women's Strategies for Access and Transformation". In Claire Turenne Sjolander, Heather Smith and Deborah Stienstra, eds. Gendered Discourses/Gendered Practices, Oxford University Press, Canada, 2003, pp. 40-54.
- Jonathan Malloy, "The House of Commons Under the Chrétien Government" in G.Bruce Doern, ed., How Ottawa Spends 2003-4 (Oxford University Press: 2003)
- Fiona Robinson, "NGOs and the Advancement of Economic and Social Rights: Philosophical and Practical Controversies," International Relations, 17:1, 2003.
- Fiona Robinson, "Human Rights and the Global Politics of Resistance: Feminist Perspectives," Review of International Studies, 29, December, 2003.
- François Rocher (with Micheline Labelle), "Debating Citizenship in Canada: The Collide of Two Nation-Building Project", in Pierre Boyer, Linda Cardinal and David Headon (eds.), From Subjects to Citizens. A Hundred Years of Citizenship in Australia and Canada (Ottawa, University of Ottawa Press, 2004)
- Mira Sucharov, "A Multilateral Affair: Canada in the Middle East," in Canada Among Nations 2003: Coping with the American Colossus (Don Mills, ON: Oxford University Press, 2003).
- William Walters, "Some Critical Notes on 'Governance,'" Studies in Political Economy 73, 2004

Concordia University

During the academic year 2003-2004, we hired four tenure-track faculty, bringing our total tenured/tenure-track faculty complement to twenty-six. We also hired four limited-term faculty and we are in the process of filling a Junior Canada Research Chair in Comparative Public Policy. Our intent is to hire another two tenure-track faculty during 2004-2005 in the areas of political theory and Canadian politics. Sixteen hires have joined the department in the last six years - making them the majority of the tenured/tenure-track faculty.

We have indeed made a tremendous leap in the rebuilding our full time faculty complement but rapid increases in student enrollment leave us still playing catch-up. Had it not been for our increasing undergraduate enrollment of both programme (majors and Honours) students as well as FTEs and had we instead maintained our enrollment at the 1998 level, we would already have reached our goal of renewal of our full time faculty in 2002-2003. The challenge for us has been continually to revisit our faculty complement target in light of the consistent increases in the number of our programme students and in our undergraduate enrollment. The number of programme students has increased almost 60% in six years, from 992 in 1996-97 to 1,560 in 2003-04.

A major accomplishment this year has been to complete our proposal for a Ph.D programme and to have ushered it through approval by several university bodies. We plan to submit this proposal to the Ministry of Education in June 2004.

Sabbaticals 2004-2005:

- Dr. Brooke Jeffrey
- Dr. Peter Stoett

New Appointments in 2003-2004:

- Graham Dodds:Assistant Professor
Graham G. Dodds is completing his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania while working as a Research Fellow in the Governance Studies Program at the Brookings Institution in Washington, DC. Graham's main scholarly interests are in U.S. politics, public law, and political theory. His dissertation examines the presidential use of executive orders and their place in American political and constitutional development. Graham has published on the relationship between presidents and the press, political apologies, and game theory and Hobbes. He has taught a variety of courses at the University of Pennsylvania and also has significant work experience in U.S. government and politics.
- Ed King: Assistant Professor
Ed King expects his Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley in June 2004. He is currently engaged with completing his book on the political rhetoric and pedagogical interests of Niccolo Machiavelli, entitled Rolling a Stone for the Medici: Machiavelli as Political Pedagog. His interests include European Medieval and Renaissance political theory, the Scottish Enlightenment and more generally how rhetoric in all its forms affects the political imagination. He is working on the effect of film and television on the political assumptions of North American citizens, fanaticism as a historical phenomenon, the political future of an unconscious civilization and the etymology of narrative assumptions of North American political self-identification. His articles include the rhetoric of Adam Smith: "Adam Smith and the Logic of the Schools" The Journal of Scottish Philosophy, current edition Spring 2004 and an examination of the political allegories of Dante: "Saving Virgil" in Dante and the Unorthodox, University of Toronto Press forthcoming May 2004. He is working on a book proposal that examines the medieval basis for much of American political culture tentatively entitled The Black Knights of the White House or The Virgin in the Rose Garden: the Medieval Roots of American Political Culture. Ed King is a member of the American Political Science Association and has applied to the Canadian Political Science Association

- Leander Schneider: Assistant Professor

Leander Schneider received his Ph.D from Columbia University. During 2003-2004, he was a postdoctoral fellow in the Program in Agrarian Studies at Yale University. Schneider's research focuses on comparative politics with a specialization in development and Africa. His dissertation which dealt with the issues of democracy and development in Tanzania critically evaluates the meta-narratives of development and suggests an alternative framework to examine the role of the state, international agencies, the political imaginings, discourses and practices that shape the development field. Schneider is currently completing a book manuscript entitled Developmentality: State Paternalism in Postcolonial Tanzania. On the level of theoretical concerns, the project grapples with the theme of political authority and the question of what shapes political action. Schneider has published in journals such as The Canadian Journal of African Studies, History in Africa, International Interactions: Empirical and Theoretical Research in International Relations.

- Travis Smith: Assistant Professor

Travis D. Smith expects his Ph.D. from the Department of Government at Harvard University in 2004. His principal research interests include early modern political philosophy, bioethics, and religion and politics. His dissertation inquires into the role of medicine in early modern thought and its moral and political implications through a close examination of the works of Francis Bacon, René Descartes and Thomas Hobbes. Prof. Smith has been a teaching fellow in the Committee on Degrees in Social Studies at Harvard for two years. He is a member of the Canadian Political Science Association, the American Political Science Association, the American Philosophical Association, Civitas, and the New York State Political Science Association.

Members' Activities:

Horst Hutter

Publications:

- Nietzsche's Soulcraft (forthcoming, 2004)

Axel Hülsemeyer

Publications:

- As editor. Globalization in the Twenty-First Century: Convergence or Divergence? Basingstoke, UK: Palgrave Macmillan (2003).
- Globalization and Institutional Adjustment: Federalism as an Obstacle? Aldershot, UK: Ashgate (forthcoming 2004).

Research Grants:

- FQRSC Etablissement de nouveaux professeurs chercheurs (2004-07); $39,000; "Paths to Regional Integration in the Western Hemisphere: The Theoretical and Practical Nexus"

Award:

- Concordia Council on Student Life (CCSL) Outstanding Contribution Award for faculty in the field of teaching, academic year 2003-04.

Brooke Jeffrey

Publications:

- "The Myth of Collaborative Federalism and the New Federal Unilateralism" in Michelman and DeClercy (eds.) Emerging Trends in Canadian Politics and Federalism. Toronto: University of Toronto (2004).
- "A Constitution for Europe? Political Integration and the Lessons of the Convention on the Future of Europe" in Occasional Paper #13, Ottawa: CEPA, Library of Parliament, p. 32 (2003)

James B. Kelly

Publications:

- "Guarding the Constitution: Parliamentary and Judicial Roles under the Charter of Rights and Freedoms," in J. Peter Meekison, Hamish Telford and Harvey Lazar (eds.) Canada: The State of the Federation, 2002. Montreal: McGill-Queen's University, pp. 77-110 (2004).
- "Governing with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms," Supreme Court Law Review. Vol. 21, pp. 299-337 (2003).
- "The Supreme Court of Canada and the Complexity of Judicial Activism," in Patrick James, Donald Abelson and Michael Lusztiq (eds.) The Myth of the Sacred: The Charter, the Courts and the Politics of the Canadian Constitution. Montreal: McGill-Queen's University Press, pp. 97-122 (2002).
- "Charter Politics and Executive Supremacy in Canada," in Raymond Bazowski and Charles Smith (eds.) Rights, Politics and the Canadian Constitution: The Charter at Twenty. Montreal: McGill-Queens University Press (forthcoming, 2004).

Research Grants:

- FQRSC Etablissement de nouveaux professeurs chercheurs (2004-2007); $39,000; "Les réponses des institutions législatives à la suprématie judiciaire: l'activisme parlementaire et administratif au Canada, en Australie et en Nouvelle-Zélande".

Arang Keshavarzian

Publications:

- "A Review of Mehdi Moselm's 'Factional Politics in Post-Khomeini Iran'" in International Journal of Middle East Studies, (forthcoming 2004).
- "Field Research, Research Design, and the Tehran Bazaar," International Institute for the Study of Islam in the Modern World Newsletter, Vol. 13, December, pp. 50-51 (2003).
- "Turban or Hat, Seminarian or Soldier: State Building and Clergy Building in Reza Shah's Iran," Journal of Church and State, Vol. 45, No. 1, Winter, pp. 81-112 (2003).

Research Grants:

- FQRSC Etablissement de nouveaux professeurs chercheurs (2004-2007); $38, 090; "Zones Economiques et Arènes Politiques: les Politiques Domestiques des Zones de Libre-Echange au Moyen Orient".

Ed King

Publications:

- "Adam Smith and the Logic of the Schools" in The Journal of Scottish Philosophy, Spring (2004)
- "Saving Virgil" in Dante and the Unorthodox, University of Toronto Press (forthcoming 2004).

André Lecours

Publications:

- With Reeta Tremblay, Csaba Nikolenyi, Bassel Sallouk and Francesca Scala. Mapping the Political Landscape. An Introduction to Political Science. Toronto: Nelson (2003)
- "Moreno's Multiple Ethnoterritorial Concurrence Model: A Reformulation" in Regional & Federal Studies, (forthcoming, 2004).
- With Luis Moreno. "Paradiplomacy: A Nation-Building Strategy?" in Alain-G. Gagnon, Montserrat Guibernau and François Rocher (eds.) Conditions of Diversity in Multinational Democracies. Montréal: IRPP and McGill-Queen's University Press, pp. 267-294 (2003).
- With François Rocher. "La 'nation' ne tombe pas du ciel. Sur les rapports structurants des nationalismes en concurrence. Les cas de la Belgique et du Canada", in Raphaël Canet and Jules Duchastel (eds.) La nation en débat. Entre modernité et postmodernité. Montréal: Athena, pp. 111-133 (2003).
- With Daniel Béland. "The Politics of Territorial Solidarity: Sub-State Nationalism and Social Policy Reform in Canada, the United Kingdom, and Belgium," in Comparative Political Studies (forthcoming, 2005)

Michael Lipson

Publications:

- "Transaction Cost Estimation and International Regimes," International Studies Review, Vol. 6, No. 1 (2004).
- "Self-Determination," Encyclopedia of the World's Minorities. New York: Routledge (2004).
- "Proliferation Security Initiative" and "G-8 Global Partnership" in Eric Croddy and James J. Wirtz, (eds.) Weapons of Mass Destruction: A Global Encyclopedia, Vol. 2. Santa Monica, California: ABC-Clio (forthcoming, 2004).

Jean F. Mayer

Publications:

- "Review of Judith Teichman's The Politics of Freeing Markets in Latin America: Chile, Argentina and Mexico in Canadian Journal of Political Science, Vol.36, No.4 (2003)
- "Review of Donald Hodges and Ross Gandy's Mexico Under Siege in The Americas: A Quarterly Review of Inter-American Cultural History. (forthcoming 2004).

Research Grants:

- Concordia University General Research Fund (2004); $4,950; "Changes State-Autonomous Labor Relations in Mexico (1997-2003)".

Csaba Nikolenyi

Publications:

- With Reeta Tremblay, Andre Lecours, Bassel Salloukh, Francesca Scala. Mapping the Political Landscape: An Introduction Text and Reader. Nelson Thomson: Canada (2003).
- "Cabinet Stability in Post-Communist Central Europe", in Party Politics. Vol. 10, No. 2, pp. 123-50 (2004)
- "Coordination Problem and Grand Coalition: the Puzzle of the Government Formation Game in the Czech Republic, 1998", Journal of Communist and Post-Communist Studies. Vol. 36, No. 3, pp. 325-44 (2003).
- With Reeta Tremblay and Louis Otmar. "Peace and Conflict: Alternative Strategies of Governance and Conflict Resolution", Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis: Research and Practice. Vol. 5, pp. 123-46 (2003).
- "The Impact of the Electoral System on Government Formation: The Case of Post-Communist Hungary", in Japanese Journal of Political Science (forthcoming, 2004)
- "When the Central Player Fails", in Canadian Journal of Political Science (forthcoming 2004).
- "Review of George Tsebelis Veto Players: How Political Institutions Work in Canadian Journal of Political Science. Vol. 36, No.2, pp. 482-3 (2003).

Norrin Ripsman

Publications:

- With Jean-Marc F. Blanchard. "Qualitative Research on Economic Interdependence and Conflict: Overcoming Methodological Hurdles," in Edward D. Mansfield and Brian Pollins (eds.) Economic Interdependence and International Conflict: New Perspectives on an Enduring Debate. Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press (2003).
- With Natalie Ouimet. "Administrative Structures and Foreign Policy: A Case Study of the Early Mulroney Years," in Luc Bernier and Nelson Michaud (eds.) The Administration of Canadian Foreign Policy. (forthcoming, 2004).

Research Grants:

- With T.V. Paul; FQRSC Etablissement de nouveaux professeurs chercheurs (2004-2007); $265,200; "Globalization and National Security".

Daniel Salée

Publications:

- "Transformative Politics, the State, and the Politics of Social Change in Quebec" in Wallace Clement and Leah Vosko (eds.) Changing Canada: Political Economy as Transformation. Montreal: McGill-Queen's University Press, pp. 25-50 (2003).
- "L'État québécois et la question autochtone" in Alain G. Gagnon (ed.), Québec: État et société, tome 2. Montreal: Québec Amérique, pp. 117-147 (2003).
- "Quebec, Forty Years Later", Canadian Dimension, vol. 37, no. 5, September/October, pp. 28-29 (2003)

Research Grants:

- SSRCH (2004-2007), "Nationalismes autochtones, citoyenneté et démocratie: le cas du Québec, 1971-2003"; $212,000.

Francesca Scala

Publications:

- With Reeta Tremblay, Andre Lecours, Csaba Nikolenyi, Bassel Salloukh. Mapping the Political Landscape: An Introduction Text and Reader. Nelson Thomson: Canada (2003).
- "Experts, embryons et 'économie d'innovation' la recherche sur les cellules souches dans le discours politique au Canada", in Lien Social et Politiques, Vol. 50, Automne (2003).

Julian Schofield

Publications:

- With Micah Zenko. "Designing a Secure Iraq - a US policy prescription," Third World Quarterly, Vol. 25, No. 4, (2004)

Research Grant:

- SSHRC (2004-2007); "Militarized Political Economy: Rent Seeking and Development"; $32,990; field work to take place in Pakistan (2005), Taiwan (2005), Egypt (2006), and Brazil (2006).

Peter Stoett

Publications:

- With Allen Sens. Global Politics: Origins, Currents, Directions. Third Edition. Scarborough: ITP Nelson (2004).
- "Toward Renewed Legitimacy? Nuclear Power, Global Warming and Security." Global Environmental Politics. Vol. 3, No. 1, pp. 99-116 (2003).
- "Shades of Complicity: Towards a Typology of Transnational Crimes against Humanity", in A. Jones (ed.) Genocide, War Crimes and the West: History and Complicity. London: Zed Books (2004).
- "Geopolitics, Natural Resources, and Energy Security." In L. Tchantouridze, ed., Geopolitics: Global Problems and Regional Concerns. Winnipeg: Centre for Defence and Security Studies, pp. 63-74 (2004).
- With Dwayne Pretli. "Energy Security: A Vulnerability and Risk Analysis". Occasional Paper/Notes de Recherches, No. 22 . Centre d'études des politiques étrangères et de sécurité (CEPES), Montreal (2003).
- Co-edited with Phillippe LePrestre. Continental Ecopolitics: Canadian-American Relations and Environmental Policy. London: Ashgate (forthcoming, 2004).
- "Of Whales and People: Normative Theory, Symbolism, and the International Whaling Commission." Journal of international Wildlife Law and Conservation (forthcoming, 2004).
- "Ecosecurity and Canadian Foreign Policy: From Local to Global Impacts", in C. Pentland, et, al. (eds.) New Directions in Canadian International Security Studies, Oxford University press (forthcoming 2004).
- With H. Smith (eds.) "Exporting Sustainable Development? Conventional and Alternative Energy Policies Abroad", in Canadian Foreign Policy and the Environment. Vancouver: UBC Press (forthcoming 2004).
- "Mekong River Politics: National, Human, and Environmental Security", in P. Harris (ed.) Environmental Change and Foreign Policy, London: Earthscan (forthcoming 2004).

Dr. Stoett will be on sabbatical June 1 2004 to June 1 2005. Research to be conducted includes post-conflict environmental policy and conservation; and the role of private military corporations in peacebuilding. Destinations include Bosnia, Croatia, Kosovo, Central America, and western Africa.

Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay

Publications:

- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Kashmir" Encyclopaedia of India, Scribner (editor Stanley Wolpert), forthcoming
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Jammu and Ladakh" Encyclopaedia of India, Scribner (editor Stanley Wolpert), forthcoming
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Dogris" Encyclopaedia of Minorities, FitzRoy Publishers forthcoming
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Recent Developments and Debates in Local government in India" in Dhirender Vajpeyi edited, Local Democracy and Politics in South Asia: Towards internal decolonization? Leske+ Budrich, Opladen, Germany, 2003, pp. 47 -66.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Canada and India: Broadening and Deepening Relationship" in Canada in Asia: Foreign Policy Dialogue Series, 2003-2004, Asia Pacific foundation of Canada, Vancouver, 2003.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Globalization and Indian Federalism" in B.D. Dua and M.P. Singh edited, Indian Federalism in the New Millennium Manohar Publishers, New Delhi, 2003, pp. 335 - 350.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, Csaba Nikolenyi and Louise Otmar, "Peace and Conflict: Alternative Strategies of Governance and Conflict Resolution" Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis: Research and Practice, vol. 5, 2003, pp. 123 -146.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Pakistan" Encyclopaedia on World Terrorism, M.E. Sharpe, 2003.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay, "Pervez Musharraf" Encyclopaedia on World Terrorism, M.E. Sharpe 2003.
- Reeta Chowdhari Tremblay "Responses to the Parliamentary & Assembly Elections in Kashmir Valley, Ladakh and the Jammu Region and the State-societal Relations" in Ramashray Roy and Paul Wallace edited, 1999 Elections and Politics in India, Sage Publications, 2003, pp. 391- 424.

Student Scholarships:

- Melanie Anestis - recipient of the SSHRC Master's Canada Graduate Scholarship 2003-2004 and the CEPES Thesis Scholarship (Centre d'études des politiques étrangères et de sécurité (CEPES) UQAM/Concordia University)
- Brooke Cameron - recipient of the Jean Amiony In-Course Bursary 2003-2004, Department of Political Science.
- Elizabeth Cobbett - recipient of the Senior Women Academic Administrators of Canada (SWAAC) Graduate Student Award of Merit, 2004.
- Maha El Kadi - recipient of the John Parisella In-Course Bursary 2003-2004, Department of Political Science.
- Edmund Hoh - recipient of the CEPES Thesis Scholarship (Centre d'études des politiques étrangères et de sécurité (CEPES) UQAM/Concordia University)
- Andre Munroe - recipient of the SSHRC Master's Canada Graduate Scholarship 2004-2005.

St. Francis Xavier University

New Appointments:

- Dr. Lavinia Stan (Toronto, 2001). Dr. Stan was a recipient of the Killam post-doctoral grant in 2001-2003, as well as the recipient of the 1997-98 Merit Award for Teaching Excellency, McMaster University. She is a comparativist and works on problems of regime transition in Eastern Europe, especially Romania. See her most recent publications below.

Grants:

Five (out of nine) members of the department hold SSHRCC grants: Peter Clancy, Yvon Grenier, Rodney Haddow, Lavinia Stan, and Xu Yi-chong).

Recent Publications by Full-Time Members (2003-04):

James Bickerton (Carleton): co-author, with Stephen Brooks and Alain Gagnon, of Six penseurs en quête de liberté, d'égalité, et de communauté (Les Presses de l'Université Laval, 2003); the fourth edition of Canadian Politics, co-edited with Alain Gagnon, will be published in 2004 by Broadview Press; a commentary on the Report of the Royal Commission on Newfoundland's Place in Canada appears in the Newfoundland Studies, vol. 18, no. 2.

Peter Clancy (Queen's): author of Micropolitics and Canadian Business, to be published in 2004 by Broadview Press.

Yvon Grenier (Laval): A Spanish translation of his most recent book, From Art to Politics, Octavio Paz and the Pursuit of Freedom (Rowman and Littlefield, 2001) will appear in the summer of 2004 (Fondo de Cultura Económica, Mexico); his article "Commencement et fin de la passion révolutionnaire au Salvador," will also appear in 2004 in Communisme (Paris); an English translation of this article will appear in the Journal of Human Rights, vol.3, no.3 (September).

Rodney Haddow (Toronto): author of "Partisanship, Institutions and Public Policy: the Case of Labour Market Policy in Ontario," to be published in the Canadian Journal of Political Science in 2004.

Frank Harrison (Dunelm): author of "Russian Federalism Today," Studies in Post-Communism, Occasional Papers no.1, Center for Post-Communism Studies, St. Francis Xavier University, 2003.

Lavinia Stan (Toronto): author of Leaders and Laggards: Governance, Civicness and Ethnicity in Post-Communist Romania (East European Monograph Series, Columbia University Press, 2003); co-author with Lucian Turcescu of "The Church-State Conflict in Moldova: The Bessarabian Metropolitanate," Communist and Post-Communist Studies (December 2003) and "Politicians, Intellectuals and Academic Integrity in Romania," Problems of Post-Communism (forthcoming issue of July 2004); author of "Moral Cleansing Romanian Style" and "Democratic Delusions: Ten Myths Accepted by the Romanian Opposition," Problems of Post-Communism (July/August 2002 and December 2003 respectively); and author of "The Romanian Anticorruption Bill," Studies in Post-Communism (Jan. 2004), "From Riches to Rags: The Romanian National Christian Democrat Peasant Party," East European Quarterly (forthcoming issue of September 2004), and "Spies, Files and Lies: Explaining the Failure of Access to Securitate Files," Communist and Post-Communist Studies (forthcoming issue of September 2004).

Xu Yi-Chong (Alberta): author of Electricity Reform in China, India and Russia: The World Bank Template and The Politics of Power, and co-author, with Patrick Moray Weller, of Governance of World Trade: International Civil Servants and GATT/WTO (both to be published in 2004 by Edward Elgar Publishing).

Limited Term Appointment:

Dr. Lars Hallstrom: Author of "Gendering Governance? Civility and the Gender Gap in Poland" forthcoming in Canadian-American Slavic Studies. Fall 2004; "Eurocratizing Enlargement? EU Elites and NGO Participation in European Environmental Policy" in Environmental Politics. Spring 2004. Vol. 13. No. 1; "Eurocratizing Enlargement? EU Elites and NGO Participation in European Environmental Policy" in Carmin, J & Vandever, S. ed. EU Enlargement and the Environment: Institutional Change and Environmental Policy in Central and Eastern Europe. pp. 175-193, Forthcoming, Frank Cass Publishers. 2004; "Revitalizing Pedagogy: Teaching and Technology in the University Classroom" (forthcoming June 2004) with Denton Anthony; in Preston, D. (ed.) At the Interface/Probing the Boundaries Series. Rodopi. Amsterdam. Dr. Hallstrom was the Lead Applicant on a successful SSHRC Community University Research Alliance grant (Dec 2003), "Managing the Resources of the Acadian Forest: Building Research, Advocacy Capacities and Community Engagement in Eastern Nova Scotia" Letter of Intent (CAN$18,745 - awarded March 2004).

Huron University College (The University of Western Ontario)

Huron University College is affiliated with the University of Western Ontario, however the Department of Political Science at Huron is an autonomous unit separate from the department at Western.

Following an external review of the department in 2002/3, and in the context of a large-scale revision of undergraduate degree programmes at UWO, from September 2004 the department at Huron will begin offering new thematic political science modules in 'Ideology and Identity', 'State and Policy', and 'Globalization and Governance'. The new modules will be offered in addition to the more traditional political science specialization, major and minor programmes.

Recent publications by members of the department include:

David J. Blair

- 'The CEC's Citizen Submission Process: Still a Model for Reconciling Trade and the Environment?', Journal of Environment & Development, 12:3 (September 2003), pp.295-324.

Neil Bradford

- Cities and Communities that Work: Innovative Practices, Enabling Policies (Ottawa: Canadian Policy Research Networks, Discussion Paper F/32, 2003).
- 'Public-Private Partnership? Shifting Paradigms of Economic Governance in Ontario', Canadian Journal of Political Science, 36:5 (December 2003), pp.1005-33.
- 'Place Matters and Multi-level Governance: Perspectives on a New Urban Policy Paradigm', Policy Options (February 2004).
- 'Governing the Canadian Economy: Ideas and Politics', in Michael Whittington and Glen Williams, eds., Canadian Politics in the 21st Century, 6th ed. (Toronto: Nelson), in press.
- 'Globalization and Cities', in James P. Bickerton and Alain-G. Gagnon, eds., Canadian Politics, 4th ed. (Peterborough: Broadview Press), in press.
- 'Global Flows and Local Places: The Cities Agenda', in Bruce Doern, ed., How Ottawa Spends 2004: New Prime Minister ... New Era: Policies and Priorities for Canada (Montreal and Kingston: McGill-Queen's Press), in press.

Alfred Chan

- 'China's Fourth Generation: The New Rulers and the Secret Files', The China Journal, 50 (July 2003).
- 'The Tiananmen Papers Revisited', The China Quarterly (March 2004).

James E. Crimmins

- ed., The Death Penalty: Debates in Britain and the US, 1725-1868, 7 vols. (Bristol: Thoemmes Continuum; Tokyo: Edition Synapse, 2004).
- ed., The Opinions of Different Authors upon the Punishment of Death, Selected by Basil Montagu, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, 3 vols. (1809, 1812, 1813; Bristol: Thoemmes Continuum; Tokyo: Edition Synapse, 2004).
- (with Anne Skoczylas), 'The Early Utilitarians', Grundriss der Geschichte der Philosophie: Philosophy of the Eighteenth Century, 4 vols., ed. Helmut Holzhey (Zurich 2004), in press.
- (with Anne Skoczylas), 'Jeremy Bentham', Grundriss der Geschichte der Philosophie: Philosophy of the Eighteenth Century, 4 vols., ed. Helmut Holzhey (Zurich 2004), in press.

Paul Nesbitt-Larking

- 'Margins of Difference: Constructing Critical Political Psychology', Revista Interamericana de Psicología, 37 (2003), pp.239-252.
- 'Political Psychology in Canada', Political Psychology, 25 (2004), pp.97-114.
- (with Dr. Jonathan Rose) 'Political Advertising in Canada', in David Schultz, ed., Lights, Camera, Campaign (New York: Peter Lang), in press.

Other news from Huron:

Dr Blair will complete his term as department chair in June 2004, and will be taking a well-earned sabbatical leave in 2004/5.

Dr Bradford is the recipient of a three-year SSHRC Standard Research Grant (2001-4) for work on 'The Politics of Economic Development: Five Ontario City-Regions in a Global Age', and was recently appointed Research Fellow in Cities and Communities at Canadian Policy Research Networks.

Dr Chan is continuing research on the policy-making process during the Cultural Revolution in China, a project funded by a research grant from the Chiang Ching-kuo Foundation (2001-4).

Dr Crimmins is editing Theory of Legislation; by Jeremy Bentham. Translated from the French of Etienne Dumont, by Richard Hildreth (1840; 2nd. edn. 1864, rpt. London 1871; Bristol: Thoemmes Continuum); and (with Mark Spencer) a collection of four vols. on American Utilitarians and Critics 1789-1914 (Bristol: Thoemmes Continuum).

Dr Nesbitt-Larking will be presenting a paper on 'The Mundane as Tactical Resistance' at the 27th Annual Scientific Meetings of the International Society for Political Psychology, Lund, Sweden, July 2004. Dr Nesbitt-Larking will begin serving a five-year term as department chair from 1 July 2004.

Université Laval

La vie départementale

Notre département fêtera ses 50 années d'existence à l'automne 2004. Pour marquer cet anniversaire, l'Université Laval sera l'hôte officiel d'un colloque qui aura comme thème Penser le politique au 21^e siècle et qui se déroulera les 30 septembre et 1^{er} octobre 2004. Les séances de discussion de ce colloque regrouperont des anciens et des anciennes du département qui œuvrent dans les milieux politiques, dans l'administration publique ou privée et dans les médias, des étudiants et des étudiantes, des professeurs et des professeures de notre département ainsi que de divers départements de science politique au Canada et au Québec.

Vous trouverez, dans le site du département (<http://www.pol.ulaval.ca>), le programme du colloque et une fiche d'inscription que vous pourrez remplir et nous faire parvenir si vous souhaitez vous joindre à nous. Cette rencontre sera, à n'en pas douter, une occasion de retrouvailles et de discussions animées! Pour informations: colloque50e@pol.ulaval.ca ou (418) 656-2131, poste 4377.

Les activités de nos membres

La Chaire de recherche du Canada en sécurité internationale est fière d'annoncer la publication des deux premiers ouvrages de la nouvelle collection "Politique étrangère et sécurité" des Presses de l'Université Laval, fondée et dirigée par le professeur Jean-Sébastien Rioux. Il s'agit des deux ouvrages suivants, parus en 2004: Asie centrale et Caucase. Une sécurité mondialisée, publié sous la direction de Gérard HERVOUET, Thomas JUNEAU et Frédéric LASSERRE et Le triangle Russie/États-Unis/Chine. Un seul lit pour trois?, publié sous la direction de Frédéric BASTIEN, André LALIBERTÉ et Albert LEGAULT. La collection rassemble des ouvrages portant sur les processus d'élaboration et les effets des politiques étrangères et de sécurité. Ouverte à diverses perspectives d'analyse, elle privilégie les publications relatives aux phénomènes contemporains, à leurs acteurs, à leur évolution, à leurs causes et à leurs conséquences. Vous pouvez consulter le site de la collection (http://www.ulaval.ca/pul/recherche_collec98.html) pour vous tenir au courant des nouvelles parutions.

Louis Bélanger et Gordon Mace ont participé à un séminaire spécialisé lors du Sommet extraordinaire des chefs d'État des Amériques tenu à Monterrey au Mexique les 12 et 13 janvier 2004.

Lors du congrès annuel de l'International Studies Association qui s'est tenu à Montréal du 17 au 20 mars 2004, Gordon Mace a organisé une séance intitulée "The Dynamics of Regionalism " à laquelle ont participé le professeur Jean Mercier et trois doctorants de notre département, Flavie Major, Hugo Loiseau et Nicolas Foucras.

L'enseignement

Notre comité des programmes de premier cycle a récemment ouvert de nouvelles possibilités aux étudiants et aux étudiantes du baccalauréat. À compter de l'automne 2004, il leur sera offert de s'inscrire, s'ils le souhaitent, à l'une des six concentrations suivantes: Analyse des politiques et management public; Comportements politiques et dynamiques sociales; Idées politiques, pensée politique; Le Québec contemporain: politique et société; Relations internationales et politiques étrangères; Sociétés et régimes politiques comparés. À l'automne 2004 également, les cours de nos programmes seront contingentés et un très grand nombre de cours à option offerts au premier cycle comporteront des exigences préalables. Le comité met ainsi en œuvre des recommandations faites à la suite de l'évaluation périodique de nos programmes de premier cycle au printemps 2003.

Toujours au plan des innovations pédagogiques, mentionnons aussi la création de deux nouveaux cours à distance offerts au 1er cycle par le professeur Jean Mercier: Introduction à l'administration publique et Politiques environnementales. Des professeurs du département travaillent actuellement à la création de quelques autres cours qui seront offerts à distance. Cette initiative répond à des besoins exprimés par la communauté universitaire et à des demandes venant de l'extérieur.

Les publications

Parmi les ouvrages publiés récemment par les membres du département, mentionnons les suivants:

- FOREST, Pierre-Gerlier, Tom McINTOSH et G. MARCHILDON (dir.), The Governance of Health Care in Canada, Toronto, University of Toronto Press, 2004.
- IMBEAU, Louis M. et François PÉTRY (dir.), Politics, Institutions, and Fiscal Policy: Deficits and Surpluses in Federated States, Lanham, MD, Lexington Books, 2004.
- LEGAULT, Albert, Michel FORTMANN et Gérard HERVOUET (dir.), Les conflits dans le monde 2003. Rapport annuel sur les conflits internationaux, Québec, Institut québécois des hautes études internationales et Presses de l'Université Laval, 2003.
- LEMIEUX, Vincent et Mathieu OUIMET, L'analyse structurale des réseaux sociaux, Québec, Les Presses de l'Université Laval/De Boeck Université, 2004.
- MILNER, Henry, La compétence civique. Comment les citoyens informés contribuent au bon fonctionnement de la démocratie, Québec, Les Presses de l'Université Laval, 2004. Henry Milner est un professeur associé à notre département.
- PÉTRY, François, Guide pratique d'introduction à la régression en sciences sociales, Québec, Les Presses de l'Université Laval, 2003.
- RIOUX, Jean-Sébastien, en collaboration avec Douglas A. VAN BELLE et David POTTER, Media, Bureaucracies, and Foreign Aid. A Comparative Analysis of United States, the United Kingdom, Canada, France and Japan, New York, Palgrave Macmillan, 2004.

Les mémoires de maîtrise et les thèses de doctorat

Nous sommes particulièrement heureux d'annoncer que Caroline PATSIAS a reçu le Prix de la Fondation Jean-Charles-Bonenfant de la Journée du livre politique au Québec 2004 ainsi que le Prix du ministère des Relations internationales du Québec et du ministère des Affaires étrangères de la France pour sa thèse de doctorat Vivre-ensemble et communauté politique: entre ordres domestique et civique. Les groupes de citoyens marseillais et québécois. Caroline Patsias a complété sa thèse tout récemment sous la direction de la professeure Louise Quesnel du Département de science politique de l'Université Laval et du professeur Yves Schemel de l'Université Aix-Marseille III.

Enfin, signalons les mémoires de maîtrise déposés depuis décembre 2003:

- Zulma del Socorro ALMADA, La démocratie et les valeurs politiques dans le discours présidentiel mexicain en 2001. Directeur: Jean Crête.
- Nadine BÉDARD ST-PIERRE, La démocratisation en Afrique subsaharienne: étude du positionnement des évêques catholiques du Bénin, du Togo et du Zaïre. Directrice: Pauline Côté.
- Séménu Yao Sénam BÉDU, L'intervention des forces sous-régionales dans la résolution des conflits internes en Afrique: Le cas de l'Afrique de l'Ouest 1990-2000. Directeur: Guy Gosselin.
- Mélisande BÉLANGER, L'influence de l'occidentalisation en Bosnie-Herzégovine sur les conflits dans cette région entre 1875 et 1995. Directeur: Jean-Pierre Derriennic.
- Réjant BOUCHARD, Y a-t-il hybridation du modèle d'intervention en toxicomanie dans la région de Québec ? Directeur: Pierre-Gerlier Forest.
- Angèle BROUILLETTE, Réalisme politique et couverture médiatique de la presse écrite lors de la guerre du Kosovo. Directrice: Anne-Marie Gingras.

University of Manitoba

New Appointments:

- In January, 2004 Dr. Tami Jacoby was hired in a probationary position as Assistant Professor, effective July 1, 2004. Dr. Jacoby (BA (Hons) Manitoba; MA (Hebrew University), PhD (York)) is a specialist in Middle Eastern and comparative politics with a particular interest in the role of women in seeking a peaceful resolution of the Israeli/Palestinian conflict.

- Dr. Richard Sigurdson, Chair of the Department of Political Science, University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, New Brunswick has been appointed Dean of the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba effective July 1, 2004 and will be joining the Department of Political Studies.
- Effective July 1, 2004 Dr. Brenda O'Neill will assume the position of Provost at University College, University of Manitoba.

The Department Scene:

The Sixth Templeton Lecture on Democracy will be delivered on June 3rd in conjunction with the Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences which take place at the University in May and June 2004. The Lecture, 'Judging in a Democratic State,' will be delivered by The Rt. Hon. Beverley McLachlin, Chief Justice of Canada.

Dr Paul Thomas, Duff Roblin Professor Government in the Department, was the Recipient of the Vanier Medal for Excellence in Public Administration for 2003. The award, which is Canada's pre-eminent honour in the field of public administration, was first awarded in 1962.

The 20th Annual Political Studies Students' Conference entitled "Transformation of War in the 21st Century" was held February 5-7, 2004. The keynote speaker was Col. S. Stogran, Commanding Officer, 3rd PPCLI, Kandahar.

The 2004 Maclean's Guide to Canadian Universities lists three members of the department as among the University's "most popular Profs." They are Drs. Geoff Lambert, George MacLean and Brenda O'Neill.

Members' Activities:

George MacLean was an advisor to the Canadian Government delegation at the Netherlands-Canada Security Seminar held in October 2003 in the Hague. In November, he presented a paper "Canada and Hemispheric Security: Multilateral Processes, Multidimensional Objectives" at the "Canadian Foreign Policy After Chretien" seminar at Cuernavaca, Mexico. Dr. MacLean's chapter entitled "Canada and Multilateralism: The Longest Hour Continues" was published in Independence in an Age of Empire: Assessing Unilateralism and Multilateralism, (Dalhousie University: Centre for Foreign Policy Studies, 2004). He has accepted an offer to join the new Executive Council of the Canadian Consortium on Human Security.

Jim Fergusson participated in the Exercise "Strategic World" which he helped plan at the Canadian Forces College, Toronto, October, 2003.

Brenda O'Neill had an article entitled "Examining Declining Electoral Turnout Among Canada's Youth" published in Electoral Insight, a publication of Elections Canada, July 2003. She was also an invited participant and facilitator at the National Forum on Youth Voting organized by Elections Canada, in Calgary, in October. Dr. O'Neill was one of 225 Canadians selected to take part in the Governor General's Canadian Leadership Conference which took place May 7-21 with the theme "Diversity and Leadership". The conference will participate in study tours in different areas of the country. Dr. O'Neill was assigned to a group of 15 members who will spend 10 days in the Yukon. In the Fall of 2003, Dr. O'Neill was the recipient of a SSHRC Standard Research Grant, 2003-2006 for "Value Pluralism and Canadian Women: Feminism, Religious Beliefs and Political Opinions".

William Neville was a speaker at the Winnipeg Press Club's Award Dinner, honouring the Hon. Pearl McGonigal, former Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, in October.

Paul Thomas, Duff Roblin Professor, had "The Past, Present and Future of Officers of Parliament" appear in the Fall, 2003, issue of the Journal of Canadian Public Administration. He presented a seminar on "Performance Measurement, Reporting and Accountability" at the Saskatchewan Institute of Public Policy, in Regina, in October. Paul Thomas' article "Governing from the Centre: Reconceptualizing the role of the Prime Minister and the Cabinet" appeared in Policy Options December, 2003/January 2004. In March 2004, Dr. Thomas delivered a paper on "Change, Governance, Leadership and Accountability: The Case of the Canadian Health Care Policy System" at AIM International experts Seminar, Bath, England. He has written a paper "Debating a Whistleblow Protection Act for Employees of the Government of Canada" which will be used as the basis for testimony before two parliamentary committees. Copies available upon request. Paul Thomas has been appointed to the External Human Resources Advisory Committee of the Manitoba Lotteries Corporation.

Geoff Lambert was listed in the Maclean's Guide as one of the University of Manitoba's most popular professors for the fourth consecutive year. He is the author of the article on Manitoba which appears in the recently published Canadian Annual Review for 1997.

Margaret Ogradnick spoke at the Winnipeg Tax Centre on the subject "What do you mean, women couldn't vote?" as part of the celebration of Women's History Month in Canada, October, 2003.

Rod Yellon did a number of radio and television interviews and commentaries, both local and national, relating to developments in Iraq, from August through March.

George Knysh's latest instalment of the continuing edited translation of William of Ockham's DIALOGUS, was published on the British Academy's website.

Tami Jacoby's "To Serve and Protect: the changing dynamic of military and policing functions in Canadian foreign policy" appeared in Challenge and Change for the Military: Social and Cultural Change, edited by David Last et al, McGill-Queen's University Press.

During October 2003, Paul Buteux gave a presentation on "Canada and the Crisis in Transatlantic Relations" to the Deutschen Gesellschaft fur Auswartige Politik in Berlin; participated in a workshop on "Global Governance" at the University of Trier, and attended the annual meeting of Die Atlantik Brucke in Wurtemberg, Germany. He also participated in the Exercise "Strategic World" which he helped plan at the Canadian Forces College, Toronto.

McGill University

New Appointments:

We are pleased to announce two new appointments. Dr. Brian Rathbun comes to us from the BMW Center for German and European Studies in Washington, DC. Dr. Rathbun attained his PhD at Berkeley, working under the supervision of the late Dr. Ernst Haas. His area of expertise is in international politics, with a particular emphasis on domestic sources of foreign policy, and Europe in particular. Our second new faculty member is Dr. Erik Kuhonta, who has spent the last year on a post-doc at Stanford. Dr. Kuhonta's interests are in the politics of Southeast Asia. As of this writing, the Department has two other offers outstanding.

Departmental Scene:

These new hires are part of a broader rebuilding process at McGill, in which the Department plays a central role. We will therefore be seeking to fill additional spots in the Fall of 2004. Several of our searches will feature early deadlines, so please alert your students to these possibilities now! We will once again be seeking a specialist on African politics, and someone doing International Political Economy. We plan to have additional openings in Political Theory, Canadian Politics, and European Politics.

The Department continues to do well in terms of garnering research grants, with grants from SSHRC or FQRSC won by Elisabeth Gidengil, Dietlind Stolle, Rex Brynen, Stuart Soroka, and Juliet Johnson, to name a few. Foremost in these efforts are our junior faculty, including Dietlind Stolle who recently had her contract renewed. Making the most of his sabbatical, Christopher Manfredi's most recent book appeared this Spring, and T.V. Paul is expecting publication of his most recent edited volume before the Fall. In the coming year, Rick Schultz and Hal Waller will be on sabbatical; Catherine Lu will be spending the year at Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government. We wish them each a productive year.

Mount Saint Vincent University

New Appointments:

The department is very pleased to announce the appointment of Dr. Jeff MacLeod (PhD, Western Ontario) to a tenure track position. He comes to us from a senior policy analyst position with Health Canada during the past year. He previously served as a policy advisor to the Senate Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology in the preparation of its study of the Canadian health care system. His most recent article, published in May 2004, addresses the topical issue of the public/private divide in health care. Jeff's expertise in the area of health policy and policy processes will be a real asset in the development of our public policy program.

Also joining the department as a cross-appointment from our Women Studies Department is Dr. Meredith Ralston (PhD, Dalhousie). Dr. Ralston's academic interests include homelessness and prostitution in comparative contexts and women in politics. She has written and directed two films on Canadian women in politics and is currently working on her third film documentary on sex tourism in the Philippines. The department looks forward to applying her diverse talents in our programs.

The Department Scene:

We continue to experience significant growth in our number of majors and undergraduate enrolment. Over the past year, we have revised our new public policy program to a four year program, with the addition of significant research tool and analytic skill requirements. Dr. Michael MacMillan serves as Coordinator of the program.

Members' Activities:

Dr. Reginald Stuart returns to the department from his sabbatical term as a Fulbright Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Centre for Scholars in Washington, where he extended his research in the field of Canadian-American relations. Dr. Michael MacMillan will take a six month sabbatical from January to July 2005, in which he will develop his research on the theme of auditing democracy in the realm of civil society.

Université d'Ottawa / University of Ottawa

Feu le Département de science politique, vive l'École d'études politiques!

Au début de 2004, le Département de science politique s'est transformé en École d'études politiques. Cette nouvelle structure regroupe les programmes de science politique, d'administration publique et d'études internationales et langues modernes, les certificats en gestion publique et gouvernance, ainsi que la cogestion du programme de développement international et mondialisation. De cette façon, l'École favorisera l'étude de la vie politique par le biais d'approches tant disciplinaires qu'interdisciplinaires. La nouvelle synergie permettra en particulier d'établir des rapprochements entre les disciplines de l'administration publique et des études internationales.

Political Studies get a new home

The new School of Political Studies brings together under a single administrative structure programs in Political Science, Public Administration, International Studies and Modern Languages, certificates in Public Management and Governance, as well as provides for the joint management of the program in International Development and Globalization. This innovative new structure will promote stronger links between the disciplines of public administration and international studies, for rarely do programs in public administration address the international dimensions of public governance. For their part, international relations programs do not usually focus on administrative issues. The creation of the School provides an excellent strategic opportunity to reinforce links between the University and the public sector, thus contributing to the professional component of the School's teaching activities, already well known for their strong theoretical focus.

Nouveau personnel / New Colleagues, 2002-2003

- Dominique Arel (PhD, Illinois at Urbana-Champaign), prof. agrégé de politique comparée.
- Jacqueline Best (PhD, Johns Hopkins), prof. adjointe de relations internationales et politique mondiale.
- Stephen Brown (PhD, New York University), prof. adjoint de développement international et mondialisation.
- Claude Denis (PhD, Toronto), prof. agrégé d'administration publique.
- Monica Gattinger (PhD, Carleton), prof. adjointe d'administration publique.
- Dalie Giroux (PhD, UQAM), prof. adjointe de pensée politique.
- Dimitrios Karmis (PhD, McGill), prof. adjoint de politique comparée.
- Marie-Josée Massicotte (PhD, York), prof. adjointe de relations internationales et politique mondiale.
- Michael Orsini (PhD, Carleton), prof. adjoint de politique canadienne et de sciences sociales de la santé.
- Mark Salter (PhD, British Columbia), prof. adjoint de relations internationales et politique mondiale.
- Paul Saurette (PhD, Johns Hopkins), prof. adjoint de pensée politique.
- Kathryn Trevenen (PhD, Johns Hopkins), prof. adjointe d'études des femmes et de pensée politique (nomination conjointe avec l'Institut d'études des femmes).
- Walter Moser (PhD, Zurich), prof. titulaire en langues et littératures modernes (nomination conjointe avec le Département de langues et littératures modernes).

Nouveau personnel / New Appointments, 2004

- Michelle Bonner (PhD, Toronto), prof. adjointe de développement international et mondialisation.
- Nathalie Burlone (PhD, ÉNAP), prof. adjointe d'administration publique.

- Cédric Jourde (PhD, Wisconsin-Madison), prof. adjoint de politique comparée.
- Matthew Patterson (PhD, University of Essex), prof. agrégé de relations internationales et politique mondiale.
- Christian Rouillard (PhD, Carleton), prof. agrégé d'administration publique.

Professeurs invités / Guest Professors, 2003-2004

- Ferry de Kerckhove (ex-ambassadeur canadien en Indonésie et haut-commissaire au Pakistan), haut-fonctionnaire du Centre canadien de gestion en résidence et professeur invité en administration publique.
- Alex Munter (former municipal councillor, Ottawa), guest professor in political communication and urban studies.

Nouvelles chaires de recherche / New Research Chairs

- Chaire d'études ukrainiennes / Chair of Ukrainian Studies: Dominique Arel.
- Chaire de recherche du Canada en transferts littéraires et culturels / Canada Research Chair in Literary and Cultural Transfers: Walter Moser.
- Chaire de recherche sur la francophonie canadienne: Linda Cardinal.
- Chaire Jean-Luc-Pepin en études canadiennes / Jean-Luc Pepin Chair in Canadian Studies: titulaire à nommer.

Équipe de direction / Management Team

- Directrice de l'École et doyenne associée de la Faculté des sciences sociales / Director of the School and Associate Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences: Claire Turenne Sjolander.
- Directeur associé de l'École et responsable des études de baccalauréat en administration publique / Associate Director of the School and Supervisor of Undergraduate Studies in Public Administration: Luc Juillet.
- Responsable des études doctorales / Supervisor of Doctoral Studies: Gilles Labelle.
- Responsable des études de maîtrise / Supervisor of Master's Studies: Hélène Pellerin.
- Responsable des études de baccalauréat en science politique / Supervisor of Undergraduate Studies in Political Science: François-Pierre Gingras.
- Responsable des études de baccalauréat en études internationales et langues modernes / Supervisor of Undergraduate Studies in International Studies and Modern Languages: Jacqueline Best.
- Responsable des certificats en gestion publique et gouvernance / Supervisor of the Certificate Programs in Public Management and Governance: Monica Gattinger.

Mobilité internationale étudiante / International Student Exchanges

Le nombre d'étudiants et étudiantes de l'École intéressés à profiter des programmes d'échanges internationaux a augmenté de 400% depuis deux ans. En collaboration étroite avec le Bureau international de l'Université d'Ottawa, l'équipe de direction de l'École est en train de développer des liens avec un nombre croissant d'établissements étrangers. Selon certaines hypothèses, la proportion d'étudiants et étudiantes de l'École effectuant un séjour d'au moins un trimestre à l'étranger dans le cadre d'un programme de spécialisation pourrait atteindre 15% dès l'automne 2005.

L'Université d'Ottawa possède des ententes bilatérales pertinentes aux programmes de l'École avec 33 universités de 11 pays; elle est actuellement en pourparlers avec des établissements universitaires de 12 autres pays, dans l'espoir de porter le nombre total d'établissements d'accueil à au moins une cinquantaine.

Centre d'études en gouvernance / Governance in Print and Online

The School's Centre on Governance, headed by Prof. Claude Denis, now focuses its activities in four main areas of research: Governance and democracy; Ethics and governance; Global and North American governance; Knowledge, complexity and governance. Optimum Online (<http://www.optimumonline.ca>) continues the reputation set over the past 30 years by the printed journal Optimum: The Journal of Public Sector Management.

Sous les auspices du Centre d'études en gouvernance, c'est le professeur Gilles Paquet qui dirige les destinées d'Optimum - La revue de gestion du secteur public et sa version Internet Optimum en direct (<http://www.optimumonline.ca>).

Premier cycle / Undergraduate Studies

Beginning in September 2004, the School will offer a full range of courses in English in all its undergraduate programs (political science, international studies and modern languages, international development and globalization, public administration). Until recently, most elective courses were offered in French only. The Masters and PhD programs will continue to be taught in French only, although students are free to submit their written work (including theses) in the official language of their choice.

Avec l'ouverture d'une spécialisation en anglais et le succès rencontré par ses nouveaux programmes d'études internationales et langues modernes, de développement international et mondialisation, ainsi que d'administration publique, l'École prévoit que près de 1400 étudiants et étudiantes seront inscrits à ses programmes en septembre 2004, éclipsant ainsi le record établi en 2003.

Études supérieures et médias

La chaîne de télévision d'affaires publiques CPAC a retenu neuf étudiantes et étudiants à la maîtrise ou au doctorat en science politique à l'Université d'Ottawa comme commentateurs attirés de la campagne électorale fédérale de 2004. Répartis en trois équipes, ils ont fait une apparition en avant-première au mois d'avril, au cours d'émissions de Revue politique, diffusée quotidiennement en semaine à 19 heures. Dès le déclenchement de la campagne électorale, les trois équipes doivent se relayer chaque soir pour analyser le déroulement de la campagne. C'est le professeur François-Pierre Gingras, un habitué de CPAC, qui coordonne leur participation.

St. Thomas University

New Appointments:

Patrick Malcolmson will be stepping down as Department Chair to take on the position of Vice-President(Academic) at St. Thomas.

Tom Bateman will become Acting Department Chair, July 1, 2004. Tom Bateman joined STU in 2003. He has two degrees from the University of Calgary and a PhD in Political Science from the University of Alberta (2000). His teaching and research interests are in Canadian politics and government, constitutional law and politics, federalism, and the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. He is also interested in the relationship between liberalism and religion. Before coming to STU, Professor Bateman taught political studies at Augustana University College in Camrose, Alberta. He is co-editor (with Roger Epp) of Braving the New World: Readings in Contemporary Politics. 3rd edition. (Nelson, 2004) and has published articles in the Canadian Journal of Political Science, the International Journal of Human Rights, Policy Options, and other popular outlets. In 2003, he spent five months in the Republic of Slovakia studying the problem of corruption in the post-Communist central European countries. At STU, Professor Bateman teaches courses on Canadian politics and government, federalism, the Charter, and this autumn will co-teach a course in STU's Great Ideas program on "Technology and Human Nature."

Mikhail Molchanov joined STU in 2003. He received a MSc in Public Administration from New York (1993), PhD in Philosophy from Ukraine (1989), and PhD in Political Science from Alberta (1998). His areas of teaching are comparative and international politics. Dr. Molchanov conducts research in comparative nationalism, domestic sources of foreign policy, and political economy of transitions in Russia, Ukraine, and other post-Soviet states.

Over the last ten years, Professor Molchanov taught classes and guest lectured in Ukraine, Canada, Japan, and the USA. He has published three books in Ukraine and two books in the USA, including, most recently, Political Culture and National Identity in Russian-Ukrainian Relations (2002) and Ukrainian Foreign and Security Policy (2002, co-editor and co-author). His articles appeared in The Harriman Review, Nationalities Papers, Canadian Slavonic Papers, The Ukrainian Review, and Polis (Moscow).

At STU, Professor Molchanov teaches Comparative Politics (POLS 3306), Law, Power, and Global Politics (POLS 1603), and Honours Thesis Proposal (POLS 3913), as well as upper-level seminars in comparative politics. He says that his primary goal, as a professor at an undergraduate liberal arts university, is to expand students' critical thinking skills and knowledge of modern politics and society.

Members' Activities:

Richard Myers is taking a sabbatical leave in 2004-5, which he will be spending in Japan and China.

On July 1, 2003, Mikhail submitted his final research report for the NATO-EAPC Fellowship 2001-2003, awarded in support of Mikhail's project "Ukraine's European Choice: Pitfalls and Prospects." On September 26-28, Mikhail attended an AAPSA Conference in St. John's, NL, and presented a paper "On the Outskirts of Europe: Ukraine's and the European Union." Mikhail's web site (<http://people.stu.ca/~molchan/>) offers some links of interests and resources for political science students.

In the spring of 2004, Tom presented a paper on Canada's constitutional revolution to a conference of the Christian Legal Fellowship in Moncton, NB. He will also present a paper on commercial speech and the First Amendment of the American Constitution to the annual meeting of the Canadian Political Science Association.

Publications:

Tom Bateman

- Co-editor, with Roger Epp, of Braving the New World: Readings in Contemporary Politics. 3rd edition. (Nelson Thomson, 2004).
- Author of "The New Globalism in Canadian Charter of Rights Interpretation: Extradition, the Death Penalty, and the Courts" International Journal of Human Rights. 7:3 (Autumn 2003), 49-71.

Mikhail Molchanov

- Review of The New Economic Diplomacy: Decision-Making and Negotiation in International Economic Affairs by N. Bayne and S. Woolcock in International Affairs, 80 (2), 312-315.
- "Transnational Risks -- A New Challenge for Global Society," Berlin Roundtable (2004): http://users.ox.ac.uk/~scat1663/Berlin/Berlin-Draft_17.pdf
- * "Ukraine's European Choice: Pitfalls and prospects" (2003): <http://www.nato.int/acad/fellow/01-03/molchanov.pdf>

Shaun Narine

- Explaining ASEAN: Regionalism in Southeast Asia, 2004.

University of Saskatchewan

Retirements:

John Courtney was in his first teaching job at Brandon University when Norman Ward recruited him for Saskatchewan in 1965. He brought with him research interests that centred on the political party and branched out from there to the selection of party leaders and the concept of political leadership itself. He was to introduce here an innovative course on political leadership that proved highly popular with students-this year being no exception, with its enrolment of 40.

He wrote two books on the selection of party leaders, the later of which, Do Conventions Matter? Choosing National Party Leaders in Canada (1995) was especially timely, catching the selection process in a state of flux. A growing interest in electoral systems drew him into controversy over the wisdom of adopting proportional representation in Canada (he became the media's go-to academic on the skeptics' side of the issue) and resulted in two books: Commissioned Ridings: Designing Canada's Electoral Districts (2001), which became at once the standard source on the subject (he had his own experience as a commissioner to draw upon), and Elections: The Canadian Democratic Audit. Besides writing books, he has been an editor of five. He was co-editor of the Canadian Journal of Political Science for a three-year term.

By word and deed John Courtney has been an exponent of the view that political science is a useful study, and he has been called upon frequently to testify before parliamentary committees, render expert testimony in the courts, and advise government agencies. He has been campaign manager for a candidate for election in federal politics; moreover, the candidate was elected.

He has contributed to this University's presence internationally by delivering papers at more than a score of conferences held in other countries, and has had visiting appointments at universities in Germany and Israel, and at Harvard and Northwestern in the United States.

All will miss Professor Courtney's office door at 909 Arts which displays a fine collection of cartoons on the theme of dogs eating homework. He will continue to have an active research presence in the department, under the new title of Professor Emeritus.

David Smith, came to the University of Saskatchewan in 1964, attracted by the presence of Norman Ward, then the leading scholar in the field of Canadian government. Ward suggested that it might help to make him feel at home in his new surroundings if he did a bit of research on something local, such as the Liberal party in Saskatchewan, which had been neglected by scholars. This suggestion was to give rise to four books-one on the Liberal party in Saskatchewan and one on the party in the West, a third, with Ward as co-author, on the life of a prominent Saskatchewan Liberal politician, and the fourth an edited collection of Saskatchewan documents. His The Regional Decline of a National Party: Liberals on the Prairies (1981) received a Canadian Historical Association Certificate of Merit.

As a teacher, David Smith offered a new course on provincial government and a seminar on federalism that could be counted upon to be over-subscribed. He was to be sought out as a thesis supervisor, guiding 18 students to their M.A. degrees. He was director of graduate studies in the Department for two decades, and served a term as Department Head.

Within the last ten years he completed three books on Canadian political institutions: The Invisible Crown: The First Principle of Canadian Government (1995), The Republican Option in Canada, Past and Present (1999), and The Canadian Senate in Bicameral Perspective (2003). These works skillfully combine constitutional theory with comparative analysis; the second of them won a Smiley Prize for the best book published in the field of Canadian politics in 1998-9.

Among the many other publications to come from his pen (yes, pen) are 150 book reviews. Students visiting Professor Smith's office who had the impression he was in the middle of writing something ... well, they had the right impression. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and served for many years as Saskatchewan member of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, and has been visiting professor at universities in Japan and Australia. He has received the seldom-awarded degree of D. Litt. from this University for the quality of his work. David will continue, as Professor Emeritus, to pursue his research interests.

Andrew Hubbertz, professional affiliate in Political Studies, retired in January 2004. Andrew also served as the Head of Government Publications at the U of S Main Library. His knowledge of governmental records was and legendary, matched only by his unfailing kindness and courtesy. Andy introduced hundreds of students to the arcana of documents. We wish him well in his new home along the Rideau in Manotick, ON.

Members' Activities:

Publications

- Bohdan Kordan and Craig Mahovsky announce a new book titled: A Bare and Impolitic Right: Internment and Ukrainian-Canadian Redress, Montreal-Kingston: McGill-Queen's University Press, 2004.
- John Courtney has published Elections: Canadian Democratic Audit, Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 2004).
- Daniel Pellerin and I.D. Evrigenis have co-edited Another Philosophy of History and Selected Political Writings, Hackett Publishing Company Inc, 2004. The book is a collection of Johann Gottfried Herder's writings in a new translation.
- Kalowatie Deonandan and David Close have co-edited the forthcoming Undoing Democracy: The Politics of Electoral Caudillismo in Nicaragua, Lanham, MD: Lexington Press, June 2004. Kali also authored two chapters for the book.
- Kalowatie Deonandan contributed a chapter entitled "Guyana" to Contemporary Women's Issues Worldwide: Central and South America, edited by Amy Lind. (Englewood, Co.: Greenwood Publishing, September 2003).

Research Grants

- Unfortunately in the last issue of the Bulletin Professor Cristine de Clercy's name was inadvertently omitted as the co-recipient of a SSHRC grant. The entry should have read as follows: Professor Cristine de Clercy, a member of the Department of Political Studies at the University of Saskatchewan, is a co-recipient of a $589,100.00 SSHRC Strategic Programs and Joint Initiatives Project Funding titled "Co-operative Membership and Globalization: Creating Social Cohesion through Market Relations."
- A research team consisting of Joseph Garcea, Cris de Clercy, Don Story, Anna Hunter, Ken Pontikes, Peter Fergusson, and Don Gilchrist is conducting the research on the Saskatchewan component of the national MCRI project on Multilevel Governance headed by Bob Young and Andrew Sancton from the University of Western Ontario.

- John Courtney was awarded a three-year SSHRC research grant (2004-2007). The topic of the research is "Electoral Reform in Canada: Political Elites, Hurdles, and Lessons from Abroad".

Awards and Recognition:

Roy Romanow, a Senior Research Fellow in the Department, was appointed to the Security Intelligence Review Commission and named to the Privy Council by then Prime Minister Jean Chrétien. He was also named an Officer of the Order of Canada and was admitted to the Saskatchewan Order of Merit for his many years of public service in Saskatchewan and for his work as royal commissioner on health care.

David Smith was short-listed for the 2003/2004 Donner Prize for his book The Canadian Senate in Bicameral Perspective, University of Toronto Press. The prize is awarded annually for the best book on Canadian Public Policy.

Special Lectures:

Dr. Ken Carty, Professor of Political Science at the University of British Columbia, gave the twentieth in a series of lectures established in 1983 in honour of Mabel Frances Timlin on March 1, 2004. The topic of the lecture was "Doing Democracy Differently: has Electoral Reform Finally Arrived?".

Special Interest:

Bohdan Kordan will teach POLST 343.3 Post-Soviet Ukraine: Politics of Change and POLST 398.3 Ukraine's Foreign and Security Policy as part of St. Thomas More College's new Summer Study Abroad in Ukraine Program. The program offers U of T courses (Language, Culture, Politics, Religious Studies and History) during July and August in Lviv, Ukraine (a UNESCO World Heritage site) in partnership with the Ukrainian Catholic University.

University of Toronto

This was a year that brought significant change to the U of T Department. First, we welcomed a total of 7 new faculty members. On the main campus, Antoinette Handley (PhD Princeton) adds to our strength in comparative politics, especially African politics. Renan Levine (PhD Duke) brings expertise in American parties, elections, and decision-making.

At UTSC (aka Scarborough), Duncan Ivison (PhD LSE) put an exclamation mark around his arrival by winning the C.B. Macpherson Prize for Postcolonial Liberalism.

Meantime at the Mississauga campus, there are four new members of the Department: Anna Maria Bejarano (PhD Columbia) works on Latin American politics. Mark Lippincott (PhD U of T) strengthens the teaching corps in political theory. Wambui Mwangi (PhD Penn) works in postcolonial politics, especially in Africa. And David Pond (PhD U of T) brings insight into Canadian politics after a decade in the Ontario government. David's appointment is especially vital in light of the retirement this year of our colleague Peter Silcox.

The other development, linked in fact to the hiring boom at Mississauga, is that our colleagues at Mississauga have now officially become a Department in their own right. Graham White is the Chair of the new Department; enrolment (and faculty) expansion over the next several years should keep him busy!

(At Scarborough, political scientists are now part of a larger Department of Social Sciences, but with considerable autonomy. Only at U of T!)

Meanwhile, back downtown, Melissa Williams ends her term as Undergraduate Chair. Ran Hirschl, fresh off the publication of his book Towards Juristocracy (Harvard, 2004), will take over leadership of the undergraduate program. Don Forbes ends his term as director of the MA programs, to be succeeded by Simone Chambers. And Linda White will assume duties as the coordinator of TAs, succeeding Patricia McCarney who is now the University's Associate Vice-President (International Research and Development).

And finally, some new real estate. The Department is delighted with its new and handsomely appointed seminar room. (If you're in town, check out the room and our Friday afternoon seminar series (http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/upcoming_events.htm)). And in the same renovation project we've added a suite of new offices to accommodate what we hope will be a mini hiring boom over the next several years. More on that next time.

The list of books published this year:

- Ronald Beiner, Liberalism, Nationalism, Citizenship: Essays on the Problem of Political Community, UBC Press, 2003.
- Jacques Bertrand, Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict in Indonesia, Cambridge University Press, 2004.
- Ran Hirschl, Towards Juristocracy: The Origins and Consequences of the New Constitutionalism, Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 2004.
- Paul Kingston and Ian Spears, eds., States within States: Incipient Political Identities in the Post-Cold War Era, 2004 Palgrave/Macmillan.
- John J. Kirton and Radoslava N. Stefanova, eds, The G8, the United Nations and Conflict Prevention, Ashgate Publishing, 2003.
- Michele Fratianni, Paolo Savona, and John J. Kirton, eds, Sustaining Global Growth and Development, Ashgate Publishing, 2003
- Lawrence LeDuc, The Politics of Direct Democracy: Referendums in Global Perspective, Broadview Press, 2003.
- Ronald Manzer, Educational Regimes and Anglo-American Democracy, University of Toronto Press, 2003.
- Robert O. Matthews and Taisier Ali, eds., Durable Peace: Challenges for Peacebuilding in Africa, University of Toronto Press, 2004.
- Patricia McCarney and Richard Stren, eds., Governance on the Ground: Innovations and Discontinuities in Cities of the Developing World, Baltimore: Johns Hopkins University Press, 2003.
- Thomas L. Pangle, Political Philosophy and the God of Abraham, Baltimore, MD: The Johns Hopkins University Press, 2003, 277 pages.
- Richard Sandbrook, ed., Civilizing Globalization: A Survival Guide, Albany: State University of New York Press, 2003.
- Mark Montgomery, Richard Stren, Barney Cohen and Holly Reed, eds. Cities Transformed: Demographic Change and Its Implications in the Developing World, Washington: National Research Council, 2003.
- David A. Wolfe and Matthew Lucas, Clusters in a Cold Climate, McGill-Queen's University Press, 2004.

New Appointments:

Following a number of retirements in rapid sequence during the 1990s, our offerings in Canadian Politics were severely depleted. In a department with an established commitment to the analysis of Canadian issues and in a university with a strong interdisciplinary graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) program in Canadian Studies, this was a circumstance earnestly in search of a remedy. Accordingly our Dean supported two new appointments, one in 2002-03, and another in 2003-04. The first, Nadine Changfoot, deferred her arrival by one year, electing to complete her SSHRC Postdoctoral Research Fellowship at the University of California, Berkeley, before commencing her teaching responsibilities at Trent. The second, Miriam Smith, has transferred to us from Carleton University. We are delighted to welcome them to our community.

Nadine Changfoot completed her B.A. in Public Policy and Administration at York, her M.A. in Public Administration at Carleton and her Ph.D in Political Science at York. Professor Changfoot is a versatile scholar and teacher whose research covers Canadian politics, women and politics, law and politics and political theory and crosses disciplines with Law and Society, Women's Studies and Philosophy. Her current interests centre on gender and political theory, recognition and reconciliation. Her appreciation for the Canadian polity has been nurtured by her extensive travels throughout Canada, her participation in the women's movement, the labour movement, and her experience as a policy analyst and research analyst with the federal and Ontario provincial governments. Professor Changfoot also worked for three years in the private sector as a management consultant with an Ottawa firm. Nadine's most recent article, "Feminist Standpoint Theory, Hegel, and the Dialectical Self: Shifting Foundations," will soon appear in Philosophy and Social Criticism.

Miriam Smith attended McGill University (B.A.) and Yale University (Ph.D). From 1989-2004 she was a member of the Department of Political Science and the Institute of Political Economy at Carleton University. In 2002-03 she was Canadian Studies Visiting Professor at the University of Toronto. She is also affiliated with the Sexual Diversity Studies Program at University College, University of Toronto. Her areas of interest are Canadian and comparative politics, in particular political economy, social movements and the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender movements in Canada. She also has a strong interest in institutionalist approaches to the study of politics, Canadian political institutions and public policy. Professor Smith is the author of Lesbian and Gay Rights in Canada: Social Movements and Equality-Seeking, 1971-1995 (UTP, 1999) and, with François Rocher, co-editor of New Trends in Canadian Federalism (Broadview Press, 2nd ed., 2003.) This year she published "Segmented Networks: Linguistic Practices in Canadian Lesbian and Gay Rights Organizing," Ethnicities 4:1 (March, 2004). Forthcoming is "Resisting and Reinforcing Neoliberalism: Lesbian and Gay Organizing at the Federal and Local Levels in Canada" in Policy and Politics. Professor Smith's current projects include (1) a study of social movements and neoliberal restructuring in Canada and (2) a study of spatial scales in lesbian and gay organizing, based on a large-scale research project on the lesbian and gay voluntary sector in Toronto.

The Department Scene:

Our department sponsored or co-sponsored the visits of a number of outstanding speakers. John Ralston Saul's lecture on "The End of Globalization and the Return of the Nation State" packed the Wenjack Theatre and later turned up as a controversial essay in Harper's (March, 2004). Daniel Salée came over from Glendon College at York University and favoured us with two excellent talks based on his current research: "Facing the Limits of Political Democracy: Québec and the Political Challenges of Indigenous Peoples," and "Political Change and Social Transformation in Québec: A Status Report." Luis H. Alvarez, Commissioner for Peace in the State of Chiapas, Mexico, spoke about his role in negotiations between the government of Vicente Fox Quesada and the Zapatistas. Jointly with Champlain College, the Department of Political Studies brought the renowned commentator, journalist and historian, Gwynne Dyer to speak about current issues of terrorism, global division and the fallout from British and American involvement in Iraq. Kari Polanyi-Levitt joined the department and the International Development Studies Program to discuss development issues in the Caribbean. Political Studies also supported and helped to fund the Gilles Deleuze Conference organized by the Department of Philosophy in May. Scholars from around the world participated in this hugely successful four day event.

At the conclusion of the academic year the Department of Political Studies held a "Research Day" during which faculty members read papers based upon current research to colleagues and students. So many students turned out for the event - on a Friday! - that we had to relocate to a larger room. Professors Mark Neufeld and Christie Gombay moderated the panels which included presentations by Stacey Mayhall, Colleen O'Manique, Julian Ammirante, Derek Hall, Feyzi Baban, Davina Bhandar, Jim Driscoll and Miriam Smith. Following the final question and answer period the entire group retired to the Champlain Senior Common Room for a reception. The success of this event has suggested to us that we should try another next year, this time with the addition of a session devoted to graduate and undergraduate student papers.

Members' Activities:

Professors Andreas Pickel and Eric Helleiner have co-edited Economic Nationalism in a Globalizing World, forthcoming in 2004 with Cornell University Press. This collection asks whether economic nationalism is an outdated phenomenon in the light of globalization. The volume's contributors, pioneers in the reinterpretation of economic nationalism, explore diverse ways in which national identities and nationalism continue to shape contemporary economic policies and processes. Authors examine the question in a range of geographical contexts and issues: European Union food politics, competitiveness strategies in New Zealand, East Asian development strategies, Japanese liberalization, monetary politics in Quebec and Germany, and post-Soviet economic reforms. Professor Pickel is Guest Editor of two special issues on "Systems and Mechanisms" forthcoming in Philosophy of the Social Sciences in June and September of 2004. Also forthcoming (Chicago: Open Court) in 2004 is a translation from the German of Karl R. Popper's The Two Fundamental Problems of the Theory of Knowledge. Professor Pickel was promoted this year to the rank of Full Professor.

Derek Hall has two new articles in the works, forthcoming in 2004: "Explaining the Diversity of Southeast Asian Shrimp Aquaculture," Journal of Agrarian Change 4:3; "Japanese Spirit, Western Economics: The Continuing Salience of Economic Nationalism in Japan," New Political Economy 9:1.

Mark Neufeld has published two new articles in the 2003-04 academic year: "La economía política de la seguridad: el discurso sobre la seguridad en la política exterior canadiense posterior a la Guerra fría," in Remedía Gomex Arnau et al, eds. Las políticas exteriores de Estados Unidos, Canadá y México en el umbral del siglo XXI. (Mexico City: UNAM/CISAN, 2003); "Pitfalls of Emancipation and Discourses of Security: Reflections on Canada's 'Security with a Human Face,'" International Relations 18:1 (March, 2004). In October he received a travel grant to participate in a conference on Gramsci and International/Political Theory at the University of Nottingham. His paper was titled "From Three 'Ds' to Four 'Ps': Reflections on Neo-Gramscian IPE in Light of Luxemburg and Said." Professor Neufeld was also awarded an external SSHRC research grant of $53,000, over three years, for his project, "The 'Anti-Globalization' Movement: From Dissent to Counter-Hegemony." Beginning in July 2004, Professor Neufeld will assume the Directorship of the Trent International Political Economy Centre.

In addition to becoming the proud papa of Jamie Emre, Professor Feyzi Baban published "Community, Citizenship and Identity in Turkey," in Fuat Keyman, ed. Citizenship and Identity in a Globalizing World (London: Routledge, 2004). Forthcoming in fall 2004 in the journal, Constellations, is "Cosmopolitanism, Modernity and Political Community". Professor Baban presented a variation of the latter paper at the International Studies Association Annual meeting in Montreal, March, 2004. In the summer of 2003 Professor Baban organized a workshop in Istanbul, Turkey on the subject, "Multiple Modernities: Local Interpretations of Modernity in Distant Locales." The second leg of this workshop will take place at Trent University in fall, 2004. This project is precursor to a book to be edited by Feyzi Baban and Mark Neufeld. In the second term, Professor Baban was an invited guest lecturer at Koc University, Istanbul, Turkey. Here he spoke on "Divided Loyalties and Hybrid Identities: The Turkish Community in Berlin." On this trip he also spoke at the Centre for Turkish Studies in Berlin, Germany on the subject, "Uneasy Road to Membership: Turkey and the European Union." Professor Baban was awarded two internal SSHRC grants in 2003-04, the first (for $5000) to support "Deterritorializing the Nation: Transnational Identities and the Turkish Community in Germany," and the second (for $2000) to support "Local Responses to Modernity: Construction of National Identity in Turkey."

Our excellent part-time colleagues were also amazingly busy on top of very heavy teaching loads. Stacey Mayhall presented her paper, "Relocating the Security 'Battlefield': The 'High' Politics of Global Finance in the Pre-and Early Post- 9/11 Period" at the International Studies Association Annual Meeting in Montreal in March. Tammy Findlay presented three conference papers this year: "Movements Against Neoliberalism," at Leftwords, New College, University of Toronto in November; "State Feminism in an Anti-State Era: Gender, Democracy and Neoliberalism in Ontario," at the CPSA, University of Manitoba, in June; and "Gendered Governance: Neoliberal Restructuring and Democracy in Ontario," at The WTO and Beyond: Global Governance and State Power in the Twenty-First Century, Simon Fraser University, in July. Tammy also published three articles: "Whatever Happened to the Women's Movement?" Canadian Dimension 37:5 (Sept./Oct., 2003); "Resisting 'Tongue-Twister' Language: In Search of a Practical Feminism," in Torry D. Dickinson, ed. Community and the World: Participating in Social Change (New York: Nova Science Publishers, 2003); "Getting our Act Together: Gender, Globalization and the State," Socialism and Democracy 18:1 (January-June, 2004). Julian Ammirante read his paper, "Professional Sport and Spectacle in the age of Globalization" at the CPSA meeting in Winnipeg in June. He is currently at work on "Globalization and Professional Sport: Comparisons and Contrasts Between Hockey and European Football," forthcoming in David Whitson and Richard Gruneau, eds., Artificial Ice: Hockey, Commerce and Canadian Culture.

The Teaching Program:

With the appointment of our two new colleagues, Miriam Smith and Nadine Changfoot, we are reinforcing the department's commitment to Canadian Politics, strongly anchored by Jim Driscoll, who is cross-appointed with the Canadian Studies Program. Professor Changfoot will direct our second year course on Canadian Politics and our third year course on Women, Law and Politics. Professor Smith will take over our third year course on Canadian Political Economy. She will also offer a new third year course on United States Politics. Of particular interest to Canadianists, however, will be Professor Smith's two new courses, Multilevel Governance in Canada, at the third year level, and Citizen Politics in Canada, at the fourth year level. Both colleagues will bring valuable new expertise to the M.A. and Ph.D programs in Canadian Studies, based in the Frost Centre at Trent. They will also contribute to our graduate program in Theory, Culture and Politics.

Our Theory offerings, which are extremely popular with students, continue to be provided by Professors Jim Driscoll (Canadian Studies/Politics) and Elaine Stavro (Philosophy/Women's Studies). Globalization centres the teaching of Professors Andreas Pickel, Mark Neufeld, Feyzi Baban and Derek Hall (International Development Studies/Politics). The list of colleagues at Trent who are trained as Political Scientists but who find themselves dispersed throughout the University in our many interdisciplinary programs is quite extraordinary: David Morrison, Douglas Torgerson, Davina Bhandar, Elaine Stavro, Eric Helleiner, Robert Paehlke and Colleen O'Manique are formally Associated Faculty with cross-listed courses addressing our three major areas of concentration. Other Associated Faculty who enrich our department from other program and departmental bases include Professors Bryan Palmer, James Struthers (Canadian Studies), Stephen Bocking (Environmental and Resource Studies), Christopher Huxley, James Conley (Sociology), Mark Dockstator, David Newhouse (Native Studies), and Margaret Hobbs (Women's Studies). As a Department of Political Studies we mirror increasingly the evolving interdisciplinary pedagogy and research orientation of Trent University.

New Appointments:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Waterloo is very pleased to welcome Bessma Momani and Sonny Lo to the department.

Bessma Momani will be joining the University of Waterloo's Departments of Political Science and History teaching international organizations and governance as well as Middle East politics and history. Her research interests include the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, economic integration, Third World development, structural adjustment policies, Middle East politics, and international trade. Dr. Momani's current projects and publications include an examinations of Fund recruitment and surveillance, the IMF and the war on terrorism, promoting US private investment in the Middle East, and the American sponsored Middle East Free Trade Agreement.

Sonny Lo will be joining the Department of Political Science teaching comparative politics including Chinese politics and the politics of Asia. Formerly an Associate Professor in the Department of Politics and Public Administration, Hong Kong University, his books include Political Development in Macau (The Chinese University Press 1995), The Politics of Democratization in Hong Kong (Macmillan, 1997) and Governing Hong Kong: Legitimacy, Communication and Political Decay (Nova, 2001). Dr. Lo is now completing a book about organized crime in Greater China.

Members' Activities:

Gerry Boychuk will be on sabbatical in 2004/2005 as a Fulbright Visiting Chair at Michigan State University.

York University

New Appointments:

The Department of Political Science appointed three new faculty members in entry-stream, tenure-track positions for the academic year commencing July 1, 2004.

Anna Agathangelou joins us in the field of Women and Politics. Since completing her Ph.D. in Political Science at Syracuse University (1997), she has taught at Oberlin College and held the position of Director of the Global Change Institute in Cyprus, a non-profit organization for social change. Anna is currently teaching at the University of Houston, where she will continue until she begins teaching at York in January 2005. Anna just published her book, The Global Political Economy of Sex: Desire, Violence and Insecurity in Mediterranean Nation-States.

Thomas Klassen is an addition to our ranks in Canadian Politics - Public Policy and Administration. Thomas has held a position in the Department of Social Science at York since 2001. He has taught at both Trent University and Ryerson University and also brings 10 years experience with the Ontario government to his new post. Thomas completed a post-graduate diploma in Public Administration at Carleton University (1985) and his Ph.D. in Sociology at University of Toronto (1995). He is currently working on his third book, Fashioning labour market regimes: Parties, institutions and globalization in Canadian public policy.

Gabrielle Slowey takes up our first appointment in Canadian Politics with a specialization in Aboriginal Politics. Gabrielle earned her Ph.D. in Political Science at the University of Alberta (2003) and has since been a SSHRC Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Toronto; her project is titled "Federalism and First Nations: Locating Aboriginal Self-Determination within the Canadian Federation." Slowey will continue her Postdoc until December and begin teaching in January 2005.

Visiting Scholars:

Christopher Rude will be joining us for the 2004-05 academic year. He is a Ph.D. candidate in Economics at New School University, New York. Christopher will be teaching as well as conducting research in connection with a Canada Research Chair project Finance, Production and Empire.

Awards and Grants:

We were honoured to have Isabella Bakker named 2004 Fulbright New Century Scholar, under the program theme Toward Equality: The Global Empowerment of Women. Bakker will explore the relationship between the structures of global governance and the empowerment of women in an era of intensified globalization. She will spend five months as a Visiting Scholar at the United Nations Division for the Advancement of Women.

Stephen Gill received a Fulbright Award. He will be in residence at the Department of Sociology, New York University. His project, American Supremacy in the Millennial World Order, analyzes a central area of policy concern not only to the US but also to the entire world: US world order strategies.

SSHRC awards were conferred as follows:

- Anne Bayefsky: An Effective International Human Rights Treaty System
- Shannon Bell: Fast Bodies and Cyber Humans
- Stephen Gill: American Supremacy in the Millennial World Order

Research Development Leave:

- Ann Denholm Crosby: Security in a Post-Westphalian Era

Books Published:

Our faculty were prolific in the publishing of books this past academic year:

- Aijaz Ahmad Afghanistan, Iraq and the Imperialism of our Time.
- Isabella Bakker and Stephen Gill (editors and contributors) Power, Production and Social Reproduction: Human In/security in the Global Political Economy.
- Patrick Bond Talk Left, Walk Right: South Africa's Frustrated Global Reforms; Against Global Apartheid: South Africa meets the World Bank, IMF and International Finance; (coauthored with Masimba Manyanya) Zimbabwe's Plunge: Exhausted Nationalism, Neoliberalism and the Search for Social Justice.
- Nergis Canefe Turkey and European Integration.
- David Dewitt Development and Security in Southeast Asia (contributing author and co-editor with Carolina Hernandez). Volume One: The Environment; Volume Two: The People; Volume Three: Globalization.
- Stephen Gill Power and Resistance in the New World Order.
- Susan Henders (editor and contributor) Democratization and Identity: Regimes and Ethnicity in East and Southeast Asia.
- Stephen Newman (editor and contributor) Constitutional Politics in Canada and the United States.
- Ann Porter Gendered States: Women, Unemployment Insurance and the Political Economy of the Welfare State in Canada, 1945-1997.